POPE STRIKES AT NAZI RULE

SEES ECONOMIC TREND VITAL TO ISSUE ON COURT

Some 15 Democrats May Decide Fight.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 21.—[Special.]—That the outcome of the struggle over President Roosevelt's project to pack the Supreme court with New Dealers will be determined by economic conditions is the growing opinion in congress.

The Democratic party, which is split wide open on the question, will decide whether Mr. Roosevelt is to win or lose. In fact, the decision devolves upon a little group of about fifteen Democrats in the senate who stand uncommitted today and hold the balance of power.

If, in the next four or five months expected to elapse before the President's bill comes to a vote, industrial strife should become more menacing to national peace and welfare, if the country should be gripped with the fear of a runaway inflation, Mr. Roosevelt probably would gain enough Democratic votes to win, on the ground of facilitating emergency action to meet the crisis.

May Lead to Dictator.

The theory would be that the country could be saved only by legislation to control wages, hours of labor, industry and prices, and that such legislation could be validated only by a Supreme court that would reverse the decisions holding the NRA and AAA unconstitutional. It would be a theory in effect that the emergency required a de facto dictator.

The President and his supporters are already cautiously advancing the argument that to cope with these alarming economic trends he should be clothed with the power to make his remedies effective. It is evident that the President, playing for time in which to round up the majority he now lacks, is relying to an important degree upon the fear motive for success. Opponents of the judiciary bill admit that herein lies their greatest danger of defeat.

Seek Greater Power.

The line of cleavage between proponents and opponents of the scheme to pack the court is virtually identical with that which divides the Democrats on the question of policies to cope with industrial strife and with inflation. In general the proponents are those who contend that the President needs more power to avert the disasters of which Chairman Eccles of the federal reserve board and other administration officials have given warning. The opponents hold that the desired end can be best accomplished by a wise use of existing powers and even by a curtailment of certain powers, the exercise of which is promoting inflation.

Urge Reversal of Policies.

The opposition, leaping with avidity upon Chairman Essles' warning, demands that the President reverse the policies that are producing inflation. The President and his supporters stand pat on his policies, but ask for the power to check at the spigot the inflation his policies have generated at the source.

Thus the opposition contends that the surest way of halting inflation is to balance the budget in the 1938 fiscal year and that the more retrenchment in expenditures is effected the less it will be necessary to increase taxes to balance the budget.

Requires Money Control.

To avert an inflationary boom requires the control of money rates and banking policy, according to the critics of administration policy. This, they contend, the administration already possesses. It can even, if it so desires, revise the value of the dollar upward. Incidentally, it long has been contended that some of the most important causes of inflation are traceable to an undervaluation of the dollar by the Roosevelt administration.

One of the chief component elements of inflation is a dangerous expansion of bank credit, the orthodox method of controling which, the opposition contends, is the upward revision of money rates to discourage unsound borrowing. So long as the budget remains unbalanced, however, the administration is likely to resist even a moderate increase in interest rates which would reduce the favorable rates at which it can sell government obligations in pursuance of its policy of artificial enhancement of purchasing power.

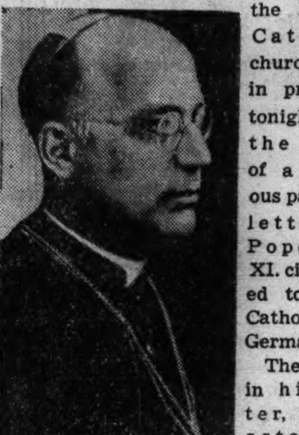
ASSAILS HITLER AS TRYING TO STIFLE CHURCH

Concordat Broken, Pontiff Charges.

BERLIN, March 21.—(AP)—A fresh breach between Nazi Germany and the Roman Catholic church was in prospect tonight as the result of a vigorous pastoral letter by Pope Pius XI. circulated to the Catholics of Germany.



Bishop Preysing.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

The pope in his letter, which astounded even German Catholics, accused the Nazi régime of having violated the German-Vatican concordat of 1933 and encouraging anti-Christian movements.

The principles of the Catholic faith were presented in the pontiff's pronouncement in such sharp contrast to the philosophical teaching of Nazi-ism that Catholic circles in Berlin fully expected the Nazi government to cancel the concordat. This belief was strengthened by an editorial in tomorrow morning's issue of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's Voelkischer Beobachter. The editorial was interpreted as an answer to the pope's communication.

The pope's letter arrived in Berlin only late last night. It was delivered to the various parishes secretly by messengers in automobiles. At the Berlin cathedral it was read by Count Conrad von Preysing-Lichtenegg-Moos, bishop of Berlin.

Prepare for Open Fight.

Late this afternoon the bishop summoned all Berlin members of Catholic men's societies to a special meeting, in the course of which he told his flock of the gravity of the situation and adjured them to be prepared for an open fight with the Nazi régime.

The pope's letter was in three parts. The first dealt with the Nazis' alleged breach of the concordat, which was concluded July 22, 1933, to end the conflict between Germany and the Holy See.

The second part dealt with faith in God, faith in Christ, the true church, the authority of the pope and the morals, rights, and duties of parents.

The third part reasserted the pope's love even for those of his flock in Germany who have strayed from the right path and prays for the restoration of real peace between the church and state.

Reviews Pact's History.

Reviewing the history of the concordat, the pope said that he signed it, "despite grave misgivings, because we believed it to be to the interests of the church and the German people."

"If its terms were not kept, that is not the fault of the church," the pontiff said. "The other side made unfair interpretation of the concordat, evaded its provisions, undermined its content, and finally more or less openly violated its stipulations and the unwritten law governing its actions."

Opposes Nazi Attitude.

Addressing the German Catholics, the letter continued:

"We shall not fail to continue to champion your rights before the leaders of your people, irrespective of temporary success or failure, and obedient only to our conscience and our duties as shepherd, we shall continue to oppose an attitude that seeks to stifle guaranteed rights by open or covert show of force."

The most striking feature of the second part, which dealt with matters of Catholic faith, was the sharp issue it took with the assertion of Naziism that it is "Gottglaeubig," or believing in God. The letter said:

"He is not 'Gottglaeubig' who merely knows how to use that word oratorically. Whoever raises the concepts of race, or people for the state, or the form of government beyond mundane evaluations and makes hea-

7 KILLED, 50 WOUNDED AS NATIONALISTS RIOT AT PONCE, PORTO RICO

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, March 21.—(AP)—Capt. Felipe Blanco, district police chief in Ponce, said tonight seven persons were killed and at least 50 wounded in Ponce during a nationalist riot. Ponce is 50 miles southwest of here on the south coast.

The dead included civilians and one policeman, he reported. Besides a number of civilians, six policemen were wounded. Twenty-two nationalist women and 46 men were arrested. The conflict broke out when the nationalists determined to carry out an announced afternoon parade for which a battalion of the "Daughters of Liberty" at first had received a permit, but which the police later ordered canceled.

Police were parading the streets in midafternoon and crowds were gathering when a natic allegedly opened fire, wounding a policeman. The police, who were armed with riot guns, submachine guns and tear gas, then opened fire on the crowd. Two bus loads of police from San Juan departed for Ponce late this afternoon.

Find Liquor in School Punch; 14 Suspended

Sycamore, Ill., March 21.—[Special.]—Cocktails made by pouring liquor into the high school party punch have brought the suspension of 14 students of the Sycamore Community High school.

And the drys are exulting and the not-so-drys are blushing over the incident, for Sycamore's election battle over local option is scarcely a month off, April 20.

Three of the suspended students are girls. One basketball star is numbered among the boys.

Proves Embarrassing.

The embarrassing thing about it all, from the standpoint of the students, is that the only way they can get back is to come in with one or both parents by the hand, confess to Superintendent R. A. Lease, and apologize. One of the girls has already done it and has been reinstated, but some of the boys are understood to be dourly contemplating going out to look for jobs.

School officials aren't the only ones aroused over the affair. Because accusations have been made that the community's 12 taverns have been selling liquor to youngsters, Sherif O. N. Larson and Chief Dewey Harris of the police are conducting separate investigations.

The party, called the ice carnival and dance—although the only ice was in the punch—was held in the high school gymnasium Saturday night, with Superintendent Lease and Miss M. Florence Martin of the faculty among the chaperons. When Superintendent Lease noticed that one of the boys seemed a trifle happier than boys usually get—on punch—he began discreet inquiries.

Reveal Punch Spiked.

They revealed that the punch had been spiked not in the bowl but in the cups from which the spikers drank. One of the boys, the superintendent learned, had raided his dad's private stock. The others, it has been hinted, just went out and bought the stuff.

Superintendent Lease intimated today that if necessary there would be more suspensions among the 350 students in this community of 4,000 population. "If we have to suspend half the students, we will operate the school the way it should be operated with those who are left," was the way he put it.

The party was given for the benefit of the school paper, "Leaves," of which Miss Martin is faculty advisor. It made $70, almost three times as much as any previous benefit party.

Significance of the incident in the fight to make Sycamore dry was seen in an open letter drawn up after the Sunday service in the First Methodist church. It termed the situation "shocking," and called upon city officials to halt the sale of liquor to minors if it is being sold to them.

Asks Citizens to Act.

The letter urged citizens to give "earnest consideration" to the proposal to prohibit the sale of liquor.

Among the ten who signed it were Ira Wetzel, a former teacher in the school, and Lois Dysart, a teacher in the grade school. Others were Mrs. E. E. Johnson, Rupert J. Jordan, Mrs. Flora Collier, Charles D. Reiter, O. T. Willard, Frank Ernest, W. W. Wood, and G. E. Beck.

FATHER AND SON HELD WITH PAL AS ROBBERS OF WOMEN IN SHOP

Timothy Twohig, 42 years old, and his son, Jack, 18, of 3832 Arthington street, were locked up as alleged robbers yesterday with Joseph Callahan, 36 years old, who said he lived at 3001 Washington boulevard.

The three, it is charged, went into the delicatessen of Mrs. Rae Reiss at 3801 Harrison street, and pretending they had guns, robbed her and her daughter, Freidella, of $30.

Mrs. Reiss told Fillmore police that she recognized two of the men as the robbers who held her up and took $15 on Dec. 10. Sergt. Michael Fleming and a squad soon arrested the Twohigs and Callahan on clews given by Mrs. Reiss who identified the trio. She signed robbery complaints against the Twohigs in both cases and one against Callahan.

Burglars Loot Scott Street Home of Mrs. Frank Porter

Burglars stole a mink coat valued at $1,300, and silverware, jewelry, and clothing of undetermined value from the seventh floor apartment of Mrs. Marie Porter at 60 East Scott street last night. She is the widow of Frank S. Porter, former president of the Chicago Latin school. Mrs. Porter is on her way home from Pasadena, Cal., and the exact loss will not be known until her arrival. Gertrude Asholderbach, the maid, discovered the burglary on her return from a stroll.

Push Manhunt After Rape by Masked Killer

In hunting a masked rapist who yesterday morning took a girl, 20 years old, from her escort and drove her to a lonely section of the Chicago Lawn district, police were convinced he is the same masked robber who on the night of March 11 shot and killed Mrs. Mary Irwin, the wife of a policeman.

Twenty-five detectives were on his trail and they felt certain he lives somewhere in that section of the southwest side of the city. His description was broadcast as follows: "Age, 20 to 25; weight about 135 pounds; height about 5 feet 7 inches; wore no overcoat; spoke good English in an ordinary manner; appeared ready to kill at a moment's notice and bragged he was no amateur."

Certain About Reappearance.

Capt. William Collins of the Chicago Lawn district, who had charge of the hunt for the slayer of Mrs. Irwin, said he had no doubts about the hunted man's reappearance late Saturday night in the vicinity of the Irwin murder, which occurred at 57th and Troy streets.

Yesterday's victim is Miss Ann Weiner, 3242 Douglas boulevard, a business college student and the daughter of Rabbi Isaac Weiner. Her attacker wore the same kind of mask as Mrs. Irwin's assailant. It was black and of the masquerade type. About midnight he approached Miss Weiner and Harold Shapiro, 21 years old, 1845 West 35th street, at West 52d street and La Crosse avenue, where Shapiro had stopped his automobile.

Shapiro, a student at the Chicago Normal college, was taking Miss Weiner home from a party. Out of the shadows the masked rapist appeared, revolver in hand, and ordered both to get out of the car. He searched Shapiro and took his pocketbook and after opening Miss Weiner's purse returned it to her and ordered both to get back in the car.

Gets into Car with Couple.

He crowded into the front seat with them, still brandishing his revolver, and drove the car to Archer and Cicero avenues where he ordered Shapiro to get out.

"Keep your trap closed and you'll get your car back," he said to Shapiro before departing. "But if you go to the police before 8 or 9 o'clock in the morning you'll find this lady dead, and I am not fooling."

Shapiro disregarded the warning and ran to a telephone and notified the police, giving the license number of his automobile. Squads started searching for it at once.

The masked rapist meanwhile blindfolded Miss Weiner and drove around for about fifteen minutes, telling her he was no amateur and would just as soon kill her as look at her and he would slay her if she made a sound. Finally he parked the car and attacked the girl.

Second Holdup of Night.

Then he drove to 64th street and Pulaski road, where he told the seriously injured young woman to get out. He abandoned the car at 65th street and Springfield avenue. When he put Shapiro out of the automobile he told him, "Walk a few blocks and you'll find a car I took in another stickup."

It was the machine of Edward Kaufman, 1915 West 51st street, whom the outlaw had robbed of $90 and the car at 6923 South Karlov avenue. This automobile was abandoned near the point where Miss Weiner and Shapiro were kidnaped.

Capt. Collins said he believed Miss Weiner's attacker was not the same man who earlier Saturday night fled after slugging Mrs. Martha Holmes, 42 years old, within a couple of blocks of her home at 1032 North Humphrey nue, Oak Park.

Mrs. Irwin, wife of Policeman Robert Irwin of the Maxwell street station, was killed by a masked robber as she and her daughter, Mary, 13 years old, were walking to their home at 5504 South Albany avenue. Mrs. Irwin was shot before she had time to think of resisting. This quick trigger action marked him as an amateur.

Prepare Palace of League Against War Air Attacks

[Copyright: 1937: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, March 21.—The wave of preparation throughout Europe against sudden night air raids has reached the league of nations palace. Secretariat officials are now working on plans to black out the whole vast structure at the first alarm. The plans are being made as a result of a Swiss law requiring all buildings in Switzerland to be put into shape for black out [lights out] operations by April 1, and to make roofs as safe as possible against incendiary bombs and cellars comfortable as living quarters.

BY WILLIAM O'NEIL.

Professional agitators with communistic sympathies, carefully trained for their duties in a New York City labor college, are the storm troopers and the backbone of the present strike wave. This statement was made yesterday by Make Mills, retired police lieutenant and the present civilian head of the industrial section of the Chicago police department.

The Reuther Brothers, Top to Bottom: Roy, Walter, and Victor.

"Men whose communistic education was begun abroad are taught the latest steps in agitation methods in New York and are sent out to work as union organizers," Mills said. "They are trained to stay in the background when trouble starts, as they are too valuable to be caught, but they do the work that starts the trouble.

"These men spread out through cities and towns, working within unions and other organizations. The Chrysler company's trouble at this time is not due to wages, but to this insidious agitation—the aim of which is the destruction of capitalism."

Strikes from Propaganda.

Mills asserted that the present taxicab strike here, as well as the strikes in Detroit, is the result of propaganda spread among workers by these agents.

Three brothers—Walter, Roy, and Victor Reuther—organizers for the United Automobile Workers' union in Michigan, are given as examples of storm troopers as disclosed by Lieut. Mills. Walter and Victor spent some time in Russia and then returned to the New York labor college to finish off their education in industrial combat. All the brothers have been in the forefront of the activities of John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization on behalf of the U. A. W.

The brothers, however, have allowed themselves to become well known to police and the public, contrary to the training given to professional agitators. Mills claims that the agitators who follow the training and remain in the background are far harder to combat than was the old time labor leader who openly led his men into forceful measures to make a strike effective.

How the Agitators Work.

"The taxicab strike here serves as an excellent example of the way these trained agitators work," Mills said. "The process was simple. Among the taxicab drivers, as among any large group of workmen, were men who are communistic, but who are not professionally trained.

"The professional agitators started first on these amateur believers in Marxism and made them the leaders of the strike. Meanwhile, the agitators remained in the background, directing and advising, but never leading."

Detroit police say that the same system has been lending backbone to the strikers there, including those in the automobile industry. The police have been unable to carry out any investigation of the men occupying the Chrysler plants, but during the General Motors strike the U. A. W.

storm troopers streamed into Flint from points as far south as Anderson, Ind., to help the sitdowners hold the Fisher body plants.

Hard to Find Agitators.

Victor and Roy, the Reuther boys who were active in Flint, stepped out of undercover work into the open when it seemed that phase of their work had been completed. Officials say it was impossible in Flint, and it is impossible in Detroit, to single out the men who push from behind when the leader in front cries "action."

The prosecuting attorney in Detroit, investigating a sitdown strike in the Frank & Seder department store there, found that only 17 of the 550 employés belonged to the union. They were aided in the strike, he said, by "stiffeners," who included Louis [Whitey] Miller, a convicted kidnaper; Louis Satren, who has a police record in several western cities, and Julius Berzanski, arrested in Memphis, Tenn., on a charge of passing worthless checks.

The Detroit police charged that members of the old Purple gang were involved in the strike at the Newton Packing company. They arrested Louis Fleischer, an organizer for the meat cutters' union, who was identified as a member of the Purple gang with a fifteen year record as a criminal.

Others with Records Seized.

Joseph Trasko, Alex Greenfield, and Sam Millman were others who were arrested and investigated for their part in Detroit strike activities. Millman had previously been arrested twenty-two times and Trasko twice.

Among thirty-seven striking "taxicab drivers" arrested during the riots in the loop last Wednesday were three men, George Burns, alias Louis Gold; Mike Nitti, and Casimir Koblyenski, alias Joseph Kable, all of whom had police records.

However, such men as these, according to Mills, are not the chief worry of the law enforcement agencies. When, under the guidance of professional agitators, these men with police records come out into the open to do the violence, they can be readily apprehended and punished. Most of them are well known police characters who are merely hired to do a particular job.

"In the past communist and labor agitation meant little more than breaking windows and fighting policemen," Mills said. "That was not so serious. But the condition we have today is serious. This undercover organization, which is poisoning the minds of the masses, is dangerous.

"If our government does not obey the mandates of the courts and evict the sitdown strikers this movement will spread and imperil the nation."

PLEDGE TAXI PARLEY

Presidents of the Yellow and Checker cab companies declared last night that they stood by their agreement with Acting Police Commissioner John Prendergast to meet with committees of striking drivers and to coöperate in holding an election of employé representatives. They did not reply, however, to the formal proposal submitted by Joseph M. Jacobs, attorney for the newly formed union.

"Jacobs is stalling," said Michael Sokoll, president of the Checker company. "On Friday we agreed to a conference with elected employé representatives. Jacobs rejected this and now he is making a new proposal in which he omits reference to a fair election of delegates."

Thomas B. Hogan, president of the Yellow Cab company, said he also would stand by the original agreement to meet elected representatives of the employés.

Jacobs addressed a meeting of strikers at Atlas hall, 1440 Cortez street, saying: "We'll starve before we go back to work without our union being recognized or without decent wages."

John E. O'Connor, federal conciliator, said he would make further efforts today to get both sides to negotiate.

AID IN STRIKE

DETROIT STRIKE SITUATION TENSE; MARTIN WARNED

Mayor Assails General Tieup Threat.

BY WILLIAM BROMAGE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., March 21.—[Special.]—The tense strike situation in Detroit tonight was at an unpredictable stage.

With Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, holding to his threat of calling a "general strike" in the auto plants of the city if police resume their raids on small sitdown strikers, Mayor Frank Couzens tonight said it would be "unfortunate" for Martin to do so.

"I don't believe Mr. Martin would be so unwise as to call out on general strike men who have just been through six years of suffering due to depression and loss of work," Mayor Couzens said. "It would be unfortunate for him to do so.

"I don't believe any man is going to be inhuman enough to throw 100,000 or more men out of work just when they are getting back on their feet. I don't believe men could afford to neglect the rights of citizens to that extent. I doubt whether the men would follow such leadership."

Whether the police will resume their raids and if they do how far Martin would go in following through his challenge are the chief questions.

Police To Continue Drive.

Mayor Couzens asserted that officers would continue to evict strikers from plants and stores held by other than employés at the places.

There were no new raids today. Two successful police drives were conducted yesterday afternoon. A street riot accompanied one of the raids and seven persons were injured when strike sympathizers in a crowd of several hundred at the scene battled with police.

It is understood the police raids were the first in a proposed drive which had as its goal the ending of the small sitdown strikes which are in progress here. Martin's threat to call a "general strike" in Detroit auto plants was made after the street riot.

Would Exempt Gen. Motors.

Plants of General Motors and other companies with which the union has contracts would be exempt from such an order, Martin said. He sent notices to officials of twenty-nine Detroit locals of the U. A. W. tonight instructing them to "appoint immediately a special strike committee but to take no strike action until instructed."

"Because of the grave situation created by police and mayor in attacking right of strike throughout the city," said his notice, "International officers have determined to take decisive steps. We are demanding Couzens [mayor] and Pickert [police commissioner] immediately cease raiding, slugging, and blackjacking strikers."

The union went ahead with plans for a huge massmeeting in Cadillac Square in downtown Detroit Tuesday night as a protest to the police drives.

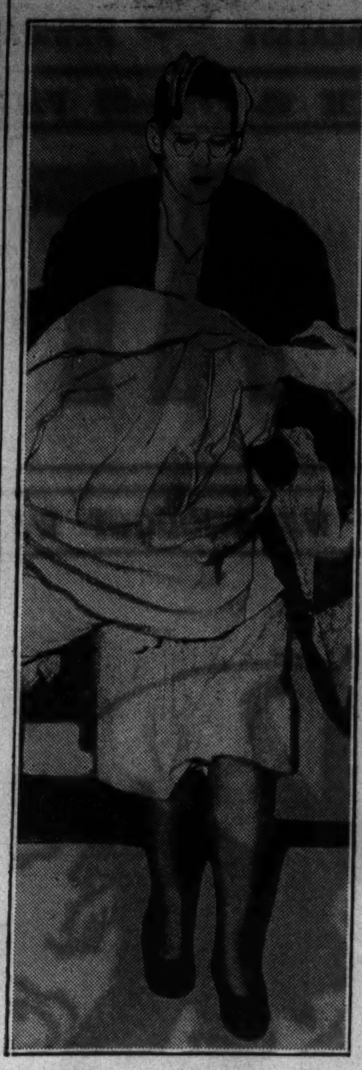
There were no important developments in the sitdown strikes at eight plants of the Chrysler corporation. Gov. Frank Murphy conferred with James F. Dewey, federal conciliator, most of the day and was in communication with Washington on the situation.

Settlement of eight sitdown strikes by agreement between employers and workers was made today.

Considerable interest centered in an address which the governor made before the Holy Name society at the Naval armory here this afternoon, but he gave no definite clew as to the course he would pursue in dealing with the strike situation, which has closed all of the auto plants of the Chrysler and Hudson Motor companies, in addition to many smaller establishments.

While insisting that constituted authority must be obeyed, Gov. Murphy said that "blind adherence to a legalistic philosophy will lead surely to eventual frustration of the democratic ideal of true freedom."

STRIKER JAILED



With curlers still in her hair and her bedding clutched in her arms this young sitdown striker in a Detroit cigar factory marched off to the waiting patrol wagons that escorted her and 85 other women to jail after they were evicted by police.

Police Find Blue Eyed Girl of 3; 'Mama Go to Church'

Chicago avenue police were looking last night for a mother who took her little girl, about 3 years old, to church, and later became separated from the child, who was found at La Salle street and Chicago avenue by Policeman William Barcal. "Mama go to church," said the blue eyed little girl whose name sounded like "Ella May." Desk Sergeant Jerry Lynch kept the girl at the station until 9 o'clock waiting for the mother and then sent the child to St. Vincent's orphanage for the night.

DR. TOWNSEND REJECTS OFFER ON 30 DAY SENTENCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 21.—[Special.]—Dr. Francis E. Townsend, founder of the old age pension movement, today rejected the proposal of Representative Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.], that the house adopt a resolution suspending the thirty day jail sentence recently given Townsend for contempt of the house.

Townsend announced his confidence that the Supreme court to which he has appealed the sentence will set aside the lower court's verdict.

"I propose to know definitly whether it is legal for a committee of congressmen to usurp the powers of the administrative branch of the government and of the courts," declared Townsend. "And whether they can act as accuser, prosecutor, judge, and jury and get away with it when their function is only to obtain information relative to legislation.

"If they can, the freedom of the individual of which we Americans have been so boastful, has entirely disappeared."

INDUSTRIAL BODY OFFERS PLAN TO REDUCE STRIKES

Washington, D. C., March 21.—[Special.]—Legislation designed to forestall major strikes at least until a presidential commission could investigate the issues involved was proposed today by the National Association of Manufacturers.

Under the association's plan the President could appoint a special commission to investigate issues as soon as a major strike or lockout threatened. Thirty days after the commission reported its findings the parties to the controversy would be free to strike or lockout.

The commission plan would be applied only to threatened strikes or lockouts that endangered "the economic safety of the nation."

SITTERS HANG ON OVER WEEK-END IN 2 PLANTS HERE

Iron Discipline Prevents Defections Among 1,000.

Sitdown strikes continued over the week-end in two Chicago plants with about 1,000 strikers, a majority of them women, remaining in their places of employment.

In the Wilson & Jones company plant at 3300 Franklin boulevard 850 employés, including at least 550 women, spent their fourth night on strike. The concern manufactures loose leaf stationery and loose leaf systems.

The plant occupies a while city block, and ten policemen remain on duty there. Blankets and food are passed through the windows by the strikers' relatives.

Leaders Rigid Disciplinarians.

A number of employés when interviewed last night complained the workers' committee, consisting of 30 persons, was ruling the situation with an iron hand. According to these sitters, the committee locked all doors at the start of the strike Thursday night and has permitted no one to leave except a few who said there was sickness in their families.

One employé, a motherly looking woman, opened a window and asked a pedestrian to get word to her husband to come to the plant. "I have two little children at home and I am anxious to get home to see how they are getting along," she said. "If I could crawl out of this window I would have left the first night."

"This appeared a lot of fun the first night, but I would like to get out of here tonight," said a girl sitdowner.

Boggle at Union Recognition.

Members of the committee reported that the company had agreed to grant wage demands, but refuses to recognize the plant union as a bargaining agency.

At the Maremont Automobile Products company, 1625 South Ashland avenue, approximately 160 male employés spent their fifth day in a sitdown strike for more wages and union recognition.

CHECK NAMES OF 1,000 IN HUNT FOR GIRL'S SLAYER

Minneapolis, Minn., March 21.—[Special.]—Police hopes of finding the murderer of 18 year old Laura Kruse tonight centered on a list of 1,000 names of automobile owners.

Which one of those 1,000, if any, was driving the automobile that followed the street car on which Miss Kruse rode just before she was attacked and killed early Saturday the police had no idea, but every one of the names was to be checked.

The compiling of the list of automobile owners, which kept 10 detectives at work most of today in the office of Secretary of State Mike Holm, was the first step in tracing what police admitted was their only clew in the murder of Miss Kruse, a student beauty operator.

POTENT PUNCH

PACIFIC CRUISE IS MAPPED OUT BY ROOSEVELT

Voyage to Philippines on His Program.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Warm Springs, Ga., March 21.—[Special.]—Franklin D. Roosevelt, the traveling President, today filled out a Sunday afternoon of one of his frequent escapes from the rigorous demands of his office by planning a long ocean cruise aboard a navy cruiser this fall.

On the porch of the Little White House in the gentle warmth of the first spring sun, Mr. Roosevelt poured over maps and atlases. The maps were of the Pacific ocean and the atlases were opened at the Philippine Islands.

Bending over his father's shoulder with the light of far-off places in his eyes was his son, James Roosevelt, who accompanied the President on the latter's good will visit to South America last fall.

Suggested by McNutt.

The Philippine cruise was suggested by former Gov. Paul V. McNutt of Indiana, who was recently named high commissioner of the islands. McNutt left during the day on the first leg of a long journey to his new post.

Only one thing at present stands in the way of a return of President Quezon's visit to this country and that is possible unusual prolongment of this session of congress in the battle over the presidential court packing plan. If the session runs into fall or deep into summer the cruise probably will be postponed until the fall of 1938.

Inspects Marine Camp.

The President observed Palm Sunday and the first day of spring by resting in the warm sun. At noon he inspected the marine camp named after him a short distance from the Little White House.

The provisional battalion of sixty-seven officers and men staged a guard mount, bayonet drill, and simulated war maneuvers, including an advance on an imaginary enemy.

"Splendid!" was the presidential comment.

After the military display the President was escorted to the mess tent, where he lunched on the fare set before the officers and men. He smacked his lips over pork chops, candied sweet potatoes, apple sauce, baked beans, rolls, and apple pie hidden under a generous scoop of ice cream.

UGLIEST

JOE FREDERICK.

Fort Worth, Tex., March 21.—[Special.]—Joe Frederick, senior at Texas Christian university, has challenged other colleges of the country to produce a student uglier than he. Frederick was named the ugliest man on his campus in a contest sponsored by the school newspaper.

200 DIE DAILY AS FAMINE STALKS CHINESE STATE

CHUNGKING, Szechwan Province, China, March 21.—(AP)—Two hundred persons are dying of starvation daily in Chungking and its suburbs, it was authoritatively estimated today, as the worst drouth in a quarter century held most of Szechwan, China's most populous province, in its grip.

Near-famine conditions prevailed in wide areas of this province of 55,000,000 inhabitants, and relief efforts thus far were almost helpless to cope with the disaster.

Relief workers said about 20 per cent of the dead were opium addicts. Thousands of destitute and starving have swarmed into Chungking, where four great relief camps have been established on the outskirts. In them are at least 10,000 on the verge of death.

Large portions of Szechwan have had no rain for a year. Streams have dried up. Even the mighty Yangtze river, usually roaring through its awe-compelling gorges, has been reduced to a trickle and ship trafic has been suspended above Wanhsien, intensifying the shortage of food.

Ten Die as Fire Destroys 300 Buildings in Rumania

FATHER IS KILLED BY TRUCK AFTER CHURCH; SON HIT

Boy Severely Injured on Their Way Home.

Returning hand in hand with his small son from the youngster's first trip to church, Patrick Wall, 28 years old, 6052 St. Lawrence avenue, was killed before the boy's eyes yesterday in a freak motor accident at 61st street and Prairie avenue. His son, Michael, 2½ years old, was severely injured.

The father and son were just stepping off the sidewalk at the northwest corner of the intersection to cross east, when a truck approached from the south, driven by Abraham Adams, 28 years old, colored, of 4528 St. Lawrence avenue. At the same moment, a sedan approached from the east. The vehicles collided and the truck, out of control, swerved to the left side of the street, where it struck the father and child.

The youngster was taken to Woodlawn hospital, where he was found to have a broken leg. He was so terrified he could not tell his name and was not identified until his mother, Mrs. Catherine Wall, came to the hospital on hearing of the tragedy. Adams and Jacob Bruton, 27 years old, of 6037 Indiana avenue, the driver of the sedan, were held for the inquest.

Killed in Country Crash.

William Heiden, 54 years old, 6043 North Austin avenue, supervisor of a substation for the Commonwealth Edison company, was fatally injured last night in a collision at Golf and Barrington roads, twelve miles east of Elgin. He died in the Sherman hospital, Elgin, early today. Heiden, a widower, was in a car driven by Mrs. Edna Petchow, 47 years old, 492 Columbia avenue, Elgin, a divorcée. Her car was struck by one driven by Charles Svendsen, 23, of 512 Franklin street, Elgin, causing it to crash into a tree.

Two Hit-Run Cases Solved.

Two recent hit and run accidents were cleared up yesterday.

Arrested at home on Saturday, John E. Barnett, 53 years old, 2215 North La Crosse avenue, Proviso yardmaster for the Northwestern railroad, admitted yesterday that he drove away after striking a man at Hamlin and Armitage avenues, on March 13. The victim, George Corbett, 65 years old, 3572 Cortland street, died 12 hours later. Barnett was traced through a broken car handle found at the scene of the accident. Richard Fisch, 25 years old, 3545 Armitage avenue, his companion in the car, was also arrested.

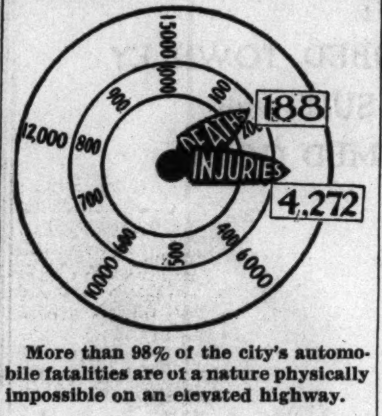
The other hit and run case solved was that in which John Blake, 63 years old, 503 North State street, was struck while walking at State and Illinois streets early yesterday. Twelve hours later Albert Nebelsink, 37 years old, 5958 Midway Park street, a former prohibition agent now employed as a treasury department investigator, and John Anderson, 26, of 5342 Ferdinand street, a plasterer, surrendered to the Chicago avenue police and were released on $100 bonds.

Jerry Krejci, 35 years old, 2743 South Harding avenue, an engineer in the Calhoun school, died in Auburn Park hospital yesterday of injuries incurred on Saturday when his car and another crashed at 83d and Loomis streets. His fiancé, Miss Frances Reilley, 34 years old, 8240 South Peoria street, a teacher in the school, and Raymond Jagi, 17, of 1232 West 74th place, driver of the other car, were slightly injured.

Trafic accidents took 233 lives in Cook county from Jan. 1 until 4 p. m. yesterday, the coroner's office reported. Chicago's toll for that period was 188 deaths and 4,272 injuries.

THE MASSACRE

Chicago's 1937 Trafic Toll



More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

BITTEN BY DOG

MRS. LYDIA SWIFT ROWAN.

Mrs. Lydia Swift Rowan, 22 years old, daughter of the late Alden B. Swift, packing company executive, was bitten on the right leg yesterday when her mother's valuable Chow dog, Koko, made an error.

Mrs. Rowan was leading the dog at Lake Shore drive and Division street when he met a bulldog and went into battle. Koko snapped wildly and apparently by accident, sank his teeth into the calf of Mrs. Rowan's leg as she tried to separate the fighters. Three stitches were taken in the wound at Passavant hospital.

Chicago avenue police were notified and as a routine precaution ordered Koko examined for rabies.

Mrs. Rowan, wife of Paul Rowan, lives at 39 East Division street. Her mother, Mrs. Lydia Niblack Swift, lives at 232 East Walton place.

NAZIS CHARGED WITH BREAKING PACT BY POPE

Anti-Christian Drive Hit in Pastoral Letter.

Calls Elections Unfair.

The letter asserted that the elections for abandoning the parochial schools in Germany were not fair because they were not secret and asserted that the Catholic church will never willingly agree to schools in which teachers of religion are not free and in which the spirit of teaching in other branches is anti-Christian.

The pope's message concluded with these solemn words:

"God is our witness that we have no more earnest wish than the reestablishment of real peace between the state and church in Germany.

"If, however, through no fault of ours, peace is not to come, then the church of God will defend its rights and liberties in the name of the All Highest, whose arm even today has not been shortened."

The Voelkischer Boebachter's editorial, which hinted that Germany may cancel her concordat with the Vatican, said:

"Even an agreement with the holy see has not sacrosanct, untouchable, and eternal value. It must adjust itself to changing conditions if it is not to become ineffective."

After reviewing all divergencies with the Catholic church in recent years, including trials of monks and nuns on charges of immorality and smuggling of money, and charging the Catholic clergy with numerous violations of the concordat, the paper continued:

"A former yes to an agreement can be changed into a no by the pressure of changed conditions," it said, and continued: "If the preamble of the reich concordat speaks of permanent regulation of the relations between the state and the church, it can never mean a period so long that it endangers the very existence of the state and peace at home and abroad."

Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, neopagan movement leader and head of the Nazi party's political division, is editor-in-chief of the paper.

MOTIVE IN LEAP FROM PLANE TO DEATH UNKNOWN

Search for Victim's Body in Mountains Fails.

Bakersfield, Cal., March 21.—(AP)—Motive for Anatole Maren's suicide plunge from an air transport over mountainous western Kern county presented a mystery tonight to authorities as they concluded a fruitless search for the San Francisco man's body.

Anatole Maren.

Maren was a WPA worker on a vocational leave of absence.

Maren disappeared from a United Airlines transport last night en route from San Francisco to Los Angeles. He broke the glass encasing the handle of the plane's emergency door and hurtled down in the darkness as the ship passed over what is known as the Lost Hills section of Kern county, about 100 miles northwest of Los Angeles.

Relatives of Maren in San Francisco said they knew no reason why he should want to end his life.

Stewardess Myrta Sawdy reported to Burbank police when the plane finished its run that Maren had been drinking.

DOG ACQUITTED

King, shepherd dog, being welcomed by some of his friends after his trial on charge of biting child.

Chappaqua, N. Y., March 21.—[Special.]—Spared from death by a court decision that he must have been playing if he did bite one of his boy friends, King, a Belgian shepherd dog, was back home and happy today. Little boys of the neighborhood came in to congratulate him, and pat his head. King stood trial yesterday in the fire station. If Justice of the Peace Hamilton Hicks had found that King were vicious, a death sentence would have been mandatory.

FALL FROM PONY KILLS BOY.

Mount Vernon, Ill., March 21.—(AP)—Injuries received in a fall from his pony last Friday night resulted in the death of Donald Lee Warren, 9-year-old Wayne City boy, today. He died in a hospital here.

QUICK BURGLAR TAKES HIS HAT, OFF TO POLICE

Mrs. Elizabeth Cunningham left her third floor home at 357 West Division street for a few minutes last night, but found on her return that a burglar had entered during her absence and stolen her radio, electric iron, and curler. She called the Chicago avenue police. Sergt. Philip Shore and a squad hurried over. Shore found a hat and a coat on a table.

"I never saw those before; they must be the burglar's," said Mrs. Cunningham.

The hat and coat were fine clews. Sergt. Shore predicted the burglar would come back for them. Obviously, the thief lived in the neighborhood. Shore drew up a plan for entrapment. Mrs. Cunningham was to go out for another stroll, and he and his men would also leave, but circle the block and reënter the flat through a rear door.

This was done. Mrs. Cunningham left. Shore and his squad sneaked back. A few minutes later someone sneaked up the stairs and into the flat. He grabbed for the hat and coat. Police pounced upon him. He was Charles Bailey, 40 years old, Mrs. Cunningham's first floor neighbor. The stolen articles were found under his bed.

A SPRING SUNDAY! CHICAGOANS AND BUDS COME OUT

Hikers Find Birds Making Merry, Too.

Chicago celebrated its first spring Sunday of the year yesterday. The sun shone brightly and the temperature was comfortable. Even the birds and buds began showing themselves. It was officially the second day of spring, the vernal season having begun at 6:45 p. m. Saturday.

The parks and boulevards were crowded. Youngsters played ball and flew kites. At the Edgewater Beach hotel beach a group of winter diehards, members of the Polar Bear club, took a last winter dip.

Surer Signs in Woodlands.

All these were evidences of early spring. But the best, and probably surest, signs were found not in the city but in the woodlands of the county forest preserves.

"A little more of this mild weather and the hepatica and the anemone will be in bloom," predicted Ransom E. Kennicott, chief forester. On a hike through the preserves, Joseph Reichert, superintendent of division 5, and James Igoe, superintendent of division 6, pointed out many signs of awakening nature.

The first, discovered by Reichert, were pussywillows at 154th street and the Michigan City road, pushing off their outer sheaths and awaiting one more warm day to burst out in fuzzy splendor.

Green Shoots on Trees.

He pointed to some aspen trees whose thick, round and fuzzy buds concealed small green leaves almost ready to protrude. Next he found a willow tree, its upgoing branches yellow, and then a nearby poplar, its tender branches definitly greenish.

The hikers noticed dandelion leaves coming up in the gulleys, and a lilac bush budding, almost in leaf. The scuff of a shoe revealed green grass coming up. A startled jacksnipe darted away. High overhead a few honking mallards flew northward. On Maple lake in Palos Park several mudhens paddled about. "The spring early birds are already here," said Reichert, "and even though you mightn't see them, you can hear them. The bluebirds and robins arrived in great numbers a week ago."

Superintendent Igoe pointed to a cardinal and a meadowlark near Thornton. "The meadowlark is a real harbinger," he commented. "The wild bees are already out, too. They left their hollow trees a week ago. Also, the muskrats are making themselves seen on the shores of the slough. O, it's spring all right."

He must be right. Even the organ grinders were out yesterday.

SUN AND PALM SUNDAY THRONG CHURCHES HERE

Holy Week Begins; Many Members Received.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Palm Sunday yesterday ushered in Holy week with bright sunshine and nippy atmosphere which combined to attract the largest numbers of churchgoers to houses of worship since Christmas. Churches were crowded and worshipers carried palm leaves from services as tokens of the kingship of Christ.

Cardinal Mundelein formally opened Holy week observances at Holy Name cathedral, where he presided at noon mass. The choir of St. Mary of the Lake seminary, Mundelein, singing under the direction of Otto H. Singenberger, gave the musical program, with the cardinal blessing the palms for distribution at 12:30.

Many Members Admitted.

In many Lutheran, Presbyterian, Methodist, and other churches large classes of candidates were admitted to membership through ceremonies of reception or rites of confirmation at yesterday's services.

Unique among Methodist services of the Chicago area yesterday was that at Crystal Lake, where not only the new Methodist confirmation form was used, but on the invitation of the pastor, the Rev. Miron A. Morrill, 740 Rush street, a district superintendent, the Rev. Dr. A. Turley Stephenson, administered the rite. Dr. Stephenson stated that this was the first time he has so officiated as a superintendent.

At Sunday Evening club, Orchestra hall, the Rev. Dr. Halford E. Luccock of Yale university referred to the Palm Sunday theme. He declared that first Palm Sunday in Jerusalem when Christ was acclaimed a king, together with subsequent events of the first Holy week, matched at once the modern world's acclaim and denial of Christ.

Hits Sunday-Only Christianity.

"Tumult and shouting for Christ on Sunday; rejection and condemnation on Thursday and Friday," said Dr. Luccock, "is witnessed today as then. Never has there been a time when Christ has walked before the imagination of the world as a taller, more attractive, more revered figure. Yet with the acclaim there goes today violent attack and rejection. From centers of power in our modern world we can hear the hoarse shouting, 'Away with him!'"

Dr. Luccock said breakfast table symbols of the need of Christ may be seen in hot cross buns.

"Look at the hot cross bun carefully," said Dr. Luccock. "It pictures the truth that all bread should be marked with the sign of the cross. Until now it has been marked with tears and blood; so much of the vast process of bread winning and bread eating has been at the cost of human suffering. Here on the Lenten breakfast table is a sign of a more excellent way—bread with the sign of love stamped on it."

RALLY CITIZENS HERE TO DEFENSE OF HIGH COURT

Ex-Justice Thompson Maps Protest Fight.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Floyd E. Thompson.

A forceful protest from Chicago against the Roosevelt plan to take over control of the United States Supreme court began to take definite form in two ways yesterday.

Floyd E. Thompson, former chief justice of the Illinois Supreme court and a bred-in-the-bone Democrat, announced that organization of the Chicago citizens' Court Defense committee is nearing completion. He said that the committee roll will include men and women leaders of public opinion in Chicago, and that their first move will be the holding of a big mass-meeting at some downtown point which will be addressed by speakers of national importance.

U. of C. Dean Opposes Plan.

Simultaneously Dean Harry A. Bigelow of the University of Chicago Law school and five of his associates issued a public statement announcing their opposition to the Roosevelt plan. The signers, in addition to Dean Bigelow, were Assistant Dean Sheldon Tefft, George G. Bogert, professor of law and former president of the Association of American Law schools; Ernest Puttkammer, professor of law and a director of the Chicago Crime commission; Paul Cleveland, assistant professor of law, and George F. James, instructor in law.

Former Justice Thompson announced that headquarters of the Chicago Citizens' Court Defense committee have been opened in Suite 503 at 11 South La Salle street. The telephone number there is STAte 2895. Attorney Thompson invited all friends of the movement, regardless of party affiliations, to register with the committee.

Urges Vigilant Citizenry.

"Ours is a people's government," he said in discussing the purpose of the organization, "and it can be preserved only by an informed and vigilant citizenry. Our committee is the natural result of the demand of our people for information on the vital subject of saving the judicial department of our government from destruction by a power-drunk majority dominating the other departments of the government.

"The Supreme court is without power to protect itself in a political storm. The legislative and executive departments control the purse and the sword and the means of spreading propaganda. If the independence of the judiciary, which is distinctively American in character and the greatest contribution of this country to the science of government, is to be preserved, it must be done by the friends of the American system.

"Help cannot be expected from those who are ignorant of or indifferent to the great principles on which our system of government was founded, nor from those who are openly opposed to our system of government and want to change it, nor from the political sycophants who echo the sentiments of the boss without examining them.

Growing Sentiment Seen.

"It is our belief that there is a growing sentiment against the President's proposal to enlarge the court for the purpose of making the court's opinion on constitutional questions conform to the opinion of the executive, and that there is need for an agency to give effective expression to the opinion of thousands of private citizens whose opinion might never be registered without some such agency as the Chicago Citizens' Court Defense committee."

Dean Bigelow and the other members of the faculty of the University of Chicago Law school preceded their statement by saying that they were expressing only their personal opinions.

"We are not out of sympathy with the humanitarian aspirations of the New Deal," read the statement. "We approve many of the measures. We believe in the sincerity of purpose of the man holding the tremendously responsible position at its head. But we do not believe in endangering our system of government to save a few years of time in accomplishing his objectives, however worthy some of them may be.

"A Few Years' Time."

"No one can stop the ultimate victory of such of them as are in fact desirable. By the dangerous program which has been suggested we shall gain only, at the utmost, a few years' time, which other methods would cost us.

"The purpose of the plan, according to the statements of the President and the attorney general, themselves, is to get from the Supreme court decisions which follow the views and wishes of the executive and a majority in the legislative branches of the government. In the present state of politics and of executive power this might well mean a court subservient to the wishes of the executive alone.

"It might well mean, and it is intended by its supporters to mean, a free hand to the President and his supporters on legislative matters. This precedent, once set, could be followed with equal ease and justice by any future administration whether its goal was the reactionary one of wiping out all the progress of the past or a radical one avowedly aiming at the overthrow of our government.

"Too High a Price."

"To put our entire future into jeopardy merely to increase the immediate power of an administration in which the people have expressed confidence is too high a price."

The statement commented that "for seventy years the court has been free from political and partisan control," and that "it is improper and sinister to do away with all outside checks holding congress within the powers given it." It also contended that, since Mr. Roosevelt did not disclose his plan during the 1936 campaign, he "is not entitled to claim that the election constituted any mandate for that plan."

U. of C. Legal Experts Oppose Court Packing Plan

Four of the six men who yesterday issued statement announcing their opposition to President Roosevelt's scheme to reorganize the Supreme court. Left to right: Paul Cleveland, assistant professor of law; Ernest Puttkammer, professor of law; George G. Bogert, professor of law, and Dean Harry A. Bigelow. (Story in adjoining column.)

ROME COVERED BY FRESH PALM LEAVES AT RITE

ROME, March 21.—(AP)—Fresh green palm leaves and springtime sprigs of olive branches inundated Rome today as Catholics celebrated Palm Sunday, the anniversary of Christ's triumphant entry into Jerusalem.

In Vatican City, Pope Pius received a special palm from the Bresca family of San Remo, which has held the special privilege of making this gift for almost three and a half centuries. The Camaldoli order also sent ornately decorated palm branches, which Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli, Vatican secretary of state, received in the name of the pontiff.

The pope himself kept to his apartment, preparing for the round of solemnities with which the church observes Holy week.

Cardinal Pacelli celebrated a special Palm Sunday mass at St. Peter's. Special masses and processions in which prelates and congregations held aloft palm and olive branches were celebrated in all of the city's more than 400 churches.

STEAL A MARCH ON EASTER; NAME 20 BEST DRESSED

Chicago's Style Leaders Include Ten Men.

The State Street council yesterday jumped in ahead of the Easter parade by announcing Chicago's best dressed residents—ten men and ten women.

The list, compiled by a committee of fashion and society writers, is headed by vivacious Mrs. Howard Linn, and debonair I. Newton Perry, each of whom received ten votes.

Many Out of Town.

On inquiry it was found that many of those on the list are still out of town for the winter, though some of them plan to be back next Sunday in time for the Easter parade.

Mrs. Linn, according to an excerpt from the appraisal, "wears everything well, especially riding clothes and country tweeds," while Mr. Perry is described as an addict of the cutaway, who "is sure to appear next Sunday in morning coat."

Asks Consent for Silence.

Mrs. John R. Winterbotham, who is second on the list with Charles F. Glore, "looks striking in everything." "Do you mind," asked Mr. Glore when informed yesterday of his selection to the best dressed ranks, "just letting me say nothing?"

Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed is noted in the list because of her reputation for perfection in formal town and evening clothes. Orville J. Taylor, the third man on the list, was not home yesterday, but his wife expressed surprise at his selection. "He's a conservative dresser, my dear," she exclaimed.

Fourth on the list are Mrs. Walter B. Wolf and Frank McNair. "I don't think I'm entitled to it," said Mrs. Wolf. "I always wear just very simple, plain clothes."

Confess to Bright Ties.

Listed as No. 5 are Mrs. Walter Paepcke, who looks well in pastels, and Fletcher Durbin, manufacturer, who said: "Well, I am amused. I'm a plain conservative, but I like rather bright ties."

Bracketed as No. 6 are Mrs. A. Watson Armour III., with brown curls and large brown eyes, who displays "variety in her clothes," and Robert Carr Sr., while seventh on the list are Mrs. Walter Kirk, always exquisitely groomed, and John A. Stevenson.

The others listed are Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, and Stuart Logan; Mrs. Byron Harvey, and Truman Bradley, and Mrs. Louise Sudler, and Dexter Cummings.

KILLED FIXING ROOF AERIAL.

Benjamin Gurauskos, 45 years old, 1207 South Lawndale avenue, janitor of the building there, fell three stories to his death while repairing a radio antenna on the roof yesterday.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

A QUESTION WE ARE ASKED

By CALEB

WE are sometimes asked, "What makes a great department store?" Certainly it is not a matter of putting a name over a door, stocking a building with goods, and employing people to sell them. Anyone with a certain amount of money could do that. Nor is it a matter of advertising through the years—telling and re-telling a story that goods are for sale. Many organizations which do that never become great.

Briefly—a great department store has in combination, right policies, right organization, and right personnel, utilizing right facilities through right methods and procedures. Perhaps we can make that dry-sounding remark more illuminating.

Marshall Field—our founder—established policies of honest dealing to which we adhere today. New ideas must always square with the tried and basic policies of our business. Thus, we aim to keep our policies "right."

It is one of our policies to sell a great many thousand items from all over the world. Therefore, we have to have a world-wide organization. Our operations are varied and complex. They require an integrated organization. We require an interlocking, co-operating type of activity in all phases of the business.

Still, it is not enough to outline and establish such an adequate organization. The people who comprise that organization are vitally important. They are required to represent us as creditably to our sources as to our customers. Their talents are infinitely varied to suit their jobs. People who do not fit into such a picture cannot do their part in making a store great.

Our facilities have to be kept modern—escalators and fast elevators, for instance. And our methods of operating must be kept as modern as our facilities.

In a few words, all these things are important. You will see some of them are world-wide, with roots deeply buried. Others are easier to see than roots—they flourish before your eyes. But each contributes its important part—and each helps make a store "great."

SEEK G-MEN AID IN HUNT FOR LOOP BROKERAGE HEAD

Joseph Ramser Missing for Fourth Day.

Friends of Joseph Retz Ramser, president of Banning & Co., investment brokers at 100 West Monroe street, who has been missing four days, decided yesterday to ask the aid of G-men in their search in the belief was kidnaped.

Ramser, who is 35 years old and lived with his sister at 180 East Delaware place, said goodnight to Miss Hazel Melchoir, 28 years old, 1960 East 73d street, Wednesday night at the Randolph street station of the Illinois Central railroad. He then presumably started for home. He did not arrive there, however, and on Friday his billfold was found near the Navy pier.

No Reason for Going Away.

John D. Banning, 8009 Maryland avenue, vice president of the firm, said there was no reason of any kind for Ramser to go away voluntarily and he was anxious for government agents to take up the search. D. M. Ladd, head of the local office of the federal bureau, said the disappearance had not officially been reported to his department.

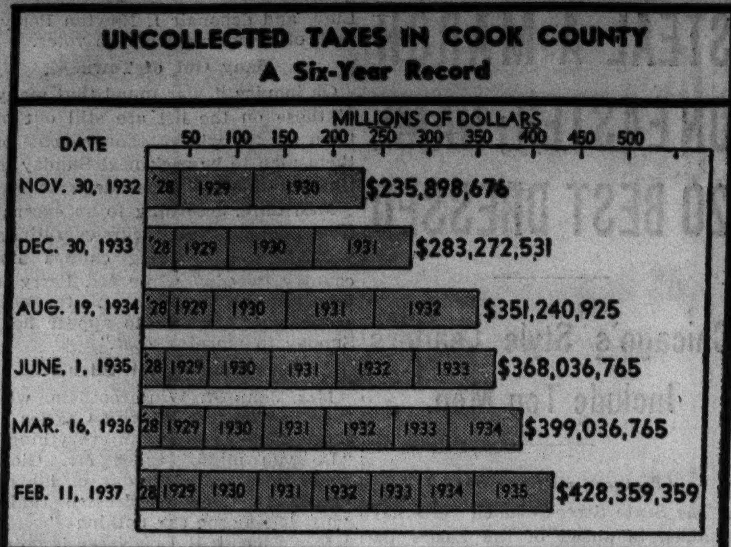
"I am not going to overlook any move to aid Ramser," said Mr. Banning. "While he may not have been kidnaped, there is, of course, such a possibility. While it was not widely known that he was a man of wealth, in an emergency he could have raised $50,000. He liked life too well to have committed suicide.

"He was formerly professor of economics at the University of Illinois and he was well connected socially. He was not a drinking man. His chief diversions were horseback riding and boating. He loved speed and had two automobiles, one capable of going 135 miles an hour. He was a wrestler at the university and would have put up a struggle if any one attempted to rob him.

"In Good Condition."

"He was exceedingly strong and in good condition and used to ask me to hit him in the stomach to prove that he couldn't be hurt there. He didn't like to walk much so I do not think much of any theory that he walked to the lake front."

Miss Melchoir said she knew Ramser for about four years and stated definitly that they were not engaged. She said she had been to a theater with him Wednesday night and they had planned to visit a dentist together Friday evening. She said he was in excellent spirits when he bade her good night.



Increase Each Year

Uncollected taxes in Cook county have increased with every levy in the last six years and last month passed the 425 million dollar mark.

The accompanying chart shows the amount of uncollected taxes on the county treasurer's books at various dates from 1932 to 1937, with the proportion uncollected for each levy since 1928. The odd dates were chosen because of the irregular tax schedule under which penalty dates fall at different times.

Uncollected taxes rose nearly 200 million dollars between Nov. 30, 1932, and Feb. 11, 1937. It is admitted that a large per cent of these uncollected taxes are no longer collectable because they represent levies pronounced illegal or valuations reduced after the taxes were extended. However, it is estimated that about half of the paper delinquents are collectible.

County commissioners recently considered sponsoring legislation designed to bring in back taxes, but rejected the proposal.

DR. JOHANNSEN, U. OF C. EXPERT ON ROCKS, QUITS

Dr. Albert Johannsen, an authority on petrology who has been a geology professor at the University of Chicago since 1918, will retire today. Dr. Johannsen joined the university staf twenty-seven years ago as an assistant professor of petrography.

While Dr. Johannsen specialized primarily in the classification of igneous rocks, much of his early career was devoted to a study of the optical properties of rock forming minerals. He was the deviser of the classification of igneous rocks now in use, and has written several works on this subject.

Dr. Johannsen is 66 years old. He and his wife, Annabelle, live at 2203 West 111th street. He plans to pursue his hobbies, which include the collection of dime novels, first editions, manuscript autographs, stamps, and coins.

2 GUNMEN ROB 4 MOTORISTS.

Two gunmen early yesterday robbed four motorists as they were putting their cars in their garages: Clifford Lundquist, 5729 South Fairfield avenue; Harold Coltman, 3256 West 66th street; Michael Hlavek, 5637 South California avenue, and Anton Jurga, 5605 South Spaulding avenue.

Ordinary Thieves Shy Away from Man Who Tricked Boy

Ordinary pickpockets and bandits at the police showup yesterday shied away from William Hewitt, 26 years old, as he was identified by a boy of 13 as the man who tricked him out of $1.25 his ailing mother had given him to buy medicine for her. The boy was Robert Cahlman of 6356 Kenmore avenue. Seven other boys 8 to 15 years of age, identified Hewitt as the stranger who swindled them out of 50 cents to $1 each on the promise of a job.

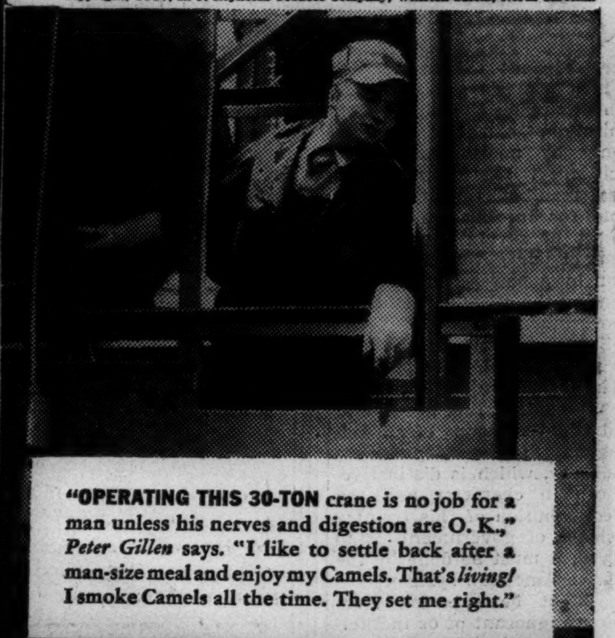
THE WINNING GOAL!



"OPERATING THIS 30-TON crane is no job for a man unless his nerves and digestion are O. K.," Peter Gillen says. "I like to settle back after a man-size meal and enjoy my Camels. That's living! I smoke Camels all the time. They set me right."

THE DARING glider record-holder, Dorothy Holderman, says: "Guiding a sailplane is nerve-shattering and exhausting at times. Tired and wrought-up as I may feel afterwards, a few Camels keep my digestion running smoothly."

HERB LEWIS (above, left), spark-plug of the Detroit Red Wings, a split-second before he scored! After the game (above, right), between bites of a big hamburger, Herb said: "You bet I enjoy eating. And I'll give Camels credit for helping me enjoy my food. Smoking Camels with my meals and afterward eases tension. I'll second the motion—'for digestion's sake—smoke Camels.' I enjoy Camels steadily through the training season."

Experience shows that Camel smokers enjoy smoking to the full. It's to Camels they turn for an invigorating "lift" in energy. At mealtimes, it's Camels again "for digestion's sake." Thanks to Camel's gentle aid, the flow of digestive fluids—alkaline digestive fluids—speeds up. A sense of well-being follows. So make it Camels—the live-long day. And Camels don't get on your nerves or irritate sensitive throats. Camels are mild!

TEXTILE MAKERS IRKED BY LOAN TO RFC OFFICER

Gets $522,500 to Keep His Mill Running.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Bedford, Mass., March 21.—[Special.]—Yankee mill operators of this once thriving industrial community are fuming silently over the pouring of $522,500 in public funds into the mill owned by Frederick H. Taber, a director of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and Harvard classmate of President Roosevelt.

Forced to save and scrape to survive the depression that silenced the singing of more than a million and a half spindles in this center of the fine cotton cloth industry, the mill operators now are being forced to compete with what appears to be a never ending flow of easy money from the New Deal fount.

Retains Majority Stock.

Taber resigned the presidency of the mill when he was appointed by Roosevelt to the RFC board three years ago, but he held his majority stock ownership in the business. During his term with the lending agency, the Taber mill has been on the receiving end of four loans for a total of $522,500 and is asking an additional $250,000. The loans were engineered through a dummy corporation set up by mill officers.

The officials of the other mills who are operating their business without periodic injections of politico-public funds, feel they have enough troubles without having to cope with the actual outlay of government money against them. Currently they are faced with a labor organizing drive and competition of the south.

In the past the mills were hit by the high costs of the NRA and the AAA cotton processing tax that permitted imported goods to climb our tarif walls.

Able to Capture Market.

For obvious reasons the mill officials will not talk publicly about the RFC affair, but privately they express their resentment. One of these men explained that the Taber mill was in a position to capture the market from its competitors because of its plentiful supply of funds.

"We will suppose that one mill, efficiently operated and forced to borrow its money through private channels can sell a yard of cotton goods on the market for 30 cents, making a profit of 2½ cents a yard," he explained. "Along comes the mill that has the inexhaustible supply from Washington and sells the same kind of cloth at 25 cents a yard. What happens to the thrifty, well managed mill which now has these unsold stocks on hand? In some cases it goes under."

In 1923 New Bedford had 32 cotton mills flourishing. Today there are 17. During this period the number of spindles in operation dwindled from 3,518,000 to 1,868,000.

Democratic Party Fearful.

Most of the failures have occurred during the years of the New Deal experiment, according to the mill operators. It was no secret that the Democratic party feared it would lose New England in the last election because of the way the textile industry had been treated.

The cotton processing tax of the AAA added 4.2 cents to every pound of uncleaned cotton purchased by the mill. The mills absorbed costs because the consumer would not.

Early in 1935 the effect of the processing tax began to be felt keenly in the textile mills. Importations of cotton cloth from Japan leaped to several million yards a month, a sevenfold increase.

What Does Make a Wellington Scalp Treatment So Satisfactory?

It DOES save your hair, and thicken it wonderfully

1—A luxurious olive oil steamer shampoo softens and removes the dead and dried secretions which clog the scalp.
2—The hair is dried with cool compressed air.
3—In this condition of perfect cleanliness a vacuum is created over the scalp where its fullest force is exerted in drawing the blood into the derma or true skin where the hair roots drink it up.
4—With these capillaries filled with rich, red blood a flood of Ultra Violet Rays is poured upon the tissues giving the blood increased use of calcium for greater hair building power.

THE WELLINGTON SCALP TREATMENT CONTINUES

Vibratory applications to the back of the neck bring more blood up from the deeper tissues with its sedative effect on the nerve structures.

Then massage from skilled human fingers searches out every muscle in the scalp forcing the blood to the uppermost layer of hair producing papilla, giving new life and vigor to dormant cells.

A truly wonderful antiseptic ointment is deftly applied to every square inch of the scalp (not the hair) doing away with any and all microscopic bacteria. Dandruff and any irritations subside quickly and are gone. Then the finishing hand massage and you have had a Wellington Scalp Treatment and feel like a king.

PARIS REDS HOLD DEMONSTRATION FOR 5 RIOT DEAD

Menacing Throng of 25,000 at Burial Rites.

BY ALEX SMALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 21.—A huge demonstration was staged today by communists and the French Federation of Labor in honor of five communists killed in the riot at suburban Clichy last Tuesday night.

Cries of "Hang de la Rocque to a light post," and "Fascist assassins!" were heard frequently from the 25,000 who gathered around the coffin. The cries against de la Rocque referred to Col. Francis de la Rocque, leader of the Fascist French Social party and bitter foe of the communists.

Thousands Trail Five Herses.

The manifestation was almost as menacing as the riot it celebrated and made it plain that the rebellious spirit of French communists—submerged in Socialist Premier Leon Blum's Popular Front coalition—is as strong as ever.

Virtually every communist in the Paris region crowded into Clichy, northeast of Paris. All afternoon and far into the night anybody not bearing at least a Socialist insignia had to use his fists from time to time to defend himself.

The fiery thousands followed the five herses bearing the coffins of the victims six miles across Paris to the suburb where the fatal riot occurred.

The word had gone out that there was to be no violence and the crowd listened peaceably to speeches by Leon Jouhaux, chief of the Labor federation and Maurice Thorez, official of the communist party, at the square significantly called Sacco and Vanzetti for the two anarchists whose execution in Massachusetts in 1927 was a world-wide sensation.

Police Watch Closely.

Large forces of police were in readiness in side streets out of sight and radio cars kept the ministry of interior constantly informed of the behavior of the communist demonstrators.

In a speech today at Rouen, Edouard Daladier, Radical Socialist minister of denfense, warned working classes against belief they are going to achieve supreme power.

"It would be no service to the working classes to let them be led by irresponsible elements into the dangerous illusion that power soon will belong to them and to them alone," he said.

REAL FIREWORKS DUE THIS WEEK IN LEGISLATURE

Several Tax Levy Bills Provide Gunpowder.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.

Eleven weeks have passed since the members of the Sixtieth Illinois general assembly took their oaths of office and received their biennial pay, but only one general bill of state-wide application has been adopted. That was the state tax of 3 per cent on utility services, a measure that Gov. Henry Horner wanted and got in a hurry.

In those eleven weeks there has been little controversy or skirmishing and most of that little was over the utility tax. But going tonight into the twelfth week the legislators find that in the bills pending either at the amendment or passage stage there are materials for wars that are likely to break out this week.

Parks Measure a Trouble Point.

Foremost in the minds of the Cook county contingent to Springfield is the bill pegging the Chicago park district tax levy at $9,000,000 for 1937, 1938, and 1939.

This bill was sailing along smoothly until it struck a snag at second reading three weeks ago. Since then it has remained dormant at the amendment stage on the orders, according to authentic report, of the governor.

The governor insists that the amount be reduced to $7,000,000. The senate adopted it at the higher figure, which Robert J. Dunham, park president, says is necessary to maintain service. If the house heeds the governor and amends the bill, it is considered likely the senate would stand pat, throwing it into conference for a finish fight.

Other Chicago Levies.

Before the governor injected himself into park board finances, he had taken a hand in revising a peg levy for the Chicago school board. He fixed it so the school board will have to go to Springfield in the spring of 1939, when the next mayoral election is to be held, if it then still needs a levy of $45,000,000.

With the governor exerting his influence on Chicago legislation before it comes to his desk in the routine procedure after adoption, the Chicago people are wondering how he feels about two more Chicago tax levies just introduced last week. These bills would increase the levy for the Chicago public library from $1,800,000 to $2,000,000 and that of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium from $2,500,000 to $3,000,000.

HEAR ARGUMENTS TODAY ON FACTOR TRUST OF $250,000

Judge Joseph Burke of the Circuit court will hear arguments today on the government's claim for dissolution of a $250,000 trust fund created by John [Jake the Barber] Factor in order to settle tax claims.

For its own protection, the trustee, the Trust Company of Chicago, wants the guidance of the court in the matter. Factor established the trust in 1932 for his wife, Mrs. Rella Cohen Factor. Federal income tax liens of $528,423 for 1923, 1924, and 1925 have been placed against Factor, although he maintains that his income for the period was earned in England.

Factor has escaped extradition to England on charges of operating a stock swindle, but later paid $1,800,000 in settlement of civil claims arising from the case. He is now living in Beverly Hills, Cal.

4 NEW YORKERS DIE IN PLUNGES IN A SINGLE DAY

New York, March 21.—(AP)—Four persons in different sections of New York City were killed today in jumps or falls from windows.

Virginia Schwarte, 55, a public school teacher, said by friends to have been suffering from a nervous breakdown, plunged from a thirteenth floor window while a friend, Agnes Smith of Newark, N. J., was in an adjoining room.

Marion Anderson, 50, who was under a nurse's care, leaped from a sixth floor window of her apartment.

Isidor Yankowitz, 30, jumped or fell from a second floor window of his home.

Mrs. Tessie Wright, 45, Negro, fell from a fourth floor window while hanging out some wash.

PONTIAC TO SEE FAMOUS CIRCUS OF JACK HASKIN

Pontiac, Ill., March 21.—[Special.]—Jack Haskin and his troupe open here next Tuesday night for a three night run. Jack is director of physical education for boys at the Pontiac Township High school. His troupe consists of more than 200 students who, in 24 acts and a two hour period, will present all the breath taking feats of a circus.

Each year in the latter part of March the Physical Education Klan of the high school puts on a colorful attraction called the Gym Circus. This year's circus is the seventh.

The billing discloses some of the stunts the student performers have worked years to perfect. For instance, there will be thirty teams of acrobatic marvels presented simultaneously in a combination of thrilling double and triple executions.

Five queens of the air will appear in a series of hazardous feats on the quintuple trapeze.

GOOD TRANSPORTATION
. . . as if made to your own order

If there were no such thing as the "L", and you started out to invent a good transportation system, wouldn't it be like this? . . .

QUICKER EVEN THAN THE FAMED NEW YORK SUBWAY?

The fastest trains on the Chicago Rapid Transit Company's elevated railroad lines exceed the speed of the fastest trains on New York's subway.

WOULDN'T IT BE OUT OF STREET CONGESTION, AND UP IN FRESH AIR AND SUNSHINE?

The Rapid Transit System is on private right-of-way; trains operate above the streets and out of the way of automobile, trucking and pedestrian traffic. They are above the monoxide belt, up where the air is clean and fresh.

WOULDN'T YOUR SYSTEM REDUCE, INSTEAD OF INCREASE, STREET HAZARDS?

On the Elevated Railroad's private right-of-way 450,000 people are daily removed from contact with our already over-crowded streets and their teeming traffic. Of all forms of transportation in Chicago, the "L" contributes least to street congestion and pedestrian hazards, provides its own highway facilities—is the greatest single factor for public safety in the city.

WOULDN'T YOUR SYSTEM PROVIDE RAILROAD-TYPE SERVICE—SCHEDULES—TRAINS?

The Rapid Transit System is a trunk-line RAILROAD, runs TRAINS up to eight cars long. Traffic other than railroad-type does not pass over the elevated system. TRAINS run on definite, fast and frequent schedules, 24 hours a day—5,383 TRAINS on an average week day. Trainmen abide by the standard RAILROAD book of rules. The Company is incorporated under the RAILROAD laws of Illinois.

YOU'D EXPECT RAILROAD STATIONS, OF COURSE, AND RAILROAD STANDARDS?

Stations—more than 200 of them—are provided by the Rapid Transit System. They are comfortable, manned by more than 1,100 trained STATION employes. You walk from SHELTERED PLATFORMS directly aboard trains. "L" trains run smoothly, with a minimum of starts and stops. They are inspected and tested before each trip; at each 1,000 miles worn parts are replaced and at frequent intervals the cars are completely rebuilt. Maintaining strict standards is the life work of 500 mechanics and shopmen, more than 3,000 trainmen, and over 1,200 other employes, a corps that has an extraordinary record for efficiency.

SURELY THE WEATHER WOULD BE OUTWITTED BY YOUR TRANSPORTATION SYSTEM?

The Elevated Railroad has never been put out of commission by the weather. In rain or snow as well as in fair weather the "L" is giving service. On the Rapid Transit System's peak day more than a million passengers were carried in a blizzard when no other transportation could move.

YOUR TRANSPORTATION SYSTEM WOULD SERVE BOTH CITY AND SUBURBS, TO BE SURE!

Fast, frequent service both within the city and to the north and west suburban areas is provided by the Rapid Transit System, with direct connections with electric TRAINS serving the Shore Line communities north to Milwaukee and the western suburbs and cities to the Fox River Valley, all on fast, frequent schedules.

FINALLY, YOU'D WANT TO HAVE FAST SERVICE MOST OF YOUR TRIP?

If you must transfer to reach your destination, you want to go most of the way quickly. You can on the "L" trains. Only one transportation company in Chicago provides transfers to the other two—the Rapid Transit System gives transfers to both street car and bus. The average length of ride of transfer passengers in 1936 was 8.4 miles on the Rapid Transit System and 1.8 miles on street cars.

DOESN'T THE FAST AND RELIABLE RAPID TRANSIT ELEVATED RAILROAD SYSTEM JUST ABOUT SQUARE WITH EVERY REQUIREMENT AS A GOOD MEANS OF TRANSPORTATION, NIGHT OR DAY, GOOD WEATHER OR BAD?

GET THERE! Ride the "L" — A RAILROAD!

CLAIM GERMANS HAVE FORTIFIED MOROCCAN COAST

Britain Learns of Menace to Gibraltar.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 21.—Details of alleged German armament on the Mediterranean shores of Spain and Spanish Morocco which threatens British control of the Strait of Gibraltar have reached here from Barcelona.

The security of Great Britain's empire life line is endangered and it can no longer rely on the impregnability of Gibraltar, according to the source of the information—the commissariat of propaganda of autonomous Catalonia.

German guns have been put in place under German supervision, and they are in some cases manned by German gun crews, the commissariat alleges. Spanish Morocco has been under control of Spanish Fascist insurgents since the Spanish civil war began last July.

Menace French Morocco.

According to the Catalonian assertions, the fortifications in Spanish Morocco are scattered along the Mediterranean coast from Tangier to the eastern frontier—where Spanish Morocco meets French Morocco.

"We can affirm that there have been established in Benzu, close to Ceuta, three heavy German cannon, and directly opposite, at Punta Carnero, on the Spanish coast, a complete battery of light cannon has been mounted," claimed the Catalonian mouthpiece.

"All are under the direction and surveillance of German technicians and so placed as to be able to subject the strait to cross fire.

"On Monte Hagho, which dominates Ceuta, four batteries of 75's have been installed along with batteries on the beach of San Amaro. In Alcazar Seguer, between Ceuta and Tangier [international zone] there are three complete German batteries.

Formed Able Battery.

"Between Ceuta and Melilla the coast is lined with batteries installed at the beginning of January by German technicians. At Punta Ciros is a German battery of 75's, manned by Spanish gunners with German training. At both Punta Almanza and Punta Leona are batteries of 75's manned by German artillerymen.

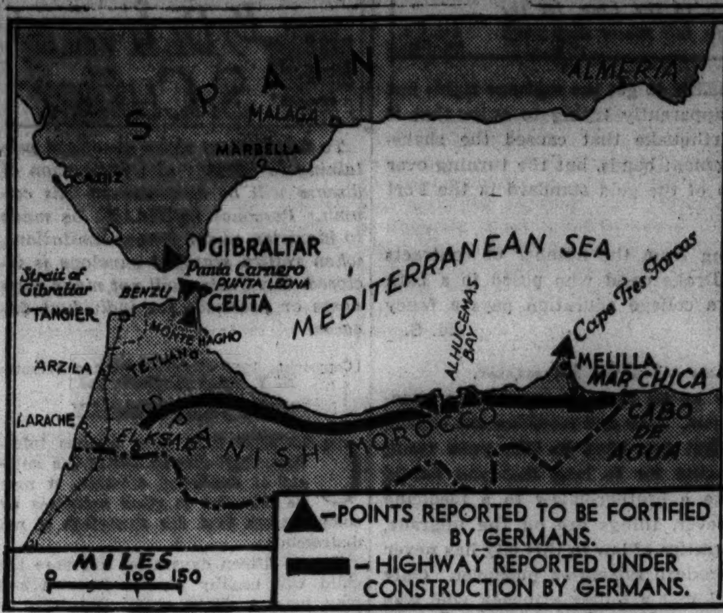
"On the Cape of Tres Forcas, just seaward from Melilla, are four German 75's in addition to other cannon the caliber of which we have not ascertained. South of Melilla, at the entrance of Mar Chica, is another German battery of 75's manned by Germans.

"The shores of Alhucemas bay, that is the arc formed by the coast from Morro Nuevo to Quilates Cape, form one of the most formidable areas on the whole coast.

"A total of 700 Germans appeared in the guise of engineering technicians and commenced the construction of a highway from El Ksar to Cabo de Agua."

[El Ksar is on the western, or Atlantic side of Spanish Morocco. Cabo de Agua is on the eastern, or French, frontier.]

GERMAN GUNS ALONG STRAITS?



German technicians have placed many German guns along the coast of rebel held Spanish Morocco, the propaganda department of the Barcelona government declares. Batteries have been placed on both sides of the strait of Gibraltar, it is claimed, and a strategic road running the length of Morocco is being built. Black triangles denote positions of reported gun placements.

MUSSOLINI ENDS AFRICAN TOUR; SAILS FOR HOME

TRIPOLI, Libya, March 21.—(AP)—Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy ended a nine day tour of Italy's North African domain today when he sailed for Italy aboard the cruiser Pola.

British Finish Biggest Mock War Ever Held at Hongkong

[Copyright: 1937: By the New York Times.]

HONGKONG, March 21.—The most extensive land, sea and air maneuvers ever held by the British forces at Hongkong were concluded today. They lasted six days. An official communique pointed out that the defense forces proved adequate although the attacking forces, which included 1,000 British troops from Singapore, outnumbered the defenders.

LOYALISTS DIE IN FOREST FIRES SET BY BOMBERS

Rebel Planes Drive Foes to Open Fields.

SALAMANCA, Spain, March 21.—(AP)—Hundreds of government soldiers perished in forest fires set by insurgent flyers on the Guadalajara front, communications from the insurgent lines asserted today. The reports placed total government casualties in last week's fighting in the sector at more than 3,000.

Insurgent planes were said to have set aflame pine forests between Torija and Trijueque to force their enemy into the open. Hundreds of government fighters who had taken refuge behind trees were asserted to have burned to death when the flames swept the woods.

[Torija and Trijueque are west of Brihuega, which the government forces recaptured last week, and 12 to 15 miles behind the front of the easterly government drive against retreating insurgents.]

The reports from the insurgent front indicated the insurgent forces were being pulled together for a new push toward the city of Guadalajara, 32 miles east northeast of Madrid.

Halted by Bad Weather.

Dispatches from Soria indicated the insurgent advance had halted not only because of bad weather but to enable flanking columns to catch up with the spearhead in the Torija salient.

The derth of action reports from the insurgent side during the last week was attributed to the fact the insurgent commanders wished to spare their infantrymen until artillery and airplanes had driven the government troops from the territory in front of the insurgent spearhead.

During some days in the last week 70 airplanes repeatedly rained thousands of 200 pound bombs over the forests as well as government trenches in the open tableland near by.

Loyalists Gain New Town.

MADRID, March 21.—(AP)—Government forces extended their victory on the Guadalajara front today, pressing forward in the wake of a rapid insurgent retreat and occupying several new towns, said government accounts of the operations northeast of Madrid.

Some reports placed the main government army in the vicinity of Almadrones, 32 miles northeast of Guadalajara, on the highway to Saragossa.

The government reported its troops reached Cogollor, on the road from Cifuentes and eight miles from Almadrones, and claimed capture of Yela, a small village to the south of Cogollor. Sixty-two more Italian prisoners were captured today, the defense junta announced.

Resisted at One Place.

At only one point was serious insurgent resistance reported today, at Padilla de Hita, 20 miles north of Guadalajara on a road branching off to the west of the main highway.

Today the government published a document which it said was a message of greeting from the Fascist grand council to "our 50,000 comrades who are fighting in Spain."

This document, said to have been issued at Salamanca March 3 in the name of "Gen. Mangini," was captured on the Guadalajara front, the government said.

Troops Mass at Pozoblanco.

ANDUJAR, Spain, March 21.—(AP)—The government brought up airplanes, tanks and motorized columns to Pozoblanco today as insurgents concentrated southern front activity at that point—key to rich mercury, lead, sulphur, and coal mining territory. Government sources said more than 10,000 insurgent troops, many of them Italian, were massed there for futile daily offensives against the town.

THE ELEVATED IN LOCAL TRANSPORTATION.

It is customary to say that Chicago has an elevated rapid transit system to supplement bus and trolley surface lines, but such a summary of facilities is somewhat misleading. In New York the rapid transit subway is the backbone of the traction system, whereas in Chicago the elevated is "just another form of transportation." Convenience to an elevated station does not govern property values nor is it a substantial asset to renting possibilities. A citizen will not walk much farther to an elevated station than to a surface line if the latter operates in the desired direction. Admittedly, the "L" makes better time, but the patron weighs the minutes lost in climbing stairs and waiting for a train, with perhaps an added disadvantage in the point of delivery within the loop. As one correspondent, apparently of Hibernian ancestry, observed, "I wouldn't use the elevated line unless it ran down a nearby alley—and if it did, I'd move."

This matter of optional routes brings into sharp relief another difference between the traction problems of Chicago and New York. As Manhattan is located between two rivers, ingress and egress is confined to a channel running north and south. As the island is not very wide, a few underground rapid transit systems can serve the entire business area. The territory surrounding Chicago, on the other hand, is devoid of natural barriers and the business center of the city may be approached from at least twenty of the thirty-two points of the compass. The congested channel necessary to support subway service does not exist. It may be recalled that Philadelphia, in attempting to solve a difficulty somewhat similar to Chicago's problem, dug a subway that has never been used beyond half capacity. It cannot be denied that the Chicago plan has basic advantages because it tends to preserve the city in a compact mass with all relative parts equidistant from the center. A one direction, high speed rapid transit line would serve to elongate the metropolis, and in the end defeat its own purpose.

It is axiomatic that there is insufficient room in any metropolis for competitive public utility companies. Chicagoans will recall without difficulty the inconvenience of duplicate gas, electricity, and telephone services. This characteristic is none the less true of transportation, so that the first step to follow the unification of the surface lines obviously should be consolidation with the elevated and motor coach companies. With all facilities under one head, the next objective should be some method of operating express buses, street cars, or both, to and from the areas beyond a four or five mile inner zone, within which local transportation alone would be available. No rapid transit system can make local deliveries and remain "rapid transit." A well known parallel is the local and express elevator service in a skyscraper.

To the consolidated company the elevated right of way would be a valuable asset. Local elevated service would be abandoned and ramps built so that surface vehicles could reach the upper level without transfer. The structures might even be decked for bus or trolley bus service. A specially lettered vehicle could then run eastward on Devon avenue, as an instance, either with or without rails, to mount the elevated structure at Ardmore avenue and run express to the loop. Similar plans could be worked out all over the city.

There must be many other suggestions as to the most efficient use of the elevated rights of way. So no conclusion is reached in this editorial. The matter is left open for public discussion.

CLOUDS ROLL AWAY FOR EDWARD.

Another British crisis has come and gone and interested persons who were holding their breath are taking the air naturally again. There were a few hours of suspense when it was thought that the Ipswich divorce was about to be sunk by judicial projectiles. There had been a suspicion that Mr. Simpson in behaving very handsomely had overdone his magnanimity and chivalry and had left a trail which might be followed to evidence of a generous collusion in his lady's attempt to make herself free for marriage with the then king of England.

When the king's proctor served notice that he would ask the president of the British divorce court for a direction in the proceedings it was thought that fate might be going to deal Edward still another trick by presenting evidence which the court would not overlook, forcing the invalidation of the proceedings to date and preventing the issue of a final decree. These fears proved groundless. The proctor wished only to assure the court that he had done his duty, had investigated rumors and had found nothing to sustain a charge of collusion or imposition upon the court.

The person who had intervened in the divorce proceedings before the abdication was revealed in a white haired, gold spectacled and unimpeachable middle class Londoner, typical of British respectability, who confessed in court that he had been so moved by the king's speech of farewell that he could no longer harbor the slightest suspicion of irregularity and wished to withdraw. Thus a figure of middle class morality and reputability in effect gave his blessing to the divorce. Now it will not be necessary to resort to the French courts and all may yet be well. Everything possible is being done to bring the coronation up to standard, in spite of the royal family episode and the Italian incident which has caused Mussolini to regret his inability to send a delegate to appear with one representing Haile Selassie. Great Britain is almost at peace.

The British government uses good judgment in not pressing Edward too far. Abdication or no abdication, he is the legitimate heir to the British throne, and such an heir wantonly double-crossed might develop a truly regal anger, regardless of all consequences.

KEEPING OUT OF WAR.

The new American neutrality bill as passed by the house of representatives with only 12 votes against it prohibits loans, credits, and shipments of arms and munitions to countries at war and to forces engaged in civil war. Other embargoes may be imposed at the discretion of the President, who may forbid American ships to carry war material to belligerents, prohibit travel by Americans on the vessels of belligerents, and impose a cash and carry condition upon all trade which might be exposed to war operations.

To some critics of the bill the discretionary power is not broad enough and to others it is too broad. Some still want completely automatic embargo and others would have the President authorized to pick and choose among belligerents and throw the weight of the United States against an aggressor and in favor of a country regarded as innocent and engaged in the defense of its territory.

No one knows how a neutrality act will operate until it has been tested, and the test will come when American producers, traders, and enterprisers find themselves cut off from a probable market by embargoes. Supplies of any kind are really war supplies in any such a conflict as the war of 1914. Food for the civilian population may be almost as important as guns and munitions for the troops. A population deprived of many necessities and ill nourished, even if not actually starving, in time will become an insufficient moral support for an army. When the people at home begin to despair the war may be lost.

The cash and carry provision will make the United States the supply depot for the countries which can protect their shipping and send for American goods. Even they will not be able to get munitions, but they can get raw materials and foodstuffs if they can pay cash for them. When the goods leave an American port they carry no American ownership with them. Paying cash might be the great difficulty. The bill prohibits credits and loans, but we found before we entered the war that the pressure of trade with the allies at last made the denial of loans an untenable position and President Wilson was swept out of it.

On a cash and carry basis America would be a source of supply to Great Britain, France in alliance with Great Britain, and Japan. Countries which could not keep their shipping on the sea would suffer from a complete embargo of all goods, even such as have not been regarded in the past as contraband. Our shipping could carry them nothing and they would be effectually blocked off from obtaining anything. They probably would regard this as not a neutral but an unneutral act.

CANADA'S PAY DAY.

The parliament of Canada is suffering from the annual spasm that accompanies the appropriation of fifty million dollars, more or less, to pay for the luxury of operating its own railway system. During this trying time the opposition party may momentarily offer fervent thanks that it is not in power and therefore not obliged to assume the odium of operating the people's facility at a loss. The sorest touch of the whole proceeding is the derth of excuses or opportunities to conceal the figures in bookkeeping. Freight and passenger revenues have been insufficient to meet the expenditures in wages, maintenance costs, and interest on bonds—and that is all there is to it. To make a bad matter worse, the privately owned Canadian Pacific railway, which parallels the national road across the continent, is not in distress.

The Canadian minister of railways is making a determined effort this year to secure authority to write off some capital charges. The roads that make up the Canadian National were acquired in the early '20s at a cost of a billion dollars, which has now risen to three billions. Such action would not reduce the annual deficit, but it might improve Canada's credit position in the eyes of the world. The people of Canada should realize that they are in precisely the same position as the stockholders in a receivership, who are asked to accept two shares of a new issue for three shares purchased by their tax moneys. On the other hand, there is something in the argument that the total amount should remain outstanding as a permanent reminder of the costliness of government experiments in industry.

Back in the early '20s an important section of Canadian citizenry looked with favor on the national acquisition of a railroad. There was a certain exhilaration in the thought that "we the people" would ride our own trains. Canadians are now paying fifty millions annually for that privilege without one iota of benefit from lower freight rates or passenger fares. Government ownership enthusiasts on this side of the line should take note that on an equated mileage the annual deficit for United States railroads would be a half billion.

Editorial of the Day

DAVID'S MISTAKE.

[Daily Oklahoman, Oklahoma City.]

Old King David was anything but modern when he accepted so meekly Nathan's indictment, "Thou art the man." If the murderer of Uriah had been at all modern he would have retorted: "You are not enlightened. I am going to get me some new prophets who will decide cases according to the spirit of the times."

PRICE WAR.

A teacher was giving his class problems in mental arithmetic and it came to Willie Simpson's turn. "Now Willie," said the teacher, "if your mother bought four dozen oranges and the market price was fifty cents a dozen, what would they cost your mother?" "Don't know, sir," said Willie promptly. "Don't know!" exclaimed the teacher in surprise. "Surely it's simple enough?" "Yes, sir, but then, you see, my mother's a great hand at bargaining."

STATE OF THE NATION.

Let's give it back to the Indians before all the inhabitants start making a living selling sweepstakes tickets to each other. . . . Strange, we never met anybody who had won a prize in one of the things. . . . They're going to pass a law to make the race tracks hire Illinoisans to work in the mutuels. . . . Now let's have one to make horses we choose work on the tracks. . . . A campus statistician has discovered that U. of Wis. coeds use enough lipstick every year to paint a barn. . . . The barns are not as bad as they could be painted.

SIR: As a pseudo-Frenchman, I arise hastily in my indignation and flannelet night shirt to object to the cooing way of pronouncing hors d'œuvres. The tested and mellow way to say it is "horse duffers."

"Hard hoofers" is better. Horse duffers are the fellows on the bridle paths.

A NIP AT NAPERVILLE.

When Wotsie Youse suggested that The First Tulip, seeking a perfect suburb, try Warrenville he should have looked three miles farther south and recommended Naperville. Here everything is peace and quiet, with the added advantages of sidewalks and grade A mortgages. Warrenville's news hounds haven't anything on us. What could better describe our fair city than this from the Naperville Clarion?

> Miss Elizabeth Rikli returned to the old home town to spend Sunday with her friends and parents, Dr. and Mrs. A. R. Rikli. Sunday morning she was in the family pew of First Evangelical Church; in the afternoon she indulged in whole-hearted relaxation. Regularly, she is occupied in directing the School of Nursing of the Galesburg Hospital.

NOT OFTEN DOES our hurrah-ecstasy turn to verse. But we can't resist the temptation to say we think the English club of Cornell college at Mount Vernon, Ia., has done midwestern poesy lovers a great service in publishing a chapbook of poems by Jay G. Sigmund, entitled "Heron at Sunset." To our mind, nobody in America can better put rural scenes and deep emotion in the confines of rhyme and rhythm. Quite a trick, when you know that Mr. Sigmund is also the vice president of a large insurance company.

SUGAR MAKING TIME.

The Yankees call it sap, but to us it was "sugar water"—the nectar that dripped from our maple trees on the eve of every spring. The maples were "sugar trees," the grove was not a maple orchard, but a "sugar camp," and the finished product was molasses (in the plural, for the Hired Hand always said "Pass them molasses"). . . . Winter still, but spring already stirring in the hearts of the trees and in our own. Late February, with the ground freezing at night and thawing in the daytime; and early March, with the days perceptibly lengthening and the ramparts of snow crumbling before the assaults of the sun—Sugar Making Time. . . . The dawn was yet dim when we rose and proceeded to the camp. Holes were bored in the trunks of the sugar trees, and spiles, made of sumach, driven in. Under them troughs of black walnut were placed. As the day grew warmer the sap began to drip, and by evening each trough was full. It was emptied into barrels and hauled on a rude sled to the camp proper, where it was poured into iron kettles set upon an earthen furnace in which a wood fire was kindled. Then came the "boiling down," requiring watchful hours of stirring the sap and feeding the fire. Slowly the sap thickened and bubbled and grew amber in color, giving off an ineffable aroma that mingled with the incense of hickory smoke and permeated the woods. At last the bubbles began to break audibly with angry little puffs, like volcanic lava. The sap was mahogany brown now and ready to be set aside and cooled into molasses, or "stirred off" into sugar. Mellifluous maple syrup, more delectable to the taste than honey itself, and maple sugar, eaten while meltingly soft and warm—the most delicious confection the world has ever known!
Eolus.

AMONG THE THINGS gadders see we include a sign espied by Bish near Gray's Lake, "WORMS—GOOD FOOD," and another which Louie the Lug viewed over the entrance to a Wisconsin cemetery, "THESE GATES CLOSED PERMANENTLY."

WE GOT OUT OUR telescope to watch spring trip in over the equinox, but the snow Saturday kept us from seeing it.

THE POX FAMILY.

CHICKEN POX is a curious infection. Regarded as one of the mildest of childhood diseases, it may be followed in some instances by complications that are annoying, if not distressing.

Ten to fifteen days after exposure the child will usually become feverish and may have a slight chill. Vomiting is characteristic as are pains in the back and the legs. Within twenty-four hours the typical eruptions crop out, first on the trunk, then on the back, later on the chest. In some cases the lesions will break out on the forehead and the face before they will show themselves elsewhere on the body.

There is very little difficulty in detecting the difference between chicken pox and other types of skin manifestations. First comes the little red pimple [raised area] which—within a few hours—is transformed to a small, caplike blister containing clear or sometimes milky fluid. After a day or so the vesicles become filled with pus. If they are untouched, unscratched, and uncontaminated by the fingers they will begin to shrivel and by the third or fourth day dark, brownish crusts will form. These must be allowed to fall off of their own accord unless they are removed in the process of bathing. As a rule, no scars remain.

A peculiar feature of the infection is that these blisterlike affairs present themselves in sequential groups so that the skin will show scabs, pustules, and fresh blisters at the same time. The number may be relatively small—only a half dozen or so. But if the disease is severe several hundred may dot the skin.

As a rule complications will be avoided if the child is kept warm in bed and is not allowed to become too active. A light diet and plenty of fluids may be given and if itching is annoying an ointment that contains a minimal amount of carbolic acid may be helpful. In some instances kidney infection has been observed similar to that which is likely to follow scarlet fever. There is thought to be a close relationship between chicken pox and herpes zoster [shingles]. Each disease has been reported as causing the other.

Smallpox, on the other hand, is a dangerous infection against which there is a known preventive—namely, vaccination. It is a disease of the colder months or when autumn merges into winter or winter into spring. Unfortunately, a mild case may breed a critical one and there is no guarantee that the patient will escape a prostrating experience once he has acquired the infection.

For the first three or four days the patient is quite ill with violent headache, backache, high temperature, and chilly feelings. Then comes an interval in which he seems much better following the breaking out on the skin. Small, dark red spots appear which become raised above the surface, each having the feel of bird shot. The eruption is noted first on the face and wrists as a rule and within a few hours other parts of the body become involved.

As soon as the skin manifestations are "all out," as we say, the temperature falls usually to normal and the patient is quite comfortable. This stage may account for the spread of the disease, as sometimes—in undiagnosed cases—victims will leave their beds and mingle with others. As soon as pus begins to form within the lesions, however, a secondary fever develops which disappears as the pustules dry.

Protection against this loathsome disease is so simple, so readily available, and so cheap that it should be taken advantage of by every one. Because we are not today afflicted with widespread epidemics we have lulled ourselves into a sense of false security. Are children as thoroughly immune as they should be? There is no antitoxin or serum for the disease once it has been contracted and vaccination must precede exposure by several weeks in order to be effective.

Little treatment is needed other than good nursing, although sedatives may be required for sleeplessness. Diet should be largely liquid because the stomach is frequently upset and vomiting may become a prominent symptom. Again, as in chicken pox, if scratching is not indulged in few of the lesions will leave scars.

VARICOSE VEINS.

J. W. writes: What is the best remedy for varicose veins besides resting?

REPLY.

In mild cases it is often sufficient to avoid the use of garters, to remedy constipation, to stand as little as possible, and to sit with the feet elevated on a couch or chair. In more marked cases some mechanical constriction for the superficial veins is necessary. Support is needed to counteract the downward bulging pressure of the blood in the veins, whose valves have become useless. For this purpose one may get an elastic or crêpe bandage or elastic stockings. Many cases will be relieved by the injection into the veins of some irritating substance such as quinine urethane. A clot forms at once which later becomes solid. This treatment is practically painless and is usually free from later discomfort. It is not always successful, however, and great skill is required in administering the treatment.

SCIATICA.

Mrs. S. writes: What is the cause of sciatic rheumatism and what can be done to relieve it? My 27 year old niece is suffering from it. She is in her fifth month of pregnancy.

REPLY.

Sciatica is due to neuritis or to neuralgia. It is usually secondary to some other cause such as arthritis, disease of the lower lumbar vertebrae or pelvis, back strain, etc. Chills and injury seem to act as precipitating factors. Treatment consists of rest, strapping the back; applying a plaster cast, and the use of heat or diathermy. Occasionally pressure incident to pregnancy may give rise to neuralgialike pains but these are not true sciatica. Make certain that the tonsils are free from infection and watch the teeth for possible decay.

NOT CONTAGIOUS.

S. P. writes:

1. Is it dangerous to eat and drink out of the same glass and plate used by a diabetic?

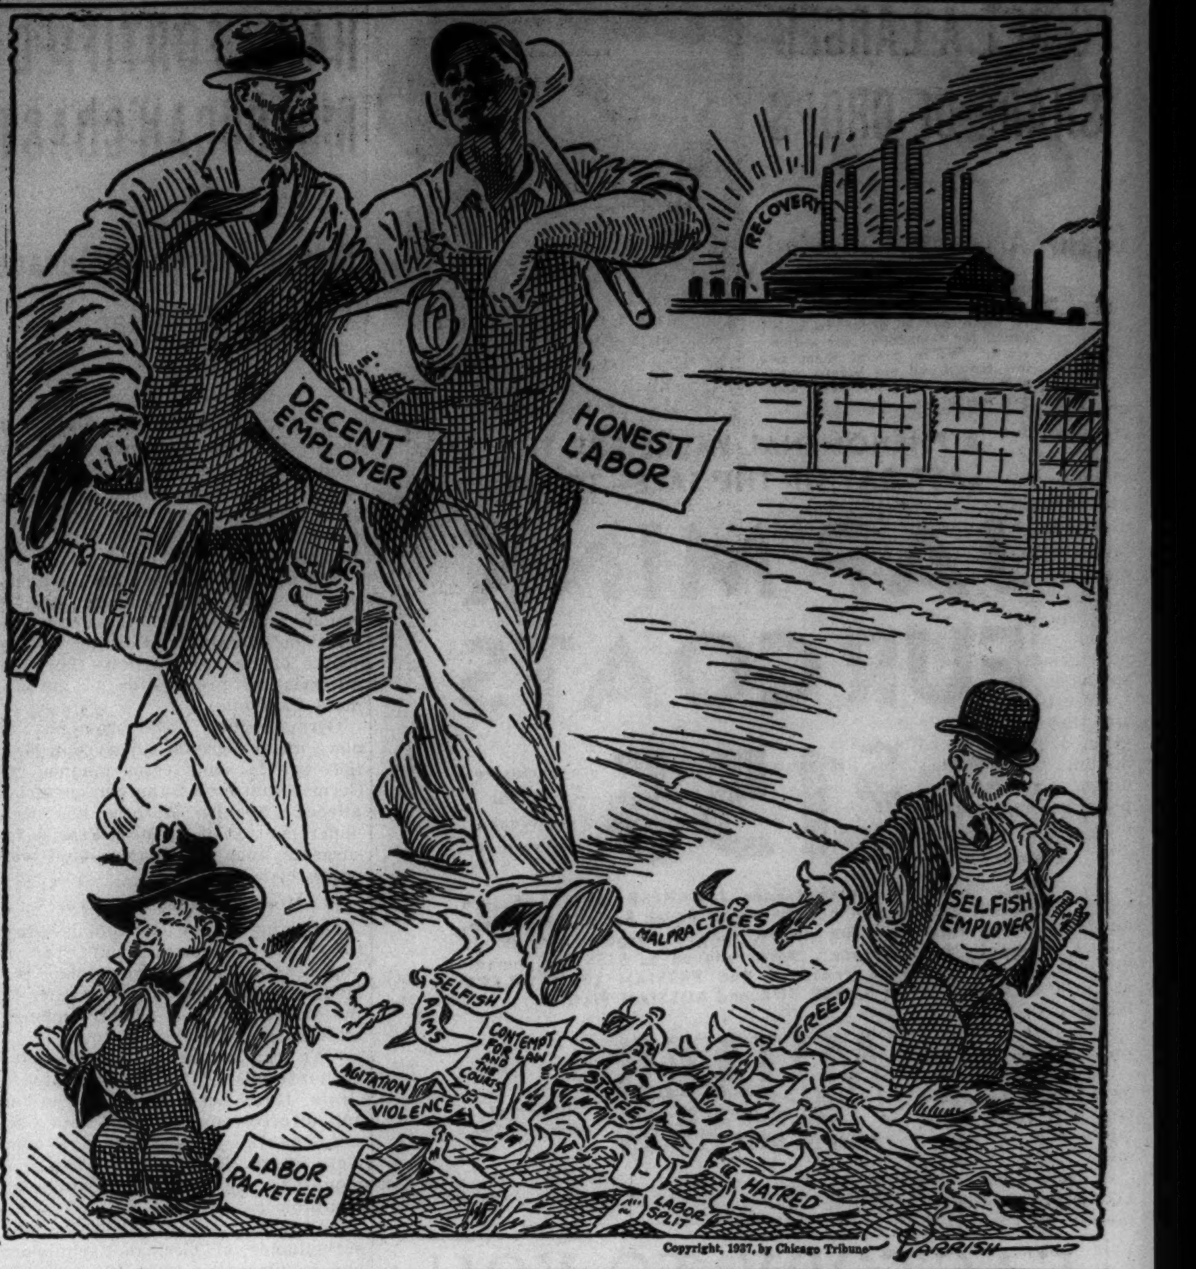
2. Does cracking the knuckles all the time dry up the liquid in the bones? Is it harmful to the health to continue this practice?

REPLY.

1. Diabetes is not contagious. However, you should use your own plate and glass.

2. Cracking the finger joints is an unpleasant nervous habit and should be corrected. It will enlarge the joints, but its worst effect is on the nerves of the observer.

DANGER OF A BAD SLIP UP



From the Tribune's Columns

20 Years Ago Today

MARCH 22, 1917.

LONDON.—A dispatch from Amsterdam says that "according to private telegrams from Berlin to the Amsterdam bourse, it is expected that a state of war with the United States will be an accomplished fact within 48 hours." The dispatch adds that American journalists in Berlin have been warned to this effect by the foreign office.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—When President Wilson appears before congress at the opening of the extraordinary session, summoned by presidential proclamation to meet on April 2, he will lay before the joint houses a summary of the long series of crimes and plots by Germany against this country.

LONDON.—The German retreat has mystified the allies, and both London and Paris are at high tension over the counterstroke which Gen. von Hindenburg is expected to launch. Reports from the battle front indicate that Von Hindenburg is ready to make his stand along the Douai-Laon line, and that preparations have been completed for the blow which he hopes will be decisive.

CHICAGO.—Fifteen hundred civilian Chicagoans will find themselves in the thick of anti-submarine warfare within a few weeks if the expectations of Capt. W. A. Moffett of the Great Lakes Naval Training station come true. These 1,500 are yachtsmen and others who are keenest for immediate naval preparation.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The administration has under consideration plans for a new revenue act conscripting all personal incomes in excess of $100,000 a year during the period of war with Germany. The plan also calls for drastic increases in the tax rates on incomes under that amount and a heavy tax on corporate incomes. The purpose of such a law, it is stated, is to have wealth bear its share of the war burden along with labor.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Adjt. Gen. Dickson received a peremptory order from the war department at Washington to rush complete requisitions for all necessary supplies to place the Illinois National Guard on a war footing.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—There is a decided division of opinion among those members of the new congress now in the city on the question of whether they shall declare a state of war with Germany, for which purpose they assume President Wilson called congress to meet on April 2.

CHICAGO.—Jacob Sonnenschein, 1545 Elburn avenue, Socialist candidate for alderman of the 10th ward, was shot in the thigh. He said he was followed home from a meeting of the Workers' institute in the West Side auditorium by a man who fired at him.

MUST HAVE PAPERS.

Chicago, March 12.—[Friend of the People.]—Can a person who has resided in Chicago for 55 years become a citizen without taking out a first paper? This person has been a widow for thirty years and is now old and feeble. The husband neglected to take out papers.
M. D.

No. It appears that the subject, in order to become a citizen, should file a declaration of intention [first paper], and, when the same is at least two and not over seven years old, apply for final papers.
FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
District Director of Immigration and Naturalization, Chicago District.

RECEIVERSHIP CERTIFICATES.

Chicago, March 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—How are [1] receivership certificates handled with respect to their [2] purchase and [3] liquidation?
C. D. D.

1. Receivership certificates might mean widely differing instruments.

2. Presumably it would be enough for the purchaser to pay his money and receive an assignment from the previous owner. This is on the assumption that there is no contrary wording in the instrument.

3. We do not understand the question.

THE TEACHING OF TEACHERS.

Chicago, March 18.—Your editorial of March 14 entitled "The Teaching Profession" gives much food for thought. As a graduate of the University of Chicago and of the Chicago Normal school, I want to say a few words concerning the conclusions of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

It seems to me the moral of their report is expressed in the following sentence: "Teaching candidates prepared in teachers' colleges ranked consistently lower than those trained in the colleges of liberal arts."

The teachers' colleges and the departments of education in the universities are the curse of our educational system. Filled as they are with educational cranks and nitwits, their one aim seems to be to teach their students how to dodge teaching. Not only do they fail to teach any English, mathematics, science, or history to their students, but they stultify the minds of their victims with numberless courses on "tests and measurements," "methods of examination of children," "supervision of study," "the curriculum," "the educational system," etc.

The reason the seniors in the educational departments of colleges scored lower grades in a test than high school seniors is that whereas the high school seniors had been taught some facts and these facts were still fresh in their minds, the normal college seniors had forgotten what they learned in the high school, while the normal college had taught them less than nothing.

The Carnegie Foundation can advance learning by using its influence to close all normal schools and educational departments of the universities. Then perhaps our high salaried superintendents will allow their teachers to teach the alphabet in the first grade in place of "remedial reading" in the high school. Then perhaps they will allow the candidates for teaching to study the subject matter instead of the value of the I. Q. tests to the child who wants to learn to read and write.
EX-HIGH SCHOOL TEACHER.

DID YOU GET IT?

Chicago, March 17.—Why don't they teach respect in the schools? It seems it isn't done at home. What can one expect of a future generation? I have had this experience many times, namely, having to stand up in a jittery street car where there are many strong young men, and they never offer their seats. Today I got on a car with a load of groceries, etc., and stood squarely in front of a young man with a monogrammed sweater on. He saw me try to keep my balance. I am short and 63. He never offered me his seat. I simply out and asked him for it. I am a lover of young people, but that instance is inexcusable.
E. K.

ADVICE.

Chicago, March 16.—Why don't you, why don't the financial editors of the other Chicago papers reconcile the headlines of your financial page with what you actually know to be the case? Why should you, in the face of what you know, endeavor to convince me and the rest of the great unwashed that the big boys, the barons of pay roll, are sitting on the flagstaf of the world when you know probably better than any one else that the men who have to meet those pay rolls so that not only themselves but the worshipers of John L. Lewis can eat, are sick at heart over what seems to be inevitable.

You know and I know that a more rotten, a more dangerous situation has never yet confronted those who live and have lived under the Star Spangled Banner, and yet you continue to insult the questionable intelligence of those who at least think they can think by headlining the marvelous showing of this company for January, the tremendous possibilities for another, and all the time you know full well that there isn't one big pay roll in the United States, regardless of their earnings, that isn't whistling through the graveyard.

It may be entirely the wrong policy. But I would like to see some newspaper come out and publish the real truth under some of those marvelous headlines, and by truth I mean just an inkling to us readers of what those same firms are subjected to, what they have to undergo and overcome to merit a favorable headline on the financial sheet.
JOHN H. ALLEN.

NOT FAR ENOUGH.

Chicago, March 16.—When such opponents on specific issues as John L. Lewis and William Green agree upon the importance of a measure, as they do upon the President's plan for the Supreme court, we may be sure that the interests of the great majority of American citizens are affected. However, the President's proposal leaves the fundamental issue untouched; it does not return to the congress the power specifically granted it in the constitution to regulate the jurisdiction of the court [Article III., Section 2]. The congress can and should, within the provisions of the constitution, attach to any social welfare bill it pleases a rider exempting that bill from judicial review as to constitutionality.
WALTER A. LURIE.

FOUR WHENS.

Chicago, March 11.—When was the last horse drawn street car taken from the streets?

When was the last cable car taken from the streets?

When did the police department take its last horse drawn patrol wagon and the fire department the last horse drawn fire engine off the streets?

When was the last wooden sidewalk removed to be replaced by cement?

SOVIET FARMERS TO GET A LARGER SHARE OF CROPS

Grain Arrears Canceled to Ease Drouth Burden.

MOSCOW, March 21.—(AP)—The government today announced four decrees making important concessions to farmers with the purpose of providing relief for those hit by last year's drouth and stimulating 1937 production by assuring farmers of a larger share in the crops they produce.

Yesterday official figures showed that the spring sowing in the soviet union was far behind schedule, which was blamed on a backward spring in the south.

Most important of today's decrees was that canceling all arrears in 1936 grain deliveries by collective and individual farms throughout the soviet union. Such measures have been applied before to localized areas, but never to the whole country.

Arbitrary Fines Halted.

The decree does not affect regions which had good 1936 crops, for their deliveries already have been completed. It is of extreme importance, however, to the drouth stricken areas, since it gives assurance the farmers will have enough grain to live out the winter and also have some seed for the new sowing.

Another decree halts the arbitrary fining of farms failing to make the required grain deliveries and provides that all such cases must be taken through the courts.

A third measure makes the 1936 quotas for delivery to the state applicable through 1937.

Reduce Tractor Charges.

The fourth decree decreases the rates of payment in kind which collective farmers must pay to machine and tractor stations for work done on their farms. This means a larger share for the farmer, and, it is hoped, will stimulate production.

Socialist Agriculture, news organ of the commissariat of agriculture, pointed out that the reduction of rates should stimulate the machine and tractor factories to greater efficiency and better yields in order to earn as much as they have in the past.

All four decrees were signed by V. M. Molotov and Josef Stalin for the commissars of the communist party.

BURGLAR'S FIND

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Mrs. Magda Moessner, who telephoned call to police in New York that a strange man was in bed with her, led to the capture of a burglar with a long record.

New York, March 21.—[Special.]—It was love at first sight that proved the downfall of Eugene Beagan, 20, of Brooklyn, a burglar by trade, who threw professional caution to the winds when he glimpsed a blonde wrapped in slumber.

Because of this lapse he was forced to flee, clad only in his overcoat, into the chill of a March morning, he confessed to detectives.

Police had been searching for Beagan since early Friday, when they received a summons from Mrs. Magda Moessner, 33, who they found in a high state of confusion on her sixth floor Brooklyn flat.

"Something terrible has just happened," she wailed. "I woke up and found a man in bed with me."

The intruder had fled hurriedly through the window, leaving his clothes behind.

"This," said the detectives, "should be easy to solve." It was. On the shirt Beagan left behind they found a laundry mark. They traced the mark to Beagan.

He confessed having committed more than 100 burglaries. He said his business took him up the fire escape, and he looked in the window. "There was the most gorgeous blonde I have ever seen," he said, "so I went in."

51 AMENDMENTS FILED TO BILL FOR DRIVERS' LICENSE

BY HAL FOUST.

Fifty-one amendments have been offered to the state drivers' license bill since it was introduced in the legislature on Feb. 3. For this reason not even the assemblymen are familiar with the bill in its present form. The roads and bridges committee of the house of representatives is scheduled to vote in Springfield tomorrow on whether to recommend the passage of the measure.

The attention of the legislators has been centered on the question of who will administer the law, who will collect the million dollars a year in fees, and who will get the patronage from the jobs created. This fight, between Secretary of State Hughes and Gov. Horner, appears to b. jeopardizing the passage of any sort of measure.

Penalty Is Revoking of License.

The bill provides that a driver shall be deprived of his license for a year after conviction or forfeiture of bail in a serious trafic case.

Moreover, the governor's draft of the bill authorizes the superintendent of highways at his discretion to suspend a license for a period not to exceed six months for certain offenses or practices.

This grant of power to an administrative official to suspend licenses is being opposed by many drivers. Except for the last provision, no court conviction is necessary to suspend a conviction is necessary to revoke a license. The superintendent of highways, who also commands the state police, would be the judge.

Court Appeal Possible.

He would conduct a hearing after giving five days' written notice served either personally or by registered mail upon the accused. The Circuit or Superior court could be asked to review the superintendent's judgment if the motorist pays the cost of the certified record at a rate of 5 cents per 100 words, not to mention his lawyer's fees.

FIND WOMAN DROWNED.

Chicago police were notified yesterday that the body of a middle aged woman had been taken from the drainage canal at Lockport.

HOLY LAND POLICE BATTLE GANG OF OUTLAWS IN HILLS

JERUSALEM, March 21.—(AP)—Police battled with 20 outlaws in the hills of Acre district today and captured two of them while elsewhere in the holy land Christian worshipers observed Palm Sunday in colorful procession.

The police took several guns from the two marauders, but the others, one of them wounded, escaped. The outbreak came only a day after Sir Arthur Grenfell Wauchope, British high commissioner for Palestine, won sweeping dictatorial powers to curb violence.

Fifteen hundred friars, nuns, laymen and children marched in the Palm Sunday observance here, singing hymns and bearing palms and olive branches. The procession began near Bethany and followed the exact route of Christ's entry into Jersusalem on the first Palm Sunday, ending just inside the gate of St. Stephen where the Greek patriarch conducted services in the church of St. Anne.

63 Seniors Here on Field Trip of Minneapolis High

Sixty-three seniors of the Marshall High school in Minneapolis, Minn., arrived in Chicago yesterday for a four-day study of all major phases of the city's life. The visit is an extracurricular feature of their school work, according to H. P. Cooper, school principal, who is in charge. Forty-two of the visiting pupils are girls. Inaugurated five years ago, the trip has become a regular event. The party is at the Brevoort hotel.

Ill. Symphony Concerts Show Lack of Polish

Far Short of Possibilities, Critic Asserts.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Illinois Symphony orchestra has been a fairly good orchestra for such a long time now that one cannot help wondering why it does not become much better. The regular Sunday afternoon concert at the Great Northern yesterday left this listener with at least three solid convictions.

First: the Illinois Symphony orchestra's fortissimo is rough and unbeautiful. Second: its pianissimo is simply an excuse for a pianissimo and not the real thing at all. Third: this orchestra does not exploit one-half of one per cent of the subtle and lovely color possibilities inherent in the modern symphonic group.

This outburst is justified by the fact that its members are not amateurs, but hand picked musicians. Note their precision, for instance, and their accuracy. The public is justified in demanding from such an orchestra adherence to the highest musical standards.

To follow gratuitous criticism with unsolicited advice, it may be that a slowing down of the process of repertoire building would cure the evils listed. Perhaps all the rehersal time is given over to the study of new things rather than the polishing of old.

Yesterday afternoon there were first Chicago performances of Gail T. Kubik's "American Caprice" and Bernhard Heiden's Prelude for orchestra. Other novelties and near novelties were the Purcell-Sowerby Prelude and Toccata, Cherubini's "Water Carrier" overture, and Smetana's "From Bohemia's Woods and Meadows."

The Cherubini has not been given by the Chicago Symphony orchestra in 23 years, the Smetana never. Marion Hall played the piano parts of the Sowerby and the Kubik works so well that she received warm and long continued applause from the audience. This she insisted on sharing with Mr. Kubik, who was in the house.

Later—in the non-novelty half of the program—William Faldner received similar recognition for his performance of the solo part in three movements from Lalo's Spanish Symphony for violin and orchestra. The young musician has unusual technical facility and dignity of style. He has hardly begun, however, to investigate the color capabilities of his instrument and the hundred little tricks by which rhythmic ping can be made to revivify outworn music.

Albert Goldberg conducted competently, turning without visible effort from one type of music to another.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., March 21.—[Special.]—Rear Admiral and Mrs. Hayne Ellis of Great Lakes Naval Training station and their sons, Lieut. Robert Alexander Long Ellis and Hayne Ellis Jr., were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Louis S. Owsley, formerly of Chicago.

The chief of western European affairs of the state department and Mrs. James Clement Dunn returned here yesterday from New York, where Mrs. Dunn had landed after visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Count and Countess de Baillett-Latouer, in Brussels.

HINDU DANCE DRAMA

BY CECIL SMITH.

"The Temple Lotus," a one act Hundu dance drama, was presented in the Woman's Club theater last evening by the Finadar Beliajus dancers. The musical accompaniments were played by the Hindu Arts ensemble. The performance was sponsored by the Vedanta society, in recognition of the birthday of Sri Ramakrishna, nineteenth century Hindu mystic.

The composition and movement of the dance drama were much in the style made familiar by Uday Shan-Kar, except that the plot was made clear through the use of more realistic detail. Contributing the best dancing of the evening, Beldon Starr, a young Chicagoan, achieved a remarkably fluent and polished counterfeit of Shan-Kar's technique. The entire occasion was rewarding and enjoyable.

The Fay Friedman dance trio appeared in the same theater yesterday afternoon. The members of the group are Miss Friedman, Frances Conn, and Eloise Moore. Ruth Gordon was an admirable accompanist.

Miss Friedman's work is modeled after that of Martha Graham, and gives promise of considerable power in the future. At present the technique of the modern dance has not yet become second nature to her. But I am confident that her self-consciousness will wear off in due time.

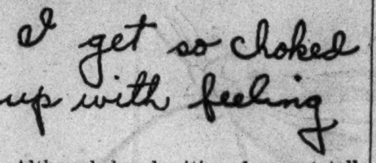
Writing Urged by Expert as Nerve Calmer

Use Pen Steadily, Says Miss Stafford.

BY MURIEL STAFFORD.

[Copyright: 1937: By Muriel Stafford.]

If "emotional conflict" is marked on your chart, try to steady your reactions. Don't let trivial things disturb you emotionally. Today's writer is definitly suffering from repressed and conflicting emotions.



I get so choked up with feeling

Although handwriting does not tell age definitly, I think this girl is quite young. Emotional conflict seems to be more prevalent in the handwritings of adolescents than at any other stage.

The strongest indication of disturbed, unstable emotions is handwriting that slants both to the left and to the right in the same word. When the pressure is light, the writer is apt to be easily influenced and rather indecisive and changeable.

When the pressure is heavy, as in this handwriting, the writer has a passionate nature. Her likes and dislikes are strong. With such decided changeability in the slant and the letter o so completely locked, I think that when she says she is "choked up with feeling" she expresses the matter perfectly.

Of course the inevitable reaction to such a summary is the worn out but expressive "So what?" Sometimes it is easier to diagnose a condition than to prescribe a remedy.

Just as keeping your desk tidy will help to make you more neat and orderly in other ways, I should say that one thing for a person with a disturbed handwriting would be to force herself to write naturally and steadily. Keep a forward slant ALL the time. As soon as you find your writing beginning to fight for two different slants, start all over again.

This, of course, does not apply to steady backhand writers.

Your Handwriting Analyzed

Any Tribune reader can obtain a personal graphology chart showing his or her assets, handicaps, talents, and emotions by following these rules:

1. Send sample of handwriting to Muriel Stafford, Chicago Tribune, post-office box 1720.
2. Inclose 10 cents (carefully wrapped) for each sample of handwriting you wish analyzed.
3. Inclose a self-addressed, STAMPED envelope, folded once.

Gracefully Informal Frock

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Graceful informality is the special charm of this daytime frock, which takes equally well to sheers and prints. It's just the type of ensemble for all kinds of daytime events, and it suits the slender woman as well as the one with ample proportions. The original of this distinctive and versatile dress is created in navy blue sheer. The becoming V neckline is enhanced by a narrow rolled collar. Shirring strategically placed lends lovely fullness to the bodice, and aids in fashioning a pretty shoulderline. There are no sleeves in the dress. The shoulders extend in cap fashion over the upper arm. The slim waistline is plainly belted, and the skirt fits snugly through the hips, although it develops moderate flare as the hemline is reached.

The jacket has a squared shoulderline, a simple stand-up collar arrangement, and either long or short sleeves. It extends to the bottom of the hipline [a slenderizing factor] and has an inverted plait in the back as a smart note and a means of lending fullness without bulk.

Prints are especially lovely for this model at this time of year. In sheer, this ensemble will do excellent duty far into the summer. If you wish, use the pattern for a summer outfit, too, with the dress of dark sheer and the jacket of white or pastel sharkskin in a harmonizing shade. Cottons should not be overlooked, either. There are many sheer cotton washables, and sturdy piqué would be lovely for the jacket.

Style No. 3104 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material, with 1⅞ yards of 39 inch fabric for the jacket.

Brownies Are Angelic Fare for Tea Party

Various Types of Tasty Cookies Described.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Easiest to make and, some say, best to eat among the cookie clan are nut brownies. These crisp or chewy [as you prefer] cakelets may be stirred together in a jiffy, and they are the perfect dessert accompaniment for ice cream, fruit sauce, or a cooked creamy pudding. Usually brownies are cut into small strips or squares about the size of pieces of fudge. They are angelic fare for a tea party.

Dozens and even a score of dozens of brownie recipes have been developed. Among them exist many differences in the proportions of flour, sugar, butter, and eggs. And upon these variations in composition depend variations in flavor and texture. For instance, the following recipe produces a chewy cookie, simply because it lacks butter. The second brownie is crisp because of the butter, and the third brownie owes its butterscotch flavor to the presence of brown sugar.

Chewy Chocolate Brownies.

2 eggs
1¼ cups brown sugar
⅓ cup flour
2 squares chocolate, melted
1 cup broken pecans
1 teaspoon flavoring

Add the sugar, flavoring, and melted chocolate to the beaten eggs. Add flour and half the nuts. Spread half an inch thick in a buttered square pan and sprinkle the rest of the nuts over the batter. Bake in a rather slow [325 degrees] oven for from 20 to 25 minutes.

Crisp Chocolate Brownies.

⅓ cup butter
2 squares chocolate, melted
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 cup flour
⅛ teaspoon baking powder
½ cup pecans
½ teaspoon vanilla

Mix butter, melted chocolate, and sugar. Add the beaten eggs. Add this mixture to the sifted dry ingredients. Add nuts and vanilla last. Stir together, pour into a square pan, and bake for 30 minutes in a 325 degree oven. Mark in squares while still warm.

Butterscotch Brownies.

⅜ cup butter
⅔ cup brown sugar
⅔ cup dark corn sirup
2 eggs
1⅓ cups flour
1½ cups broken pecans

Cream the butter and sugar together. Add the corn sirup, the beaten eggs, the flour, and nuts. Pour the mixture into a large buttered pan or two small layer pans, spreading it evenly over the bottom. Bake at 325 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes.

Black walnuts substituted for the pecans in any of these recipes will give an added distinctive flavor. For that matter, any preferred nuts may be substituted.

Oven temperature must be watched quite closely when baking brownies. Too hot an oven will scorch them, and too slow an oven may dry them out. The rather slow temperature of 325 degrees usually is most desirable.

Zion Passion Play Opens Before Audience of 3,000

Three thousand persons witnessed the opening performance of the Passion Play yesterday in Shiloh temple at Zion. The play, presented under the auspices of Wilbur Glenn Voliva's Christian Catholic church, will run until June 27. Those in charge regard this year's production as more authentic than that of last year, for Elder Jabez Taylor journeyed to Palestine for information to make it so.

Home Can Be Child's Castle or His Prison

If He Is Unhappy There, He Seeks Other Haunts.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Are you more or less at home in your own home? Unless you are in that cramped mental state of being under your wife's—or your husband's—thumb, you probably do pretty much as you please around the place, with only an occasional weak protest when you make too much work for somebody else.

Here is a corner of the earth that is yours, a good feeling to have. Your home is your castle. Therefore you can smoke that awful pipe, snow yourself under with the Sunday paper, leave behind you when you are late or going off on a trip a flurry of pajamas, towels, and clothes that should have been sent to the tailors. In sort, you feel that you have the right to move among the material things that make up your home as a free human being [fairly thoughtful most of the time] without someone continually sitting in judgment upon you.

You don't expect to be scolded or scowled at when you accidentally do some damage.

This may be your happy lot in life, but not your children's. There are many grownups who can and do enjoy their homes in this manner but who deny a similar enjoyment of it to their boys and girls. Their children are fettered and fenced in by don'ts and mustn'ts. They are blocked in their activities and enjoyment by some grownup's regard for those precious material things, or by her love of order, or worst of all, by her veritable reverence for cleanliness.

This last is almost an obsession with some housewives. And how utterly miserable it can make their families! Their husbands may balk successfully, but their children, being children, are the victims. It is nag, nag, nag, or "Do that outdoors," or, "No, you can't, it makes such a mess," or, "Look at all the work you've made for me." And then, when these parents have behavior troubles with their little children, or find their teen age ones going out for their pleasures, they wonder, and complain!

This home you live in is your child's home too. He has a right to it, to the enjoyment of it, to the freedom of it.

This subject will be continued tomorrow.

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

PART-SCORE BIDDING.

[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

Any opening four bid is purely a shut-out bid. The two way three bid means exactly the same thing as when there is no part-score, and partner's responses are the same.

The common belief that a bid is strength showing because it is more than needed for game is entirely incorrect. Having at his disposal an opening two bid and a jump suit response, a player does not need to use the regular preëmptive bid to show strength, and such bids are particularly valuable in part-score situations.

A double raise in partner's suit, or a nonjump suit take-out which is ordinarily forcing for one round, means exactly the same thing with or without a part-score. These bids are not forcing, however, when game already has been reached.

In general an opening two no trump bid or a jump response of two no trump should not be made. With hands whose strength is distributed it is better tactics to keep the bidding low and give the opponents every opportunity to overcall.

TODAY'S HAND.

It is particularly fitting, I think, that my Gold Book should be in evidence on the Yukon trail. Here is a letter I recently received from Dawson:

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: A bidding situation arose during play at the Bear Creek Bridge club which you might consider worthy of publication and comment, particularly in view of the employment by North of the grand slam force.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North

Pass	4 hearts	Pass	5 no trump
Pass	6 hearts	Pass	7 hearts
Pass	Pass	Pass

"South is of the opinion that North, after South's raise in hearts, should have bid four no trump, unconditionally forcing, and on the next round have bid five no trump, showing the four aces. Such types of hands are dealt with on page 279 of the Gold Book under the heading of 'How to Show All Four Aces.' North contends that, in view of the strength shown by South, the bid of five no trump, the grand slam force, was correct, and that South, holding the king-queen of agreed suit, should have bid seven instead of six hearts. South thought that, having opened no trump vulnerable, North expected at least one ace in his hand. Lacking this, notwithstanding the grand slam force, he signed off at six.

"Yours truly,
"A. B. DAWSON, Y. T."

In my opinion North's bidding was perfect up to his last bid of seven hearts. South's failure to bid seven over the five no trump grand slam force [which demands the partner bid seven if he holds two of the top three honors in the agreed trump suit] should have been evidence that the grand slam would require a trump finesse. As we all know, grand slams with finesses are to be rigidly eschewed.

I will not deny a certain sympathy for South, being forced to bid a grand slam when he had opened a vulnerable no trump without a single ace, but one should either play a convention or not play it. South had more than sufficient justification for his opening no trump bid in the possession of five honor tricks, and the fact that these included no ace should have cut no ice even in Alaska. It was simply up to him to follow orders, and answer the five no trump bid according to his trump honor holding.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: Partner opened the bidding with one spade. What is my proper response with:

Answer: Three spades.

THE girl in the florist's shop the other day who ordered two gardenias, "with a silver ribbon please. A DEPARTMENT store at Milwaukee and Kimball avenues has been closed since last Wednesday afternoon by a sitdown strike of 150 employés, most of them girls. The doors are locked, but a faithful picket paces before the locked doors with a sandwich board reading, "Please Do Not Patronize the Barber Shop in This Store . . . Unfair to Barbers' Union."

He said Saturday he had been picketing there for three weeks and saw no reason to stay home just because the place was closed.

RURAL note from Fairburg, Ill., population 2,300. A German farmer, one of the numerous Germans living in the vicinity of Fairburg, bought an electric razor at the local department store. He bought it on one condition, that he might come into the store once a week to shave, since he has no electricity on his farm. A postscript to this rural note is that the last time he came into the store to shave the general manager happened to turn off the electric switch while he was shaving and the razor was clamped securely to his week's growth of whiskers, until his shouts brought some one to his aid.

THE Private Schools' association was in session last week at the University club. There were only representatives of private schools for boys at the meetings and a query as to why it was an exclusively male representation brought out the story of a neat little trick the boys' school heads had played on the girls' school mistresses. It seems that until a few years ago both were represented in the association, but it worked out that the girls' school heads monopolized the sessions. A crafty member suggested, when the association met several years ago at the Palmer house, that the sessions be held the following year at the University club. The women voted for the suggestion, but discovered afterward that they would not be permitted to attend the sessions which were held—as they were last week—in the men's quarters of the University club.

AN audiphone salesman called on an elderly woman in despair of regaining her hearing. She was hesitant at first to try the contraption he wanted her to buy, but at the insistence of a friend who accompanied the salesman [the friend's name was Dr. Lee A. Bacon, just to prove we don't make up these tales], she finally permitted him to rig the instrument about her head and chest.

After the amplifier had been adjusted to a range believed efficient the salesman, in a sonorous voice, quoted: "Christ is our shepherd, we shall not want."

Then he boomed, "Didja hear that?"

The old lady registered pleased astonishment.

"I did," she answered, "but there's something wrong somewhere. Please repeat those sentences."

Again the salesman used his test lines.

When he had concluded the old lady observed quietly, "I heard you say that the first time. Young man, is there a trick connected with this contraption, or is it possible you can't repeat the 23d Psalm correctly?"

Lombard Movie Based on Stage Hit

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 21.—[Special.]—The stage hit "Burlesque," which was bought from George Watters and his coauthor for $160,000 and made into a Paramount film about nine years ago, may not be recognized by audiences when it makes its reappearance.

Carole Lombard.

But the story of "Burlesque" provided the backbone of the current Carole Lombard-Fred MacMurray Charles Butterworth release, "Swing High, Swing Low."

The "Hoofer" has been made into a musician and the locale has been changed from a prohibition era speakeasy in New York to a joint in Panama.

Katherine Brush's story, "Mannekin," after having been handled by several relays of film writers, is now to be done at Metro under the new name "Three Rooms in Heaven." It will co-star Spencer Tracy and Joan Crawford, making almost the first appearance of Tracy as a romantic and sympathetic character. Frank Borsage will direct this as his first picture at Metro.

Leon Janney, screen juvenile actor, will give himself $200,000 on April 1, his 21st birthday, when a trust fund in which his acting earnings have been placed for the last eight years matures. Janney, since his child star ring days, has been gaining experience on the eastern stage. He is in Hollywood at present preparing for a renewed screen career.

The marriage of Mrs. Nell Rooney, mother of Mickey Rooney, child screen player, to D. Fred Panckey, café man, became known here today.

By Mae Tinèe.

Good Morning!

Victor McLaglen is an amazing chap, isn't he?

For a long time we had him wrong—sized up as just Edmund Lowe's sparring partner in the matters of profanity and girls.

Then along came "The Informer" to hand us the surprise of our lives in Victor as one fine dramatic actor. Now, well—just see if you don't think he rings the bell again in this release.

"Nancy Steele Is Missing" is a new sort of kidnaping yarn. The hero is a hot-headed, likable lout who, because he hates war—having been through one—kidnaps the infant daughter of a capitalist in whose club he is a trusted waiter.

Before Dannie O'Neill can collect the reward posted—$100,000—his temper plays havoc with his plans. He is arrested for knocking out the teeth of an Italian in an argument about war AND bashing in the head of a policeman who comes to run him in. He receives a two year sentence.

A jail riot he is accused of starting adds 17 years to his term.

O'Neill's cellmate is a still, smiling sinister little fellow, Prof. Sturm—who subtly picks his brain. Sturm is waiting for the big chap when the latter is released and, unseen by his quarry, follows him to the retreat where the baby girl had been taken. [Posing as her father Dannie had left his supposedly motherless child with a kindly couple.]

By this time Nancy Steele, known to her world as Sheila, is a lovely girl some 18 years old.

From here on the picture is melodrama of the first water. Sometimes believable. Sometimes not. But unique all the way.

Mr. McLaglen's portrayal of O'Neill should win him another placque of some sort—silver, anyway. Peter Lorre does a grisly piece of work as Prof. Sturm. Walter Connolly wrings your heart as the father of the stolen baby and the rest of the cast stands by in fine shape.

A good show—"Nancy Steele Is Missing"—with never a nap period.

[And were the producers SLICK in the manner by which they made a kidnaper a sympathetic figure, without bringing Mr. Will Hays rampaging forth with one of his stentorian "Whoas!"]

See you tomorrow.

250 Couples Make Merry at Opening of U. of I. Night Club

Urbana, Ill., March 21.—[Special.]—Club Illini, student night club on the University of Illinois campus, opened Saturday night, and the 125 couples who crowded the former recreation room in Newman Foundation voted the evening a success. The club is patterned after student night clubs on other Big Ten campuses, and all intoxicating drinks are barred.

There were plenty of beer bottles in evidence at Club Illini, but they did not contain liquid. They were used to hold candles which dripped wax on the freshly covered white tables. Case after case of the favorite soft drink of thousands of university students, however, was consumed during the evening while those in attendance watched the student entertainers or enjoyed dancing.

Among the student entertainers were Eileen Shuster, Springfield; Dorothy Clark, Hinsdale; Millie Mellencamp, Warsaw, Ind.; Walter Olson, 8007 Blackstone avenue, Chicago; Eldon Smith, 7719 Bennett avenue, Chicago, and Freddie Pachiarek, 1305 Jackson avenue, North Chicago, who entertained with their singing; Betty Barta, 5347 South Lincoln street, Chicago, tap dancer; Jim Terfler, 1641 Adams street, Chicago; Steve Graves, Joliet, magician, and Lee Pizzuto, Rockford, pianist.

Spring fashion shows are running to packed audiences, showing to the last pocket handkerchief, the perkiest scarf, and the gayest gloves, what clothes hungry femininity will wear until summer outfits take the spotlight. The newest clothes in the fashion world are on display daily.

So far suits and coats are running shoulder to shoulder for popularity, with ensembles that resemble a combination of both causing almost as much excitement. Beige is 'way out in front, with the pastel colors giving a good account of themselves in the big rush of shopping. Combines of dark dress and light colored jacket or coat have taken nearly every one's fancy, but the black and navy outfits are still dress parade and extraordinarily beautiful this spring. Flower garden hats, tumbling over with buds and blossoms, butterflies and even birds will be Easter headlines of spectacular glory.

Hosiery is triumphantly torrid in all the sultry sun tan tones, much brighter than last year. High heeled footwear with bright bands of contrasting lether for trim, gabardine, smooth, supple suede, and patent lether are three big buys.

Both fabric and doeskin gloves come in ravishing spring colors with bags to match. The newest jewelry—pins and dips—provides small amusing and colorful decorations for coat or suit lapel. Belts are brighter than ever. Streamlines are smooth and fitted and trim. Necklines are high. Sleeves are short.

Tell Betrothal of Miss Caryl Bloomingston

She'll Become Ted Parker's Bride Early in June.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN A. BLOOMINGSTON announced yesterday the engagement of their daughter, Caryl, to E. Cummings Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Parker. The romantic news does not come as a surprise to the closest friends of the young people concerned, for Mr. Parker has been Miss Bloomingston's most devoted beau for several months.

The announcement was not made at a formal party, for many of Miss Bloomingston's friends are away. Later on, however, the Bloomingstons plan to entertain for their daughter and her fiancé, who always is called Ted. The wedding will take place early in June.

Miss Bloomingston attended the Ogontz school in Pennsylvania, and the Finch school in New York. She was introduced to society during the season of 1932-1933. Mr. Parker is a graduate of Dartmouth college. He is engaged in business in Chicago.

TRUTH TO TELL

SYNOPSIS.

Malcolm and Susan Dubenny's parents died in a flu epidemic during the war. Susan was taken by her mother's parents, the Somervilles. Mrs. Somerville refused the boy in hatred of his father, who had eloped with her daughter. Malcolm went to live with his Aunt Lorna and Uncle Hugh Lowell, his father's half-brother. Now 15, Malcolm has not seen his little sister for nine years and longs to meet her. He sets off on his bike on a secret mission to Crofter's End, the Somerville estate. In the woods of the estate the children meet. Susan denies she has a brother. Deeply hurt Malcolm leaves.

INSTALMENT VII.

SUE GETS A PRESENT.

Lorna, sitting in the garden with her book, heard Hugh's and Malcolm's voices in earnest conversation, going on and on. She did not like to interrupt the colloquy, but remained aware of it so that the novel could not hold her attention, until suddenly the sound ceased and Malcolm came cheerfully round the house to say:

"Good night, old top. I'm going to have a bath and turn in."

Hugh, following him to slip into a chair at her side, remarked:

"The young ass has overdone his cycling and I've advised an early night."

"Who went with him, did you hear?" she asked.

"I gather he must have gone alone, though I didn't ask. He has been talking about his future and must have gone off to think it out. Wants to know if I think he ought to go straight to a job from school or whether we can 'afford' Oxford if he can get a scholarship. At the moment I rather think he intends to be head of his house and head of the school as a mere preliminary."

Hugh laughed, though it was clear that the talk had pleased him greatly.

"O, but of course he must go to Oxford if he can," declared Lorna at once.

"If he mentioned a desire for the crown jewels you would back him up," teased Hugh.

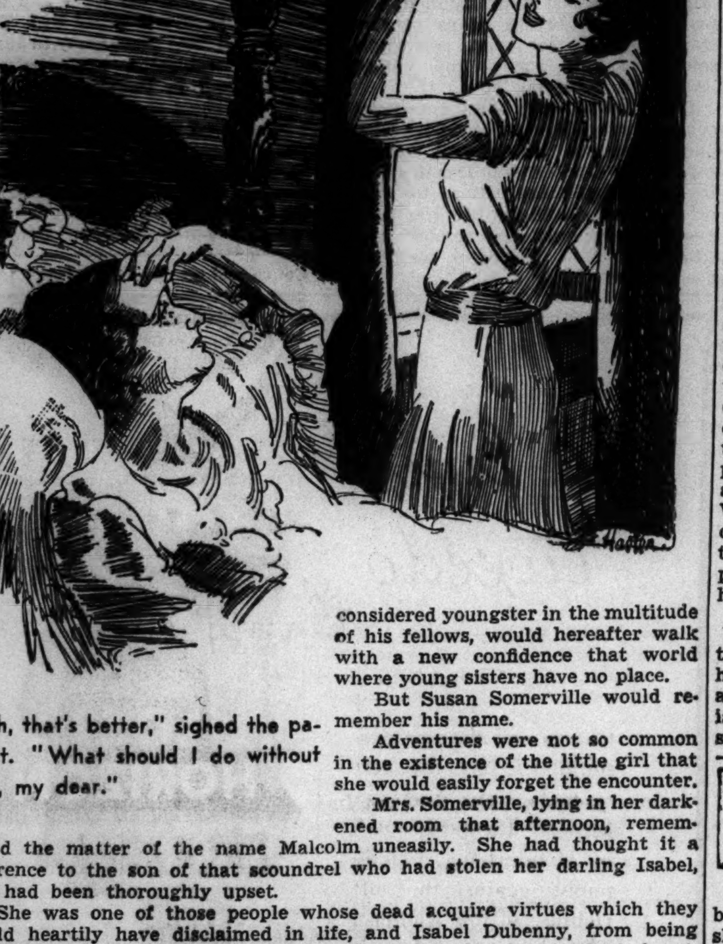
"Yes, I suppose I should," she admitted. "But you'd go and get them for him."

Upstairs a light went on and Malcolm's voice was heard in song. He was wildly happy. The disturbing dreams of Sue which had gradually grown more and more infrequent as he left that tragic period of his childhood behind him were to cease altogether now that he had seen her again. And Malcolm, hitherto an unconsidered youngster in the multitude of his fellows, would hereafter walk with a new confidence that world where young sisters have no place.

But Susan Somerville would remember his name.

Adventures were not so common in the existence of the little girl that she would easily forget the encounter.

Mrs. Somerville, lying in her darkened room that afternoon, remembered the matter of the name Malcolm uneasily. She had thought it a reference to the son of that scoundrel who had stolen her darling Isabel, and had been thoroughly upset.



"Ah, that's better," sighed the patient. "What should I do without you, my dear."

She was one of those people whose dead acquire virtues which they would heartily have disclaimed in life, and Isabel Dubenny, from being a headstrong and ungrateful daughter who had broken her mother's heart, became the innocent dupe of a scheming nobody.

Mrs. Somerville was determined that Sue should be shielded from such pernicious associations, since a beneficent providence had permitted her to have the child from babyhood and therefore with no unfortunate memories to prevent the good work. Had she been older this would have been impossible, for the harm would have been done.

This being granny's firm conviction, Sue's innocent remark at luncheon had been most unnerving, even though it had transpired that a mere literary reference was intended after all.

She was quite upset when she remembered how sharply she had spoken to the poor child, and began to cast about in her mind for some credible excuse.

She did not see this as self-justification—the greatest folly in one who has something to hide. She would indeed have vigorously and indignantly denied such a description of herself.

Sue was her darling, had taken her poor mother's place as a daughter of the house and was to be her granny's comfort and stay in old age.

Why not mention a favorite dog of her own after which she had set her heart upon Sue's naming her pup? The child would be flattered and pleased.

She had no intention of reopening the subject with Sue in person, however, for she felt far too much upset by all these memories of the past. Ella must do it.

It was one of Ella Winch's many duties to save her employer unpleasant tasks, and it followed that she was unpopular in the household.

She had come to Crofter's End seven years ago at the time when Baker, Mrs. Somerville's elderly maid, had begun to be troublesome and had had to go. All servants were inclined to be this nowadays, a luxury denied to such as Ella, the daughter of an impoverished family, who had no particular training or aptitude, and several young brothers and sisters to be educated.

Ella was devoted to Mrs. Somerville and therefore happy, for the old lady liked devotion and encouraged it, treating her as a friend instead of a dependent, or perhaps a favorite slave, according to the point of view.

That afternoon when Ella returned from her errand in town and knocked softly at Mrs. Somerville's door, she was told to come in.

"Ah, my dear, it is good to see your bright face again," sighed a voice from the bed, and although the room was in semi-darkness so that Mrs. Somerville could see nothing at all, the face in question brightened immediately and Ella Winch felt young and gay.

"I have one of my heat headaches. I wonder if you would give me a really cold compress, Ella, before you do anything else."

"Of course I will. That comes of my going to town. You have been doing too much," scolded Ella.

This was not true, but it satisfied both of them, making the old lady feel virtuous and her companion useful and safe. Not that Ella Winch was a hypocrite; she was merely a pleasant, ordinary, and rather anxious young woman, self-effacing from necessity and grateful for more kindness than she actually received.

Putting down her packages, she went into the bathroom and presently returned with a cloth soaked in lavender water.

"Ah, that's better," sighed the patient. "What should I do without you, my dear. Now draw the curtains and let me have the benefit of the breeze."

As the girl complied she was subjected to a quick inspection.

"Yes, I was quite right. That color suits you and the little frock is a great success. Now come and tell me whom you met," ordered Mrs. Somerville.

"Not a soul, except the girls in the wool shop who were all rather irritable," said Ella.

"That was great impertinence then. I shall complain and remove my custom if they were discourteous to you. They should be dismissed."

"O, but they were not in the least," exclaimed Ella. "It is very sweet of you, but please don't. I should feel dreadful. It was so hot in town and customers can be very maddening."

"So much the better for them then," said the old lady. "Ella, you must take a message to Sue for me. She began to chatter about a name for the setter pup at luncheon and I had to silence her rather sharply because children's talk is liable to irritate her grandfather. Explain that. She will understand, and I don't want her to feel hurt, poor little thing."

"Tell her," finished Mrs. Somerville indulgently, "that she may call the pup Hero after a dear old dog her granny once loved very much. That will please her. Go now, will you, dear, and then come back."

Impossible for Bump on a Log to Have Charm

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

A woman under discussion was tolled off with the homely expression: "Nothing but a bump on a log!" She sits not like the character who sits and thinks and sometimes just thinks. She just sits, volunteering nothing, looking nothing in the way of expression, about as invigorating, one might say, as a dead fish eye.

Is her company a strain? Just ask that group that was attacking her the other day! We introduce her today as an exhibit of a charmless woman. She's been well enough educated. She managed, anyway, to win a perfectly good man, which indicates some intelligence, you will admit. One wonders how she holds him, she is so unresponsive, so mute. It may be an act, but a dumb one we call it.

We are speaking today of charm in connection with being a charming guest. As has been mentioned before, one of the fundamentals of charm is the art of pleasing. Some women may please without any effort on their part, but most of us have to put ourselves out a bit in this direction. We can't express our latest irritation. We can't scold about the cook or the butler. We can't express ourselves antagonistically about anything when we are "guesting." We have to be controled individuals, checking our idiosyncrasies. We have to put on a nice social manner simply because it is our duty to our hostess.

So, why should any one woman think she's doing enough when she's had her hair done, her nails tinted and has worn her new frock? She isn't. More is expected of her. More should be extended by her if she has any interest in being numbered among the charmers. We hear enough about the woman who won't be quiet, who monopolizes the conversation every moment. We hear about her as an object lesson in what not to be. Maybe the mute, unresponsive ones are not so many in number, but when they occupy a chair for an evening in your home and you're strained to the breaking point trying to "bring them out," they seem legion.

Anyway, the moral is that if you want a place on an invitation list you must contribute more than a dumb presence. You are expected to add to the pleasantness of the evening.

Lipstick technique for thick lips is only one of the many subjects about which Antoinette Donnelly, Chicago Tribune beauty editor, writes helpfully in her booklet, "Makeup Magic." Get this booklet of beauty secrets. On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 5 cents. By postpaid mail, 7 cents.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Here are some of the best Easter bets, which should go high on your shopping list if you share our belief that beauty-gifts are charming Easter offerings:

One of those nice big eggs, in yellow, white, red, peach, green, or blue, that contains three little bottles of perfume within the dainty shell. Very much like the eggs you colored as a child, these, and delightfully packaged. The three perfumes are a delightful carnation, a royally rich gardenia and fine blend with a dominant note of English lilac. The perfumes are famed favorites and in this Easter presentation you get three at a reasonable sum.

A cunning little basket of deep blue bakelite, in which nestles a two dram bottle of a well known perfume that has special springtime lure. This basket is tied with dainty white ribbon and comes in a most amusing, smart outer box. It's definitly inexpensive and you'll find it about everywhere. The sub-debs, in particular, would adore it.

There are two beguiling Easter packages of fine, but not too highly priced, bath glorifiers. What better choice than a trio of cologne, bath crystals and dusting powder, beautifully boxed? Take your choice of a rich gardenia or the more unusual lily of the valley. These are wonderful sets at any season but for the festive Spring greeting artificial floral sprays of the gardenia or lily are nestled on the packages of preparations of the corresponding fragrance. These can serve as a corsage, which make it all extra exciting. Attached to the sprays is a little gift card to tell the fragrant story of your Easter gift giving.

Tell Betrothal of Miss Caryl Bloomingston

She'll Become Ted Parker's Bride Early in June.

will be particularly gay because several of them will include another bride-to-be as well as a third young woman, a bride of a year, who will be making her first xisit her to her husband's family.

Mrs. George Allen Holloway, the former Betsey Paddock of Pittsfield, Mass., is accompanying her husband west from New York next week to attend the wedding of his brother, John W. Holloway, and Miss Dement on April 3. Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Holloway will give a buffet luncheon for their daughter-in-law and son, George, as well as for John Holloway and his fiancée at home on the day of the wedding.

Fiancee of J. R. Short Jr. Arrives from the East.

The other bride-to-be, Miss Barbara Allen of Brookline, Mass., arrived Saturday in Winnetka to be the guest for three weeks of the Jeffrey R. Shorts, to whose son, Jeffrey R. Short Jr., she is engaged. Miss Beatrice Short will give a luncheon and miscellaneous shower next Friday for Miss Dement and for Miss Allen, her future sister-in-law.

To make the Holloway family reunion complete at the time of the wedding their daughter, Mrs. Edward T. Herndon, will arrive on Saturday from New York. Mr. Herndon hopes to come the following week.

The Merritt H. Dements will give the wedding reception for their daughter and the bridegroom at the Winnetka Woman's club instead of at their home, as was originally planned. The reception will follow the ceremony the evening of the 3d at the Church of the Holy Comforter in Kenilworth. The Dements re giving the bridal dinner the night before the wedding at the Chicago Athletic association clubhouse.

Two Other Parties to Be Given Late This Week.

Another luncheon and miscellaneous shower will be given for Miss Dement on Thursday by Mrs. James Joyce, and on Saturday night Mr. and Mrs. F. Harney Bassett [Betty Scriven] will entertain at a dinner. Miss Peggy Gould, who is to be a bridesmaid for Miss Dement, will give a luncheon and shower in Winnetka the same day.

Miss Helen Fulton, also a bridesmaid, will return from Bermuda, where she is playing in a tennis tournament, in time to give a dinner in Winnetka on March 30. Miss Virginia Rich, the maid of honor, is entertaining at the national badminton championship matches April 1 at the Naval Reserve armory and at supper afterward.

The Grant Cookes, Mrs. Russell Gessel, Miss Eleanor Dodgson, and the Peter Bartons already have entertained for Miss Dement and Mr. Holloway. George Holloway will be his brother's best man, and another brother, Larz A. Holloway, will be among the ushers. Also ushering will be Gridley Dement, the bride's brother; Frederick Tanner, Francis Holbrook, Benjamin Porter, and Donald McAllen, who was at Princeton with the bridegroom.

After a cruise to the West Indies, Mr. Holloway and his bride will live in Evanston.

Spurgeon-Junod Wedding Scheduled for April 10.

The date for the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Junod, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray L. Junod of Evanston, to William Spurgeon has been set for April 10. The ceremony will be read by the Rev. Ernest F. Tittle at the First Methodist church in Evanston. A reception will follow at the Westmoreland Country club.

Mr. Spurgeon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard F. Spurgeon of Glencoe, will take his bride to Mexico on their wedding trip.

Numerous Benefits to Follow Close of Lent.

Women who arrange benefits are keen psychologists on more than one count, and there could hardly be better proof of this than the number of events that have been planned for April, when the quiet of Lent is over and that exhilarating feeling of spring just around the corner awakens a desire to go places and do things.

It should be an easy matter to sell tickets for the benefit which the Church Mission of Help is announcing today, for that organization again is taking over the opeing night of the San Carlo Opera company's spring engagement Monday evening, April 19, at the Auditorium theater.

Last year's opening performance of "La Traviata," sponsored by the Church Mission of Help, was such a success that it was decided to sponsor the opening again this year, when the opera "L'Oracolo," will be given its first Chicago performance in English. "Pagliacci" and the ballet, "Viennese Life," also will be on the program. Proceeds, of course, will go to the organization's work on behalf of underprivileged young women.

Mrs. Dudley S. Stark Heads Opera Benefit.

Mrs. Dudley Scott Stark is general chairman of the committee arranging the benefit, with Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, Mrs. Bruce Borland, and Mrs. James R. Offield assisting her as vice chairmen.

Mrs. Theodore W. Robinson, who has headed the Church Mission of Help since its organization 14 years ago, is serving on the committee. Other committee chairmen are Mrs. Duncan H. Browne, boxes; Mrs. Nathaniel A. Owings, publicity; Miss Madalon Search, ushers; Mrs. William A. Humphreys, treasurer. Frank W. Hughes, advertising.

Mary Crane League Rummage Sale April 22.

Another of benefits planned for April is the semi-annual rummage sale of the Mary Crane league to be held in Evanston April 22 and 23. Plans for the event will be completed at a tea tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. C. Ortman, 2729 Sheridan road, Evanston.

Mrs. Ortman is chairman of the committee in charge of the sale, which with a second sale in the fall, a ball in December and a card party in May, furnishes the league with the larger part of its funds. The league is the sole support of the Mary Crane nursery school for underprivileged children at Hull house.

Another event in April, the Easter card party of the Edgewater branch of the Infant Welfare society, will be discussed at a luncheon today at the home of Mrs. Franklin McCarty, 5536 Sheridan road. The card party will be held Wednesday, April 21, in the Gold ballroom of the Congress hotel. Mrs. Albert Montgomery is president of the Edgewater branch.

Mishakoff Quartet Closes Chamber Concerts Tonight.

The Mishakoff String quartet will give the final concert tonight of the Chicago Chamber Music association season in the foyer of Orchestra hall. Rudolph Ganz, pianist, will be the assisting artist.

Walter Laves, director of the midwest office of the League of Nations association, will speak on "Peace Through Neutrality and International Trade" at a meeting of the Lake Shore League of Women at 12:30 o'clock today at the Arts club.

Sasha Siemel will talk this afternoon and tonight at the Harris school, on "Jaguar Hunting," for the benefit of the library fund. The afternoon lecture will be for the younger pupils and their friends, and the evening lecture for older students and their parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll H. Sudler are leaving today to motor to Mexico City over the new highway. They will be away until the middle of May.

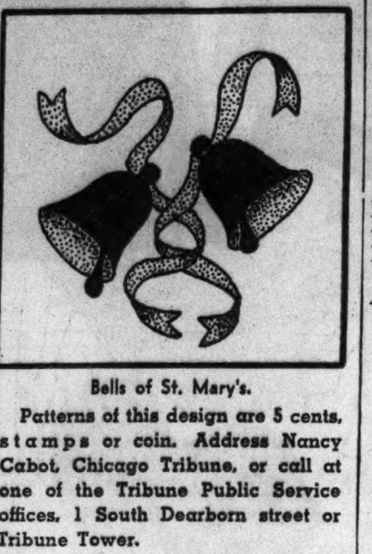
Woman's City Club Hears Lecture on China Today

William F. Barnes will talk on "China the Magnificent" before the Woman's City club at 2 o'clock today in its new quarters, 410 South Michigan avenue. Mr. Barnes will wear Chinese attire and will exhibit porcelains, painted scrolls, and carvings.

ENGAGEMENT

Mrs. Arthur Hamilton Vail of 5329 Hyde Park boulevard announces the engagement of her daughter, Patricia, to William Dudley Watson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Watson of 6946 Chappell avenue.

Applique Quilt Block Ideal for an Infant's Crib



Bells of St. Mary's.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Here is a clever little quilt without any known history or background, but it is one of the most attractive of applique designs. "Bells of St. Mary's" blocks are set together with alternate blocks of plain white, and the color arrangement is entirely up to the individual. It is the type of block which would work up beautifully in a crib quilt. The block is small, measuring 11½ inches square, and 32 appliques and 31 plain blocks are required for a quilt measuring 85 by 108 inches.

Wedding Waits on Work, Says Tyrone Power

He and Sonja Stroll in the Park Unrecognized.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Tyrone Power Jr., not so long ago a Chicago radio actor and currently the threat to Robert Taylor as Hollywood's leading heart throb, put in a busy day here yesterday. Up at the crack of dawn, he rushed to the train to meet his girl friend, Sonja Henie, the skater, on her arrival from Detroit. [He had been visiting her there earlier in the week.]

After breakfast at the Belmont hotel they went strolling in the park a couple of hours—and went unrecognized. As to his romance with Miss Henie Mr. Power had this to say:

"Yes, we like each other. Marry? Perhaps some time, but certainly not right away. We are young and we both have a lot of work ahead of us." [He is 22.]

Later the young actor spent some time looking over the play, "The Wind and the Rain," from which he is to do a scene on the Rudy Vallee hour in New York Thursday. He is to fly to New York tonight after seeing Miss Henie and her mother off for Hollywood, where the skater is beginning work on her next picture, "Thin Ice."

Later there was more sauntering in the park and in the evening they saw the windup of the six-day bicycle races.

This morning Miss Henie and Mr. Power are to visit THE TRIBUNE'S color studios.

John Hessin Clarke, 80 years old, only living retired justice of the Supreme court, will discuss President Roosevelt's proposals for the judiciary over WLS-NBC at 8 o'clock tonight. Mr. Clarke retired from the Supreme court in 1922 to devote himself to promoting world peace. He will speak from San Diego, Cal., following a radio introduction by James M. Cox, speaking from Miami, Fla.

Gordon B. Enders, adviser to the Panchen Lama of Tibet, is to be interviewed over WLS at 9 a. m. today by John Baker on the regular School Time hour. Enders, a former Iowan, has resided in Tibet for many years.

John McCormack, announcing his retirement the other day at Buffalo, left himself an opening which some reporters failed to mention.

"I'll sing on the radio once in a while, if any one will listen to me," he promised.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The Red Devils from France—Emile Ignat of Paris and Emile Diot, a milliner of Osmery—captured Chicago's 37th international six day race which wound up at the Chicago Stadium last night.

They finished a lap in front of the field after a spurt had netted them a lap and broke a six way tie for the leadership shortly after the 9 o'clock sprints began.

In second place was the Holland-Italian team of Georgetti and Wals. In laps gained they were in a tie with the Canadians, Audy and Peden. They had won most of the sprints during the last hour of the race, however, and earned second money on points. Peden and Audy took down third money.

Sonja Presents Trophies.

As a result of the points they picked up in the final sprints, Peden and Audy took down third money.

A spill in which Debruycker, Peden, and Georgetti went down five minutes before the race ended added the final thrill to the race.

Sonja Henie, the skate star, was on hand to present the flowers and the trophies to the Red Devils.

Wals, the Hollander, was the star of the last hour of spectacular riding. He personally accounted for eleven of the twenty-eight sprints decided during that hour.

The largest crowd of the week—a gathering of 14,000—arrived early to see the finish. The last day and night of riding brought many thrills.

Fights and Spills.

The crowd was in a turmoil when the Belgian team of Aerts-Debruycker slid from the top of the pine saucer during the first of the last hour sprints. Debruycker was up in a jiffy, but they poured cold water into Aerts' face and applied smelling salts for five minutes before he could get back on his feet.

There was a fist fight early in the day between Cor Wals and Ferdinand Grillo. Wals had cut off Grillo in a jam.

Jules Audy went down in a spill a few minutes before 6 o'clock last night. He was out cold for five minutes. He returned to the race, but failed to show his usual dash until 10 o'clock. A few minutes after 10 it was his brilliant riding that made it possible for the Audy-Peden duo to gain a lap and remain in the fight. This came an hour after the French Red Devils, Ignat and Diot, had picked up a lap to break a six way tie that had existed for more than 24 hours.

Seven Teams Finish.

Seldom has a six day race in Chicago brought a more closely contested battle. Never at any time during the six days of pedaling has one team enjoyed a lead of more than two laps.

The first team to wheel to the front on the opening night of the race was Ignat and Diot. During the next three days Thomas and Reboli, Audy and Peden, Aerts and Debruycker, and Debaets and O'Brien enjoyed a lead of not more than one lap.

On the fourth night Wals and Georgetti staged a sensational jam which carried them into the lead from two laps back.

On Friday and Saturday four and six way ties existed most of the time. The team of Audy and Peden enjoyed great popularity at different stages of the race and at times was hooted roundly.

Seven of the twelve teams in the original field finished the race. The German team of Krossmeier and Wissel dropped out early in the evening and Grimm and Cohen quit at 11:25 when seven laps behind.

Results of the final hour sprints:

1. Georgetti, O'Brien, Aerts, Diot.
2. Wals, Debruycker, Peden, Ignat.
3. Grimm, Peden, Diot, Yaccino.
4. Wals, Audy, Ignat, Aerts.

Sox Get Four Runs in 8th; Beat Los Angeles Again, 10-7

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ontario, Cal., March 21.—The Chicago White Sox took the Los Angeles Angels of the Pacific Coast league for another ride today and it was considerably bumpy for both parties. The affair unexpectedly developed into a struggle for errors as well as runs. The major leaguers were victors in the latter phase, 10 to 7. But the Angels proved the better patrons in the error column. They miscued on seven occasions. The Sox managed to hold their blunders down to half a dozen.

Monty Stratton.

Manager Jimmy Dykes employed three of his outstanding pitchers, and when it came to restricting hits they were pretty good. The ragged support, however, was annoying, especially to John Whitehead, who was frisked for four runs from the fourth to the sixth inning. Monty Stratton, who started, yielded only one run, and it was legitimate. The last two tallies were scored in the ninth off Vernon Kennedy after an error by one of the shock troops had put him in a hole.

Zeke Is Disciplined.

The Angels' comical fielding made run production simple for the Sox, although they did plenty of hitting. They blew Red Evans out of the picture with three runs in the third in which two errors figured. They continued to pick up runs in three of the four subsequent innings and then went to work seriously in the eighth. In this session they hopped on Newall Kimball and scored four times. He also was the victim of a run in the seventh. The Sox enjoyed this because Kimball is Cub property.

Mr. Zeke Bonura was restricted to two innings of work on this occasion, and it naturally was embarrassing for him to follow a rookie. Zeke was penalized because his conduct aroused the ire of Dykes. Zeke almost missed the bus out of Pasadena and moaned because he could not delay the start long enough to eat breakfast. He complained lustily when he arrived at the park and learned the concession stand was bare. So Dykes told him he couldn't start at his position. Instead Zeke was ordered to do a lot of running, but he managed to find the usual excuse. He was too weak.

Pirates Are Next.

The Sox go back to routine training tomorrow and a similar program has been arranged for the next day. On Wednesday they will resume exhibiting themselves, the date being with the Pittsburgh Pirates at Los Angeles.

GOLDEN GLOVERS TAKE LAST HARD WORKOUTS TODAY

Chicago, New York Boys at High Pitch.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

This is the final day of strenuous training for the Golden Glovers of New York and Chicago, whose camps are less than a mile apart on Michigan boulevard. Wednesday night in Chicago Stadium the amateur boxers representing the nation's two largest population centers will meet in their tenth annual contest.

This is the peak performance. It climaxes three months of preliminary tournaments in which 29,000 boys participated. Undoubtedly, if judged only by the caliber of the squads and the basis of previous combats, the capacity crowd of 21,000, an attendance defintly assured by virtue of the sellout a week ago, will watch a series of bouts which has not been equaled in this country.

They Want Intercity Title.

All this, contestants and spectators know. Because of these facts there will be a capacity attendance. And also because of these same facts each boy eagerly is seeking an intercity title as self-evident ratification of individual achievement.

Each of the sixteen winners Wednesday night will receive a diamond set ring. The losers each will receive a gold ring. These, of course, are only emblematic of the prizes, intercity championships, which the boys regard as highest of all boxing honors.

The rival camps were centers of activity yesterday afternoon. Encouraged by a brilliant spring day, following Saturday's inclement weather on their arrival, the New Yorkers were out on the road early. The boys trudged and jogged through Lincoln park, along the shore of Lake Michigan, and then reported back to the Medinah club of Chicago. In the afternoon, in two rings, all twenty-nine members of the Manhattan squad went through their boxing session under the eyes of Head Coach Young Otto and his assistants.

Chicago's Enthusiasm Grows.

Grant park was the scene of the Chicago squad's morning drill. At the Illinois Athletic club gymnasium in the afternoon, Coaches Johnny Behr and Freddie Caserio supervised the next to last ring workouts.

Enthusiasm mounted with the passing of the hours. In particular, the champions, who, under the rules of the tournament, automatically are matched, were curious regarding the abilities of their opponents. They won't meet, however, until the weighing-in ceremonies at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Here Are Title Pairings.

The championship pairings for half of the intercity bouts, beginning with the 112 pound class and in the order of appearance, are:

William Speary, New York, vs. Jimmy Urso, Chicago.

Morris Parker, New York, vs. Frank Kainrath, Chicago.

Jack Donovan, New York, vs. William Joyce, Chicago.

Joe Kelly, New York, vs. Edward Kozole, Chicago.

Jack Tolson, New York, vs. Verne Patterson, Chicago.

Harry Smith, New York, vs. Al Wardlow, Chicago.

Charles Jackson, New York, vs. Herman West, Chicago.

Joe Matisi, New York, vs. Paul Hartnek, Chicago.

Eight other bouts will support these. The contestants will not be announced until the coaches exchange their lists at the weighing-in. None of the alternates then can be used unless they fail to make weight or because of illness.

There isn't much the coaches can do about it, but they were busy yesterday with their pencils trying to figure the results in a majority of the fights. As in all such calculations, the result of the series will swing on the outcome of two or three close bouts. Hence the continued emphasis on condition.

Berlin Bout Turned Down by Braddock

New York, March 21.—(AP)—Heavyweight Champion Jim Braddock, still holding out for a $400,000 minimum, today turned down an offer of $350,000 for a title fight with Max Schmeling in Berlin this summer.

Jim Braddock.

Although Schmeling told the titleholder the Deutsche Halle A. G. had increased its previous $250,000 guarantee by $100,000, Braddock, through his manager, Joe Gould, refused to give up his fight with Joe Louis in Chicago on June 22 for less than the previous minimum he had set.

"In addition," Gould said, "Schmeling will have to straighten things out with Madison Square Garden and Promotor Mike Jacobs so that there will be no legal complications."

He referred to the contract Madison Square Garden holds for a Braddock-Schmeling title fight in its Long Island City bowl on June 3. Braddock turned his back on that contract to sign for the fight with Louis in Chicago.

Schmeling, making his announcement through his American representative, Joe Jacobs, said he also had offered Madison Square Garden $50,000 to release the Braddock-Schmeling fight, but that the Garden had refused it, pending court action they expect to take against the Louis-Braddock bout.

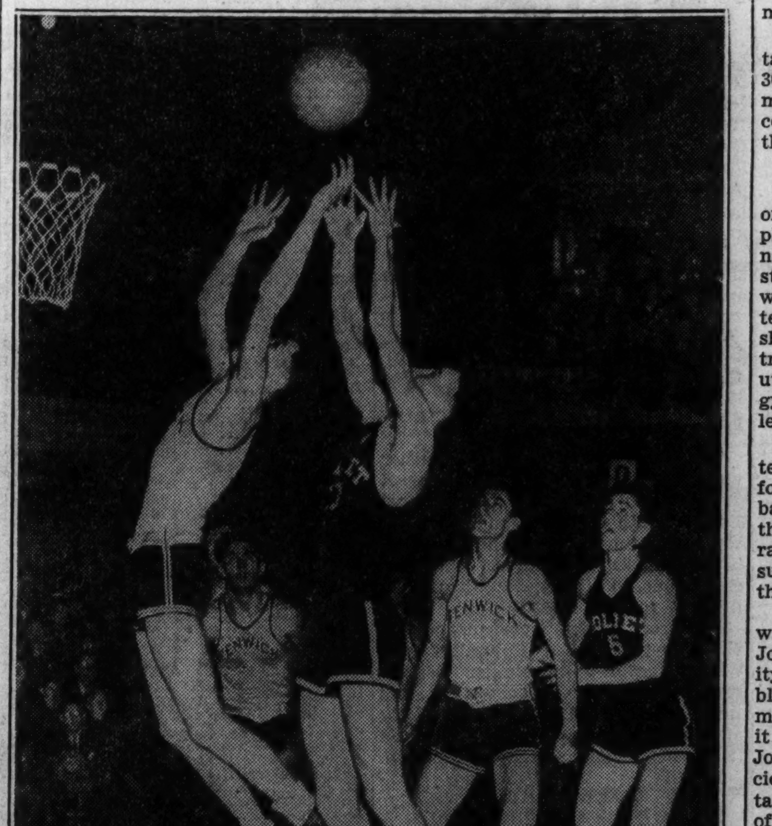
"We've tried for 17 days, since Schmeling reached here from Germany, to get Braddock, the Garden, and Mike Jacobs together," Joe Jacobs said. "This is our final offer. If it's not accepted by Tuesday it will be withdrawn."

Schmeling's latest proposition, like the first, was made on behalf of the Berlin promoters, the Deutsche Halle A. G. He insisted there was nothing to any report that the German government is backing the fight.

"The government's only concern," he said, "is in permitting the money to go out of the country tax free. The $350,000 would be posted in any bank outside of Germany or the United States stipulated by Gould."

LEAVES SOUTH WEDNESDAY.

Miami Beach, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—Heavyweight Boxing Champion James J. Braddock said today he would end a three-week vacation here Wednesday and return to New York.



The Joliet five strives desperately to get its offense going, but misses again. Fenwick led 14 to 0 at one time in the title game. Here Morrisey, Fenwick forward, and Bob Smith, Joliet, are attempting to recover a rebound. BY HOWARD BARRY.

Fenwick High school is the new National Catholic Interscholastic basketball champion. The Oak Park team defeated Catholic High of Joliet, 30 to 27, in the tournament final last night at Loyola gymnasium before a capacity crowd of 3,700.

A tremendous first quarter drive in which Fenwick earned a 14 to 0 lead was the deciding factor. The Joliet boys closed with determination but just fell short of tying the score during a mighty offensive in the last half.

Seldom in the 14 years of the tournament's history has a team clicked with the perfection displayed by Fenwick in those first few minutes. The Oak Parkers controled the ball almost without interruption for seven minutes, cooly waiting their opportunity to shoot. And nearly every shot meant two points. When they did miss, Bob McCabe or Marshall Webb was ready to take the ball on the rebound and set the offense in motion again.

Joliet Stages Rally.

In the second quarter, Catholic High made several substitutions calculated to afford greater height. The lanky Louis Martincich, one of these substitutes, promptly took the ball off the backboard and dribbled the length of the floor for a field goal, thereby starting a drive that was cut short only by the final gun.

Throughout those last three quarters Joliet hammered away persistently. By the half Fenwick's lead was reduced to 18 to 10 and by midway in the third quarter it was only 20 to 15. At this stage Fenwick stepped out again, scoring 5 points in rapid succession to reach the three-quarter mark with a 26 to 15 margin.

Again Joliet came back to the attack and reduced its rival's lead to 30 to 27 with a little more than a minute to go. Then Fenwick gained control of the ball and held it until the final gun.

Ryan Fenwick Star.

Larry Ryan, Fenwick guard, was one of the coolest and most effective players ever seen in the Loyola tournament. He was both a spark and a steadying influence to his team. It was Ryan who started that first quarter drive with a spectacular running shot. And it was Ryan who took control of the ball in that last wild minute of play. Of all the persons in the gymnasium he seemed the most collected at this moment.

The other members of the Fenwick team, coached by Tony Lawless, a former Loyola university football and basketball star, worked smoothly throughout the game, refusing to get rattled under the tremendous pressure to which they were subjected in the closing stages.

The clever and elusive Bob White was one of the dominant factors in Joliet's sustained offensive. His ability to feint deceptively and then dribble in for a short shot at high speed meant two points repeatedly. And it was more than a coincidence that Joliet pepped up as soon as Martincich went into the lineup. This tall center repeatedly gained control of the ball for his team and scored at timely stages.

Richmond Wins Consolation.

St. Joseph of Huntington, W. Va., beat La Salle of Philadelphia, Pa., 37 to 27, for third place.

Benedictine High school of Richmond, Va., took the consolation championship by defeating St. Mary's of Anderson, Ind., 42 to 30, in the first game on the evening's program.

SPARTA LOSES TO ST. LOUIS, 3-1, IN WESTERN SERIES

Shamrocks Take Lead in Title Play.

BY OFFSIDE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., March 21.—Scoring their 21st successive victory of the season, the St. Louis Shamrocks defeated the Chicago Spartas, 3 to 1, here today before 5,000 in the first contest of the two game series to determine the western division champion in the national challenge cup soccer competition.

The second and final match is scheduled to be played in Chicago next Sunday, with the winner of the series to be decided on a total goal basis. The western title holder will then meet the New York Americans, eastern division winner, for the United States championship and the Dewar trophy.

Jimmy Wolf Scores.

The Shamrocks, seeking their fourth national title, took the lead 26 minutes after the game had opened and maintained the advantage until the finish. Jimmy Roe, Billy Gonsalves, and Oe Strattman scored the St. Louis goals, while Jimmy Wolf accounted for the Chicagoans' lone marker.

The Shamrocks, although having a definite edge throughout most of the first half, held only a one goal lead at the intermission. Play was fairly even until Roe beat Sebek at the 26 minute mark. The Shamrocks then pressed hard and the Spartas, forced on the defensive, narrowly averted being scored on several times.

Shamrocks Increase Lead.

The Shamrocks increased their lead to 2 to 0 fifteen minutes through the second period when Gonslaves scored from a scrimmage close to the net. Strattman added the third St. Louis goal a short time later as the Shamrocks continued to monopolize the play.

Wolf scored Sparta's only goal of the contest thirty minutes through the last half on a hard shot from close in. Lineups:

Picard, Ford Win Florida Best Ball Golf

St. Augustine, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., and his amateur partner, Frank Ford of Charleston, S. C., scored a 4 and 3 victory over Jimmy Hines and Mark Stuart to win the $3,000 amateur-professional best ball golf tournament today.

The winning pair finished the first 18 holes with a three up margin. Hines of Garden City, N. Y., and Stuart, a New Yorker, took only one of the first three holes.

Hines took the fifth with a deuce and the eighth with an eagle 3, but Ford dropped an 8 footer on the ninth for a birdie 2. Two up at the turn, the Picard-Ford pair picked up another hole on the back nine.

Picard in Finals Last Year.

Picard went to the finals last year only to be defeated by the team of Gene Zarazen and Mally Reynolds. Frank Ford proved a perfect partner this year and Picard earned $1,000 of the $3,000 prize money. For reaching the finals, Hines pocketed $500. Both amateurs received handsome trophies.

The afternoon play was nearly a carbon copy of the morning play. Hines and his partners gained a hole by wininng the second with birdies but Picard fired an eagle 3 on the fifth to again take a 3 up lead. Stuart found his stride and blasted a birdie 3 on the sixth to shave off a hole as both Picard and Ford were down in 4.

Picard's Putter.

Shortly after the turn Picard began to work wonders with his putter. He holed long putts on the tenth for a par 4 and on the 11th and 12th greens for birdie 3's, thereby taking a five hole lead. Stuart prolonged the match by sinking a long putt from the edge of the 14th green but they halved the difficult next green to end the match, 4 and 3.

Today Picard was brilliant. His tee shots carried the greatest distance and his iron play was perfect.

Trenton Wins Eastern Amateur Soccer Title

New York, March 21.—[Special.]—A goal in the last half minute of 150 minutes of spirited play gave the Trenton [N. J.] Highlanders the amateur soccer championship of the east today and eliminated the national amateur cup defenders, the Brooklyn Germans, 2-1.

Joliet Cheers Champions in Civic Welcome

Joliet's theme song was "City of Champions" yesterday and 5,000 wildly jubilant basketball fans roared it for the city's first state high school championship team.

Herman Walser.

The squad that beat Decatur, 40 to 20, Saturday night in the finals of the annual state tournament at Champaign, came came home yesterday to a celebration, the like of which Joliet hasn't staged in years. Coach Herman Walser and his squad were escorted to the high school, where cheers, songs, and speeches continued for almost two hours. The first phase of the celebration ended with a parade, blocks long, through downtown streets.

Senator Delivers Welcome.

After Joliet High's six time national interscholastic championship band serenaded the victors, State Senator Richard J. Barr delivered the official greeting. W. W. Haggard, superintendent of schools, lauded the team. Coach Walser thanked a "great team of courageous boys" for their coöperation in making him coach of a championship team his first year on the job.

Walser became head basketball coach when Doug Mills left Joliet to bring Illinois a share of the Big Ten title, also a first year achievement.

Wreck Morning Jinx.

Joliet's triumph in George Huff gymnasium at the University of Illinois wiped out the memory of bitter disappointments in 1935 and 1936, and wrecked its Morning Jinx. Mills took fine teams to the state tournament in those years, and each time, playing in the morning, was eliminated in the first round. Luck, or lack of it, of the draw again gave Joliet a first round assignment, but this time it defeated Athens, 31 to 24.

Joliet followed by trouncing Vandalia, 43 to 19, in the second round, then conquered Collinsville, 28 to 26, to reach the final.

VIENNESE SHOUT PFUI TO IL DUCE; GAME IS HALTED

VIENNA, March 21.—(AP)—A violent anti-Italian outburst by an Austrian football crowd today caused abrupt ending of an international soccer game and promised embarrassment for the Austrian government.

With Austria meeting Italy in an early round of play for the European soccer cup, the crowd of 40,000 which filled the Vienna stadium in spite of rain was vociferously anti-Italian from the outset.

Thousands took part in an anti-Italian demonstration punctuated by shouts of "Pfui Mussolini!" and "Down with Italy!" The Italian flag was torn from the automobile in which the visiting team reached the grounds.

As the game went on the crowd grew incensed by what it considered rough play on the Italian side. Tension increased, and late in the second half, with the Austrians leading, 2 to 0, Referee Ohlson, a Swede, stopped the game.

Harold Brown and Le Cadre Fight Tonight

Harold Brown, member of the 1934 Chicago Golden Gloves intercity team, will attempt to continue his professional victory march in a ten round bout with Gaston Le Cadre, European fighter, tonight at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street.

Although he has a hard foe in Le Cadre, whose battered countenance belies his skill, Brown, supremely confident, is making preparations for his next assignment—a proposed bout with Al Manfredo of Los Angeles, Cal., in the same ring one week from tonight.

Le Cadre Tough Foe.

This maneuver may be a trifle premature inasmuch as Harold's rugged, aggressive antagonist from Paris possesses superior experience in addition to abundant stamina.

In a previous battle at Marigold last month Le Cadre extended Milt Aron for ten rounds, the crowd booing the decision awarded to Aron.

Brown's great optimism has been instilled by victories over Billy Miller of Milwaukee and Frankie Sagillo, Cicero, this year after he had suffered an unexpected knockout at the hands of Aron to end his 1936 campaign.

Golden Glovers to Attend.

Members of the Chicago Golden Gloves intercity squad, which meets New York in the annual bouts at the Stadium Wednesday, will attend the show, accompanied by Coach Johnny Behr.

Phil Rosenberg, Golden Gloves alumnus who is fighting his way through a physical education course at Illinois, and Tony Cianciola, Milwaukee welterweight, will meet in the semi-final set for five rounds. There will be four other matches, one between wrestlers.

Jack Conley, Boston heavyweight, and Bert Rubi will meet in the windup encounter of the wrestling show tonight at White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. The match is scheduled for one fall with a 60 minute time limit. In the secondary feature Walter Roxy will encounter Jack [Bad Boy] Brown. Preliminary matches bring together Herman Olson and Benny Reuben, Heinie Olson and Jerry Meeker, and Bobby Pearce and Billy Goelz.

Carroll Wins; Dispute Other K. C. Finalist

Carroll, champion of the Knights of Columbus Basketball league for the last two years, will play either Santa Maria or Loyola-Hyde Park tomorrow night at the 124th Field Artillery armory for the 1937 title. The opposing team will be determined at a special meeting of the league tonight.

After Carroll had defeated St. Cyr, 29 to 27, in the first semi-final game yesterday to win a place in the finals, the second contest ended in a dispute, with both claiming a victory.

The confusion arose when McComb of Santa Maria scored two points as the gun went off, apparently winning for his team, 26 to 25. As the fans swarmed on the floor, however, and the Santa Maria players rushed to the dressing room, it was said that Umpire Barak had called a foul on Mullane of Loyola which nullified the basket and left Loyola leading, 25 to 24.

In the confusion which followed it was impossible to decide the matter. The final decision was left for tonight special meeting of managers and the two officials at the Chicago chapter, K. of C. clubrooms.

Carroll, in beating St. Cyr, won the game in the last two minutes of play.

Boston, Mass., March 21.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins ended the regular season tonight by overpowering the Chicago Blackhawks, 6 to 1, before 8,000 at the Boston Garden. The triumph was important to Boston, for it gave the Bruins choice of ice in their second place playoffs with the Montreal Maroons. As a result, the series will open in Montreal Tuesday.

Kelly Scores for Hawks.

The Hawks were woeful. Their only goal came during the last minute of play, after Paul Thompson lured his goal-tending brothers, Tiny, out of the Boston cage and passed back to Pep Kelly, who was unopposed as he flipped home a close-up shot.

Four of Boston's goals were provided by the Cowley-Sands-Getliffe line, the latter two scoring twice each. Wood Dumart opened the scoring in the first period and Getliffe's first goal was the only one made during the second period.

Rookie Gets One.

The Bruins' last point was provided by little Bobby Bauer, called up from the Providence International-American league farm to play right wing and pave the way for Dit Clapper's removal to defense in place of the injured Sylvio Mantha.

CUB REGULARS FINALLY DEFEAT ROOKIES, 9 TO 3

Fifth Attempt Brings Elusive Victory.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Phil Cavarretta.

Avalon, Cal., March 21.—The Cub Regulars this afternoon won their first victory since they beat Dizzy Dean in St. Louis on the last day of the 1936 National league season. They conquered in their ninth game since the Dean triumph, licking the Yannigans, 9 to 3.

The game did not have the defensive sparkle of the three previous games in the camp series. Bill Lee and Al Epperly, starting pitchers, were not impressive, but their successors, Clyde Shoun and Wes Flowers, were plenty good. There was considerable hitting, including homers by Stan Hack and Phil Cavarretta, and two doubles by Bob Garbark.

A ball lost in the sun in the first inning enabled the Regulars to score their second earned run in four games. Galan and Herman singled, after which Collins popped a fly into Majeski's territory, but Hank lost the fly in the sun and Galan scored. Demaree and O'Dea flied to Meyer and Marty forced Collins.

Cavarretta Hits Homer.

The Regulars' advantage failed to stand up through the first inning. The Yannigans took the lead when Majeski was hit by a pitched ball and Cavarretta knocked a homer over the right field fence.

The Regulars seemed in a fair way to score a million until a triple play wiped them out in the second inning. Hack opened the session with a homer, and a walk to Jurges, an infield hit by Epperly, and an error by Grimm accounted for another run. An error by Frey on Herman's grounder filled the bases. Collins then hit into the triple play, Grimm to Garbark to Sueme. Meyer scored on a single, two wild pitches by Epperly and Garbark's first double to tie the count in the second.

The Regulars went ahead on two runs in the third. O'Dea and Marty each singled and later each scored on a wild pitch by Lee. There was no further scoring until the sixth, when the Regulars counted two runs after two were out on Shoun's walk to Galan, Collins' single, and Demaree's double.

Some clowning by Manager Grimm, which nullified a great fielding play by Majeski which should have retired the side, enabled the Regulars to score two runs in the seventh.

Three Recruits Stick.

Camp getaway week finds three Cub rookies assured of sticking around in Chicago uniforms, at least until May 15, the player limit deadline. They are: Joe Marty, slated from the outset to become the regular center fielder; Hank Majeski, stocky infielder from Eau Claire, and Bob Garbark, versatile player from Toledo, who will be retained as a bullpen catcher. He is considered a fine prospect, mostly because of his throwing ability.

During the last few days George Stainback and Phil Cavarretta have been challenging Marty's and Augie Galan's rights to first string outfield calls. Their hustling and brilliant catches have not been overlooked by Manager Grimm and it would not be at all surprising to see the two very rapid young men moved up before the exhibition season becomes far advanced.

The intraclub series will end tomorrow with Root and Davis pitching for the Regulars and Parmelee and Carleton for the Yannigans.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

VACATION NOW.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., March 21.—Friend Arch: Well, Arch, I received your interesting letter about your trip east and what a hard contest you thought the New York News Golden Glovers would give our boys Wednesday night, so boxing fans evidently are assured another great show.

I also noted you thought I better take my vacation right away after all the hard work I've been doing for you so I'd be back in time to do a little advance "guessing" about the winner of the Kentucky Derby which at this writing is about the guessingest Derby we've had in several years.

So far as guessing, as you choose to phrase it, is concerned, certainly I ought to be qualified what with trying to improve the breed of thoroughbreds, greyhounds, roulette wheels, income tax returns, and on one occasion the galloping dominoes. But there's one thing of which I do not attempt to improve the breed—that's slot machines. By the way, have you heard they are scheduled to pass out in the fall so far as legality is concerned?

My expense account will come along in a few days. There appears some discrepancy between what I spent for you and what I haven't got left, but perhaps actual figuring will reduce the deficit. But you know from past experience I will try to be fair with you so that each of us will lose as little as possible.

Another thing, some of the girls in Evanston—I don't mean schoolgirls but girls more like your age and mine—have asked if I'd say something in The Wake about their national championship badminton tourney at Naval armory in Grant park April 1 to 3 because people might see it here who wouldn't anywhere else. Personally, I think the crack about seeing it here was subtle flattery because I've never had any letters from my badminton following, if any.

Anyway, Arch, I won't be there, but I'm sure it's not a "clip" show but a charity affair which gives money's worth for a worthy cause—dental clinic or community center or something like that. I have a bunch of literature about it, but you'll undoubtedly get a handful there so what's the use of cluttering up Jim Farley's mail bags?

So if the sport page can do anything for the gals I know they'd appreciate it. I slipped 'em a few smelts and it's the first time I ever attempted to improve the breed of badminton players, but the last time I saw any I thought their breed needed improving, so maybe this is the time.

In the meantime, Arch, don't do anything I wouldn't do until my return in April, and hoping you are the same. Regards.

Harvey T. Woodruff.

P. S.: I still hold the short distance record on a circular track; that is, I don't need any advance order on my semi-monthly honorarium. HTW.

2d P. S.: Going to Tropical Park tomorrow and dog races tomorrow night, so if you should get a telegraphic S O S please disregard foregoing P. S. HTW.

MOSES AGAIN.

MEXICO CITY, March 21.—(AP)—Wally Moses, pressed into action late, hit a home run with two mates aboard in his only batting chance to help the Philadelphia Athletics vanquish the Agriculture team in today's exhibition game, 7 to 3.

Duquesne Beats Whiting, 39-37, for National Title

Leininger Is Winner in Southern Golf

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Edgewater Park, Miss., March 21.—A full battalion of Chicago's army of golfers today had concluded the competitive side of their first search of the 1937 season for birdies, not to say pars, at the Edgewater Gulf course. There have been 175 of them in these parts the first two days of the Chicago district golf outing conducted by Steve Williams of Evanston and Al Hale of Medinah.

The tournament was unique in that it was not held for the scratch golfer who can bat around a golf yard in par, but primarily for the business man player who will proudly settle for a half dozen well hit tee shots or a 20 foot putt here and there.

W. R. Leininger Leads.

It is rare for the head man of an organization to be listed among the prize winners of a tournament, and even rarer for his own son to be at the head of the list. Yet such was the case, when Williams and Joe Davis, acting secretary of the Chicago District Golf association, came to reckon up the victors in the prize list.

At the top of the low gross scores for Class A was Walter R. Leininger of Westward Ho, who came through with an 87 for the first round and an 82 on the second for a thirty-six hole total of 169. Among the low net winners in the same division was Walter G. Leininger, his father, who is president of the C. D. G. A. Undaunted by the fact that he faces the task of supervising the $10,000 Chicago district open in July, the senior Leininger came away with second low net on a card of 78—74—152.

The Leiningers were not alone in enjoying themselves during the outing, which will be concluded with a series of free style matches among old friends in the Chicago district. Leslie Cook, vice president of the Western Golf association, led all gross scorers in Class B with 81—85—166. Maynard [Scotty] Fessenden, one of the moving spirits of the Chicago open, dashed around in 88, an effort which rewarded him with low net for the round.

Forty Clubs Represented.

Nearly forty member clubs of the C. D. G. A. were represented during the official two days of the event. Many of them did not even pause at eighteen holes on the Edgewater Gulf course. They continued on another round, either at Golf Hills, where Matt Mattson of Ridge, secretary of the Illinois P. G. A. holds forth, or great southern, where Jim Wilson of Park Ridge, former president of the P. G. A., has been stationed for nearly a score of winters.

Several of the visiting sportsmen, not content with hastening the golf season, also decided to rush the baseball calendar by going over to Gulfport to watch the New York Giants whip the Cleveland Indians, 8 to 1. The elder Leininger was too interested in golf to attend this, but did manage to have a picture taken of himself which he admitted was the best likeness of the Leininger features he ever had seen.

Hosts Can Play Too.

Williams and Hale as hosts of the party, withheld themselves from the prize list, but did not neglect to prove that they can still play a bit of golf. Steve, yesterday dashed around with a neat 77, while Al came through with an 83, including a sparkling 38 on the last nine.

Varsity Joins Wisconsin Frosh in Football Today

Madison, Wis., March 21.—[Special.]—Outdoor spring football practice for the Wisconsin freshmen and holdover varsity players will begin tomorrow. Freshmen candidates have been working indoors for several weeks under Assistant Coaches Bob Reagan, Russ Rippe, and Frank Jordan. Augmented by varsity players not engaged in other spring sports, the entire squad will be divided into four teams to play a round robin schedule.

First Chicago Bowlers Fail to Hit Stride

New York, March 21.—[Special.]—The advance guard of Chicagoans scheduled in the American Bowling congress tourney failed to cause the minor event leaders any disturbance in the national tournament today.

A poor opening game, 134, prevented Charley Miller from going places in the singles class. After the lowly opener, Miller found the range for games of 212 and 234 in topping the Windy City keglers on the card with 580.

The R. Harders-E. Wagner combination was tops among the Chicago double teams with 1,079. Chicago scores:

Golden Gloves Teams Close Drills Today

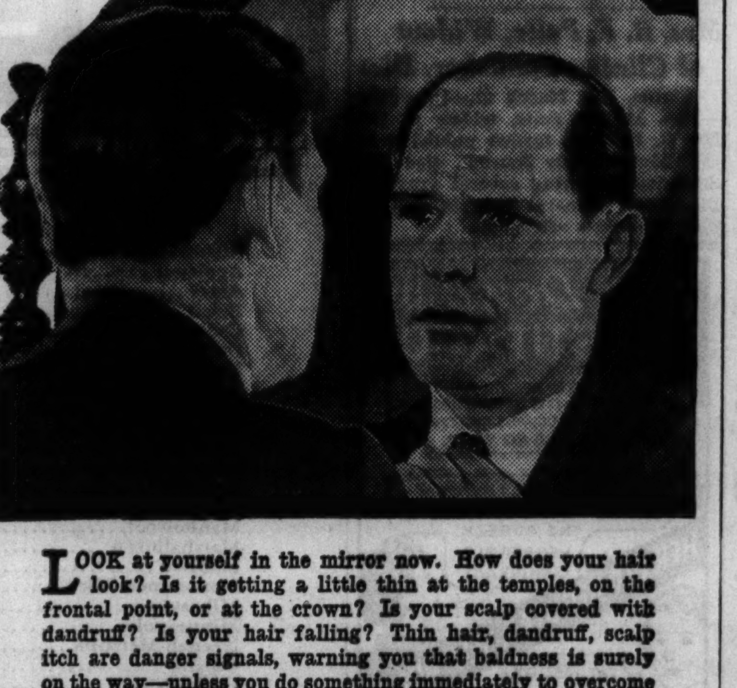
Indian [just a bit of Indian] really is. The New York 160 pound champion comes from Buffalo, where he works as an artist's model and also models clothes for a designer. He's studying drama and has ambitions to crash Hollywood. Harry won three of the seven New York bouts by knockouts.

Al Wardlow, the colored athlete from Wilberforce university, where he is a junior and stars in track, football, and basketball, will box Smith. Wardlow finished second last year in Chicago's Golden Gloves finals, losing to Milton Shivers. When Shivers could not fight in New York because of a geographical limitation since removed, Wardlow stepped into the championship pairings and won his bout.

Another bout which has the coaches puzzled and reviewing their scouting notes is that between Verne Patterson of Chicago and Jack Tolson of Brooklyn, the Manhattan welterweight champion. Patterson is regarded as one of the best amateur boxers. His speed and punching power have brought him scores of victories. Tolman, however, is just the type of a fighter who might land on Patterson and score a surprising victory.

Chicago holds a 4 to 3 lead in the intercity competition, with two ties in nine years of the fights. There have been 144 bouts in nine years. Chicago holds a lead of 76 bouts to 68. Chicago also holds the record for the most one-sided victory, winning 13 to 3 in 1931 at the Stadium. New York won, 12 to 4, the following year. The greatest rally was registered by Chicago in 1935 when the local team won the last eight bouts to take the series 11 to 5.



Look into YOUR Future---
Will YOU Be Bald?

LOOK at yourself in the mirror now. How does your hair look? Is it getting a little thin at the temples, on the frontal point, or at the crown? Is your scalp covered with dandruff? Is your hair falling? Thin hair, dandruff, scalp itch are danger signals, warning you that baldness is surely on the way—unless you do something immediately to overcome these scalp ills. You surely don't want to see a bald head when you look at yourself in the mirror a few years from now.

What to do about it? Do what a quarter-million other men have done—consult Thomas. Thomas treatment, proved by 17 years of success, ends dandruff, stops falling hair and promotes normal hair growth on thin and bald spots. GAS THEFT TOLD AT INQUIRY INTO TEXAS EXPLOSION

Dangerous Fuel Piped to School Radiators.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Dr. David J. Price.

London, Tex., March 21.—[Special.]—A charge that the London community school, which has been called the richest institution of its kind in the world, was stealing gas from the pipe lines of the Parade Oil company, was made here today by D. L. Clark, field foreman for the oil refining concern.

This astonishing assertion was made when Clark was testifying before the military board of inquiry called to investigate the disaster at the school last Thursday when half the children of this community were killed in a mysterious explosion that razed the school building.

It was some of this gas, residue gas from the Parade company's small refinery here, that is believed to have caused the blast.

Fire Locates Explosion.

Information elicited from witnesses summoned before the board today indicated definitly that the crushing explosion in the school house had its origin in the air space between the floor of the one-story wing of the structure and the ground.

Robert H. Scheer, London resident, and Charles C. Hooks, oil fields steel worker, both of whom aided in the rescue work at the school, told the board members that they had found fire burning in the débris after the crash.

This was information which the experts, who today included Dr. E. P. Schoch, chemistry professor from University of Texas, and Dr. David J. Price, have been seeking. The finding of the fire, they said, definitly places the spot where the explosion occurred.

John Murrell, one time Army football player and all-American full back now an oil engineer, described what he saw after the explosion. He said many bodies were blown into the yard and that most of the victims were blasted out of their shoes. He noticed no burns.

Called for Shutoff.

"When did you learn that the London school had been furnished gas from your residue line?" Capt. Zachariah Coombes, judge advocate of the military court, asked Clark.

"Well, the first thing we knew about it was when a man named Calhoun came up to our plant and told us that Supt. Shaw [W. C. Shaw of the London school] wanted us to cut it off. Calhoun gave the message to me."

"Are you sure the Parade company did not know anything about this connection made by London school?" he was asked.

"I know that I'm in charge of all the pipe lines in this area. Whenever any one is allowed to use our residue gas I am always notified. I never had been notified that the London school had any agreement," was the reply.

Changed to Wet Gas.

During yesterday's hearing before the board, it was brought out that the change from "dry" gas, which had been safely used at the school since 1934, to the "wet" residue gas of the Parade company had been made only one month ago.

Floyd Hunt, a school mechanic, testified that he helped make the connection when the pipe line was laid from the school to the Parade line.

Hunt didn't know who ordered the installation, but Calvin Johnson, a janitor, said E. W. Reagan, chairman of the board, gave the order.

Residue gas is rich in butane, an unstable, highly explosive compound of four parts carbon and 10 parts hydrogen. Because of this fact it is considered too dangerous for home use.

While the board was proceeding with its hearing the last of the funerals were being conducted at a score of cemeteries in and around London.

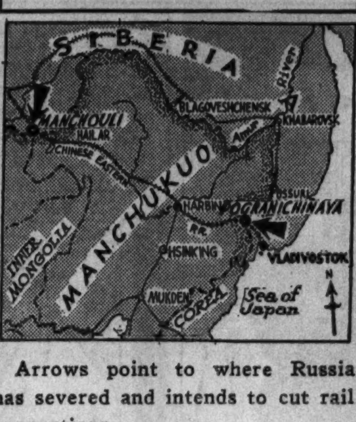
Blow at Manchukuo



Arrows point to where Russia has severed and intends to cut rail connections.

TOKIO, March 21.—(AP)—The newspaper Nichi Nichi in a dispatch from Hsinking, Manchukuo, today reported that soviet Russia intends to suspend all rail trafic between Siberia and Manchukuo.

If this proves true it probably will suspend entirely one of the main highways of world travel, the Trans-Siberian rail route between Europe and the far east.

The soviet railway administration already has severed connections between its Ussuri railway—between Vladivostok and Khabarovsk—and the eastern part of the North Manchuria railway, formerly the Chinese Eastern railway but now operated by Japan's South Manchuria railway as part of the Manchukuo National system.

These two lines formerly connected at Pogranichnaya, on Manchukuo's eastern frontier, and did a flourishing business in carrying Manchuria's produce to salt water at Vladivostok. The connection was broken when the Russians charged Japanese and Manchukuo authorities persecuted their workers at the junction point.

Now, the Nichi Nichi reported, the Russians intend to cut service between the Trans-Siberian railway and the Manchukuo system. These have connected at Manchouli, on the northwestern frontier of Manchukuo, and have permitted a de luxe passenger service between Harbin and Moscow, placing the far east within ten to fourteen days of European capitals.

AUSTRIA BUILDS SPEEDBOAT NAVY TO GUARD DANUBE

VIENNA, March 21.—(AP)—Austria, hemmed in by other nations, is developing a navy strong enough to control, with the aid of an air fleet, the Austrian part of the Danube river.

The naval force consists of new, speedy motorboats, equipped with machine guns and the veteran patrol boat Birago. The slender, businesslike, 30 to 60 feet long motorboats can attain a speed of 20 miles an hour. The primary purpose of the new Austrian navy is to protect free passage on the Danube, which flows for about 217 of its 1,725 miles through Austrian territory.

The smaller, faster, and more easily maneuverable boats are the successors of the Austro-Hungarian empire fleet of twenty heavily armored craft which during the world war defeated Rumanian ships and protected the crossing of Field Marshal von Mackensen from Bulgaria to Rumania at Giurgiu.

BETHLEHEM WILL BARGAIN WITH ANY LABOR BLOC

Says 96% of Workers Favor Own Plan.

New York, March 21.—(AP)—The Bethlehem Steel corporation said today in a statement of policy on collective bargaining that it was willing to bargain in individual plants with any groups for the employés they represent.

The statement said the corporation had been practicing collective bargaining in its plants for twenty years and that negotiations are now going on in some of the 23 plants with labor groups, including the steel workers' organization committee, an affiliate of the Committee for Industrial Organization.

Most of the negotiations, the statement said, have been conducted under the corporation's employés' representation plan, "but we also recognize that minorities and individuals have the right to bargain for themselves or through their representatives."

Favor Own Agency.

Bethlehem's statement was issued a short time after results of the employés' representation plan elections in the corporation's plants were made public, showing that 96.4 per cent of the employés voted to designate the representation plan as their collective bargaining agency.

In the elections, conducted by the rules committee of the representation plan during the last several days, it was announced, 58,365 of the corporation's 60,530 employés cast their ballots in favor of having the representation plan bargain for them.

Statement of Company.

"The management of the units in each district of our operations has had a consistently open policy on collective bargaining," the corporation's statement said, "which may be stated as follows: The management at any of our plants will meet at mutually convenient times with any persons claiming directly or through any organization to be representatives of any of our employés and we will consider with them any matters of interest to our employés which they present to us; that is, we will bargain collectively with them.

"We recognize that collective bargaining must be conducted in a manner satisfactory to our employés. Most of the negotiations have been conducted through their representatives under their plans of employés' representation, as that has been the method designated in most instances by our working forces.

Recognize Minorities.

"But we also recognize that minorities and individuals have the right to bargain for themselves or through their representatives, and we can point to an extended record of negotiation with special groups and individuals representing some of our employés."

Among these groups, the corporation said, included the International Association of Machinists, the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, and the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers.

BUSINESS SHOW GADGET TO TEST PHONE MANNERS

How bad are your telephone manners? At the National Business show, which opens at 1 p. m. today in the Stevens hotel, a special telephone will echo the speaker's words back at him through the receiver so he can find out for himself just what his speech is like.

This is only one of the many new gadgets suitable for business and industry which will be exhibited at the show, from 1 to 10 p. m. daily this week. A psychological test to determine an employer's ability to select a good salesman will vie with paper typewriter ribbons and squeakless swivel chairs.

Semet-Solvay Gets Order for 130 Oven Coke Plant

New York, March 21.—(AP)—Semet-Solvay company, a subsidiary of Allied Chemical and Dye corporation, has received an order from the Great Lakes Steel corporation, of Detroit, for a 130 oven by-product coke plant. It was announced today. The contract calls for installation on Zug Island, on the Detroit river, of two batteries of vertical flue combination ovens. The plant will include a benzol refining unit.

Am. Airlines Has Profit; Loss in 1935

Operations of American Airlines, Inc., during 1936 resulted in a net profit of $4,589 after all charges and expenses, compared with a net loss of $748,370 in 1935 and a deficit of $2,313,678 in 1934, C. R. Smith, president, announced yesterday. A total of 255,324 revenue passengers was carried during the year, the first time that one company has handled a quarter million passengers during any one year, he said.

"Twenty-eight out of each 100 passengers who flew on all domestic airlines used American," Smith continued. "Our trafic was 45 per cent ahead of the 176,005 persons transported in 1935. Air express poundage increased 175 per cent over 1935 and the 3,300,047 pounds of mail carried represented a gain of 58 per cent over the preceding year."

Total Revenues Rise.

Total revenues for 1936 were $8,334,091, against $5,864,537 in 1935 and $3,376,442 in 1934. American Airlines was formed in 1934 as the successor company to American Airways, a change forced by the government's order divorcing operating and manufacturing operations. Operating expenses last year were $6,868,804, against $5,441,002 in 1935 and $4,612,856 in 1934.

Revenue miles flown totaled 14,121,133, compared with 10,902,075 in 1935 and 8,143,362 in 1934. Revenue per mile was 59 cents, against 53.8 cents and 41.5 cents respectively, while expenses per mile totaled 58.9 cents, against 60.7 and 69.9 cents respectively.

Current assets at the close of the year aggregated $2,117,430, including cash of $551,457, compared with current liabilities of $869,562.

Carries Millionth Passenger.

Smith said that during February the company carried its millionth passenger. The rapid progress of aviation, he added, is shown by the fact that it took nine years to carry the first three-quarters million and less than a year to transport the last one-quarter million passengers.

"Last year the company petitioned the interstate commerce commission for increased air mail rates," he asserted, "stating that the existing rates paid were inadequate. In February, 1937, the examiner for the commission recommended that certain rates be increased and that they be made retroactive to March 8, 1936. The earnings figures contained in this report do not include the increases."

Large Sum for Equipment.

The company spent more than a million dollars in maintenance of flying equipment during 1936. At the end of the year it had 1,505 ground employés, or 31 for each passenger airplane operated. The annual pay roll exceeded $3,500,000. More than $3,000,000 was spent for new planes, engines, and equipment, and in excess of 8 million gallons of aviation gasoline were used.

"We look forward to 1937 as the greatest year in the history of air transportation," Smith said. "Improved business conditions and faster and more convenient schedules will bring more business to the air lines. With American Airlines carrying 28 per cent of the passengers flown the company will benefit from this increase in airline business."

The balance will furnish additional working capital.

STOCK MARKET GIVEN SPRING HOUSECLEANING

Large Part of Winter Gains Swept Out.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 21.—Whatever the big reason, the stock market is currently going through something approximating an old fashioned spring house cleaning. Industrial shares sold off more than 6 points on the average last week and the fifty "representative" issues used in compiling THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S index finished the five and one-half trading sessions more than 3 points below their closing level for the preceding week.

Industrial share losses were quite sharp in some instances, a varying group of the more volatile descriptions breaking as much as 3 to 5 points each repeatedly in some of the more hectic selling flurries of the period. Automobile, metal and steel stocks were outstanding targets of the bear sharpshooters, although no division of the list escaped the attack.

Rails Do Better.

Railroad issues bore up a little better than the mill run of the market and utilities showed considerable resistance, particularly in the last two or three sessions of the week, when a much quoted observer had some kind things to say regarding their prospects.

Altogether it was one of the most anxious weeks the market has undergone in some time. As in previous weeks the troubled labor situation was the chief factor on the bearish side of the picture. This was the result of the spreading sitdown strike movement and the increasing seriousness of the so-called Detroit situation, where Chrysler plant strikers carried their stand to the point of defying a court ouster order and later challenging the governor of the state to attempt their ouster by force.

Fear Monetary Inflation.

A new, and to many minds, even more serious development, however, was the officially expressed fears in high administration circles of another period of monetary inflation with its inevitable crash — a repetition of the disastrous cycle of the late '20s hinted at by President Roosevelt in his recent fireside radio address. The threat of higher margins implied in the "warnings" and the attendant nervousness over the slump in government bonds accelerated selling.

Then there was a belief, which long has been growing in the minds of many observers, that the market had so far outrun business recovery that a setback was long overdue and brokers agree that this conviction accounted for no small measure of the general movement to get from under. Indeed, there are those who think that this belief was the chief reason for the selling and that the labor upheaval, the inflation talk and the rest were secondary factors, if not matters almost entitled for qualification as mere excuses, in some instances. Comment among the rank and file of boardroom regulars, however, indicates that each and all of these factors had its influence and that the effect was a cumulative affair.

Trade News Mixed.

Outside of the strike situation, the trade news of the week was rather mixed. Setbacks in metal prices continued to take steam out of the late speculative boom in mining shares and thoughts of a possible paring of mail order house profits in consequence of greatly increased operating expenses acted as a drag on issues of this department of the list.

Steels came in for considerable profit taking on their late boom, although sentiment in their behalf was stimulated somewhat by week-end estimates that operations in the key Pittsburgh district would rise 3 per cent to 93 per cent capacity on the week, a new high since 1929. Talk of an impending C. I. O. drive to unionize the plants of the Bethlehem Steel corporation did not especially affect the shares of this corporation.

Billiard Firm Profit Largest in Eight Years

The Brunswick-Balke-Collender company, Chicago, largest makers in the world of billiard tables and bowling alleys and also producers of bar fixtures and soda fountains, in 1936 had the largest net profit since 1928 and an operating income for the first time since that year.

This was disclosed in the annual report for the year ended Dec. 31, 1936, issued last night by R. F. Bensinger, president of the company, which showed net income of $770,825, against $49,058 in 1935. Earnings for 1936 were equal to $1.32 a share on the 450,000 shares of common stock after preferred dividends, and compared with $1.27 a share on the preferred and a deficit of 33 cents a share on the common in 1935.

Reports Operating Profit.

Profit from ordinary operations in 1936 amounted to $678,773, compared with a loss of $51,188 in 1935. The company realized a profit of $347,441 in 1936 from the sale of marketable securities. In 1935 the company had a corresponding profit of $107,682.

"Net sales for 1936 after deductions for federal excise as well as sales taxes totaled $8,792,773, compared with $6,059,074 in the preceding year, an increase of 45 per cent," Bensinger reported. "Our sales showed a gratifying increase, both in the domestic and export fields. The sales organization was increased and strengthened during the year, and it is planned to intensify our selling efforts. Sales for January and February of 1937 indicate the continuation of the upward trend of your company's business."

Inventories Are Increased.

Inventories were increased during the year, he said, due to the anticipation by directors of the rise in commodity prices, and raw materials were purchased at favorable prices as compared with the present market.

No dividends were paid on the common stock, Bensinger said, because of the board's desire to establish an earned surplus before declaring a common dividend. This was accomplished without provision for surtax on undistributed profits because of offsetting deductions. The company had an earned surplus of $487,219 at the close of the year, against a deficit of $109,762 at the beginning of 1936.

Get Along, Little Dogie.

Just as the underworld has a jargon all its own, unintelligible to outsiders, so have live stock men a trade language which is Greek to the layman. When the nation a year or so ago sang "Get along, little dogie," from the "Last Roundup," most people thought they were urging a stubborn mongrel to "scram." Not so. They were telling an ill bred southern cow to be on its way. They might just as well have sung "Get along, little yellowhammer," or "little dog" or "little scrub," somewhat less poetic but meaning the same thing. Here are some others:

Counterfeits—Cattle of good color which give an impression of good breeding that they do not possess.

Bow-wow—A small stunted old steer not suited for either beef or feeder purposes. That is, they are worthless for processing into beef and offer no possibilities of being returned to the farm for feeding and subsequent building up. Bow-wows are also known as tripe, canner yearlings or knotheads.

Bums—Pigs of inferior quality or extremely lightweight hogs in an emaciated condition. Also known as peewees. This latter phrase is usually applied to small stunted lambs.

Bloom—Used to indicate the high point of the market. Sometimes descriptive of cattle which have been fed too long and which have lost some of their "bloom" or finished appearance.

Classy—Stock of exceptional quality or breeding.

Tomorrow: More Trade Slang.

Road Asks Stockholders to Approve Debt Increase

Stockholders of the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, and St. Louis railroad, controled by the Pennsylvania railroad, will be asked to approve an increase of $25,000,000 in indebtedness above the amount now authorized, it was announced recently. The meeting will be held at Philadelphia, Pa., April 28.

EDISON INCOME GAINS SHARPLY OVER YEAR AGO

The Commonwealth Edison company announced last night that net income rose sharply in February and the first two months of 1937 as compared with last year.

Net income for February at $1,428,213, compared with $962,196 in February, 1936. Gross operating revenues were $7,344,176, against $7,060,450. In the first two months of the year net income amounted to $3,230,604, against $2,040,410 a year earlier, while operating revenues were $15,097,077, against $14,569,757.

In the first two months of 1937 kilowatt hour sales to residential customers increased 8.3 per cent, while revenues from such sales were 1.2 per cent less, the company said, because of the recent rate reduction.

The rise in net income was due to an increase of $220,800 in income from investments, nullification of the 3 per cent utility sales tax, which would have cost $298,000, capitalization of indirect costs of $472,000 for construction, and a decrease of $226,500 in the cost of power bought.

Chicago Bond Firms Devise Arkansas Plan

Chicago investment houses will play a leading part in refinancing the $150,000,000 highway debt of Arkansas under a contract signed by Gov. Carl E. Bailey with Stifel, Nicolaus & Co., and A. C. Allyn & Co., it was disclosed last night. Joseph D. Murphy, vice president in charge of the Chicago office of Stifel, Nicolaus & Co., who worked out the details of the financial operation with Gov. Bailey and the state's board of finance, said signing of the contract is evidence of Chicago's prestige as the financial center of the middle west.

Experience of the two investment houses in handling the $61,000,000 refinancing program last year of Cook county and the Forest Preserve district of Cook county was used in working out the plan for Arkansas, Murphy said.

Will Form Syndicate.

A syndicate is to be formed by the two investment houses to purchase bonds at lower rates than the present highway and toll bridge bonds bear. Proceeds from the sale of the new bonds will be used to buy outstanding bonds at par at any interest-paying date. The new bonds may be exchanged for the outstanding bonds.

The contract provides that the investment houses must sell the new bonds at a premium before they can receive more than $50,000 for handling the refunding. It also provides that the investment houses may receive as compensation one-half of 1 per cent of the par value of the bonds sold, provided they are sold at a premium and at interest rates of 3½ per cent or less. For handling the sale and exchange of 3 per cent road district bonds and 3½ per cent highway and toll bridge B bonds, issued in 1934 to pay defaulted interest, they would receive ⅛ of 1 per cent.

Must Be Completed by 1938.

The contract also provides that the refinancing must be completed before May 1, 1938, and that if it becomes possible to sell to the Reconstruction Finance corporation or other federal agency bonds with which to call and pay off the outstanding bonds at maturity the agreement is to be canceled without cost to the state.

Of the maturities for which provision must be made under the refinancing plan, approximately $45,000,000 of road district refunding bonds become due on Jan. 1, 1949.

FIRST QUARTER STEEL OUTPUT MAY SET RECORD

Rate Rises to 89 Pct. of Capacity.

Steel production during the first three months of this year is likely to set an all-time first quarter record if the present rate is maintained, the magazine Steel predicted yesterday. March production is expected to exceed 5,000,000 tons, which would raise the total for the quarter to 14,264,000 tons or more.

This would exceed the output of the first quarter of 1929, and would fall short of the production of the second quarter of 1929, the highest quarterly record of all time, by only 875,000 tons.

Steel production last week was at 89 per cent of present capacity, an increase of 2 points over the preceding week.

Production by Districts.

Pittsburgh added 2 points, reaching 91 per cent. Detroit was up 5 points to 100 per cent; Cincinnati, up 4 points to 72; Cleveland, up 4 points to 82; Wheeling, up 1 point to 97; Birmingham, up 3 points to 89, and eastern Pennsylvania, up ½ point to 58 per cent.

There was no change at Chicago, at 82½ per cent; Youngstown at 85, New England at 97, and St. Louis at 82 per cent. Buffalo was the only steel center which declined, losing 3 points to 80 per cent.

Pig Iron Exports Difficult.

Brokers who accepted orders some weeks ago for 100,000 tons of pig iron for Japan were having difficulty placing the orders last week. It was reported that Valley furnaces had refused an offer of 25,000 tons of these orders. Great Britain was offering $1 above the market for 50,000 tons, making the offered price $25 a ton.

Further advances of prices of steel making scrap raised Steel's scrap composite price 25 cents to $21.17. The rise in scrap also advanced the iron and steel composite 11 cents to $40.10. The finished steel composite price remained unchanged at $60.70.

WORLD INDUSTRY IS LESS ACTIVE DURING JANUARY

But Arms Race Serves to Bolster Output.

A slight recession was registered in world industrial production during January, the National Industrial Conference Board announced yesterday. Declines were recorded in the United States, Great Britain, Canada, Germany, and a number of South American countries, the agency said. Small gains occurred in France, Austria and the Netherlands.

"Despite the slight decline in Great Britain during the month," the statement asserted, "business activity is still being maintained at a high rate, especially in industries affected by the extensive rearmament program.

Metal Trades at Capacity.

"The metal trades are now working at capacity and are having difficulty in expanding output sufficiently to meet new demands. Building activity is substantially higher than a year ago, with non-residential construction, resulting partly from rearmament, taking the lead."

In France the board's study found that government purchasing has contributed to the support of heavy industry, and buying in anticipation of higher prices is in evidence.

"Exports have benefited only slightly from devaluation, as the rapid rise in the internal price level has canceled much of the advantage that might otherwise be traceable to rising world prices," the survey continued.

Foods, Materials Rise.

"World prices of foodstuffs and raw materials during January advanced for the third consecutive month, bringing the combined index of nine internationally traded commodities to 86.5 per cent of the 1928 average. Largest gains occurred in copper, rubber, tea, silk and sugar.

"International trade, as measured by the combined indices of the gold value and the volume of world trade in 75 countries, reached new high points for the recovery period during December. The index of world trade volume now stands at 90.3 per cent of the 1929 average and the value index of 42.5 per cent."

Gabriel Company.

Investors' Guide: Please send me some information about Gabriel company.—R. H. T.

Answer: The Gabriel company, formerly Gabriel Snubber Manufacturing company, took its present name in 1930 because snubbers had become obsolescent and operations were shifted to development and manufacture of a new type of shock absorber for automobiles. The company never has been able to regain the position of leadership it held as a snubber manufacturer.

Losses have been sustained for the last eight years, the most recent profit being $327,976, or $1.64 a share, in 1928. In the succeeding five years losses were as follows: $401,000, $98,000, $378,000, $108,000, and $131,000.

The company has not been able to cash in on the revival of the automobile industry in the last three years, but was operating on a profitable basis in February, according to a letter to stockholders.

Sales rose from $507,000 in 1933 to $683,000 in 1934, but a loss of $50,000 on sale of property sent loss up to $141,000. Sales were only $409,000 in 1935, but loss was cut to $113,000. Sales were $430,000 and loss was further cut to $77,000 in 1936.

Despite the loss, working capital was increased from $41,000 to $65,000 in 1936 through sale of additional stock. When the recapitalization is completed there will be 300,000 shares of class A instead of 198,000 shares of A and 2,000 shares of B stock. The B was exchanged for 40,000 A shares, and warants were given to A stockholders to purchase one additional share for each ten shares held. Set aside for public offering were 20,000 shares, and 22,200 shares are under purchase options to net the company not less than $4 a share.

Funds from sale of stock are for working capital and introduction of a new line of direct action telescopic shock absorbers developed in the last two years. Production is possible in large volume with small added plant investment, and this type of absorber is favored by many automobile manufacturers, it was said. Production of the present "lever and link" absorber is limited by more complex manufacturing requirements and is at capacity, it was reported in February. The new type absorber is expected to be in production by April 1, the company said.

The stock is a speculation. No dividends have been paid since 1927.

FOREIGNERS PUT 'HOT' MONEY IN WHEAT MARKET

Chicago Prices Boosted by Alien Buying.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The Chicago wheat market is attracting its share of "hot money" from abroad, according to brokers. Extensive buying of wheat for future delivery by foreigners has helped to boost market values in the last week, it is asserted.

Foreigners are acutely aware of the importance to the world's bread supply of the 1937 American wheat crop. Not since the days when the United States was one of the principal suppliers of wheat in the world market has the American crop been such a vital factor in the world market.

It is hoped that the United States may harvest a winter wheat crop at midyear which will be large enough to bridge the gap until other crops are ready for market. Supplies in the world market are being rapidly depleted.

Hedge Against Crop Failure.

The reported purchases suggest that foreigners may be hedging against a possible crop failure in this country which, it is believed, would cause a further price upturn in the world market.

It is still uncertain whether the the United States will have any wheat to spare for export. On the basis of acreage the winter crop is the largest on record, but the present condition does not indicate a bumper return. However, a fair return on the planted acreage would give a margin of supplies which might be safely exported.

For this reason the progress of the crop will be watched throughout the world and will be a vital price making factor during the coming months.

Foreign Buying Speculative.

It is believed that a large share of the foreign funds that have come into the market has been speculative money of the type that has been attracted by the American securities markets. This influx of foreign speculative capital has been a source of anxiety to the Washington authorities, who believe that its sudden withdrawal might deliver a shock to domestic recovery.

The department of agriculture report on prospective spring wheat acreage was not of immediate market influence. The government estimated that farmers will sow 20,918,000 acres of spring wheat. The figure was deliberately shaded by the government statisticians to give effect to "normal" abandonment during the growing season.

Wheat prices recorded gains of 4⅛ to 6½ cents a bushel in Chicago last week. The largest advances were made by the future contracts based on the 1937 crop.

TWO CANADIAN FIRMS ANNOUNCE NEWSPRINT RAISE

MONTREAL, Que., March 21.—[Special.]—Following the lead of the International and Consolidated Paper companies in raising prices, the Donnaconna paper company and Mersey paper company announced today that their newsprint contract price for the first half of 1938 would be $50 per ton.

"Mersey is always governed by the market price in New York," C. H. L. James, president of Mersey, said. "The announcement of a price increase by such large companies as International and Consolidated must make a market price."

R. P. Kernan, president of Donnaconna, said: "Undoubtedly we will adhere to our custom of following prices established by large producers. Apparently fifty dollars is the price named by large producers, including International and Consolidated."

TRAILER NOMADS MAY FIND TAXES TRAVEL FASTER

States Impose Levies and Draft Regulations.

America's army of trailer dwellers whose rolling bungalows generally have kept them a few miles ahead of the tax collector soon may find themselves taxed and regulated just as any other householder. This was indicated yesterday by a study by the American Automobile association of trailer legislation pending in a dozen states.

The trend is toward special licenses for house trailers, imposition of taxes, compulsory sanitary and safety equipment, and strict regulation of house trailer camps the study showed.

Despite proposals of taxes ranging from $5 to $30, the association found the tendency appears to be to combine reasonable taxation with regulatory measures.

Set Up Trailer "Dictator."

In several states a sort of trailer "dictator" has been proposed. In Indiana trailer authority would be composed of one member of the public service commission, one member of the state highway commission, the state director of safety, the commissicner of vehicles, and the secretary of the state board of health. These officers would compose a board which would review matters pertaining to the trailer industry according to a measure proposed in their state.

Dictatorial power over trailer affairs in Connecticut would rest with the motor vehicle commissioner.

Aside from revenue possibilities in taxing trailers, regulations in most states are drawn to cover lights, brakes, couplers, sanitary requirements, markings, flags, flares, fire extinguishers, mirrors, and other safety devices and equipment the AAA found.

Manufacturers Sponsor Measures.

Trailer manufacturers were found in some states to be sponsoring measures which would provide reasonable taxation and adequate safety devices, while hotel interests have sponsored trailer camp regulation measures which would set up strict sanitary requirements.

The AAA believes that out of the conflicting interests of various groups concerned with the industry will come considerable uniformity in legislation in the course of time.

Recent estimates place the number of persons dwelling in trailers at more than 750,000, while the number of trailers increased from 100,000 in 1935 to 300,000 in 1936.

MANUFACTURERS ASK COMMERCE BUREAU TO GIVE AID TO INDUSTRY

Appealing for aggressive and definite leadership on the part of the United States department of commerce in fostering and promoting the welfare of the manufacturing industry, the Illinois Manufacturers' association yesterday declared that the department should naturally follow the lead that the labor department has demonstrated in the interest of labor.

The association's statement, in the form of a resolution which will be presented to the United States Chamber of Commerce at its convention in Washington on April 26, asks the chamber to use its best efforts to bring about the support of industry and business for which it is organized.

"It is generally believed that the department of commerce is primarily a statistical and fact-finding body insofar as its relation to manufacturing industry is concerned," the resolution went on, "but the association contends that the department of commerce has statutory authority to assume a position of definite leadership in an effort 'to foster, promote, and develop' manufacturing industries."

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Outdoor Work Soon.

March 21, 1937.

SIGNS of spring are beginning to be evident at the Tribune farms. Yesterday workers at the Yorkville farm were getting ready to start work in the open fields as soon as the ground is dry enough. There still is a thick layer of frost in the ground, which still is frozen to a depth of about 16 to 18 inches in shaded spots or under heavy coverings of grass along fence rows. Out in the unprotected fields the frost layer is from 10 to 12 inches thick.

With favorable weather men at the Yorkville place expect to start sowing spring wheat soon. They do not plan to wait until all the frost is out of the ground. Last week most of the pools of water in the fields had disappeared. On the ridges and knolls the soil has been drying out rapidly, and in a few places, particularly on the high thin spots, the surface is fairly dry.

Machinery Repaired

Last Friday workers pulled grain drills out into the feedway, greased all wearing parts and dusted out the hoppers ready for use on short notice. Tractors were given their final inspection. During the winter the tractors were overhauled, cleaned and put in shape. Recently they were oiled, greased and the gasoline tanks filled, so they are now ready for field work.

On sunny days the hogs are beginning to stretch out full length in outdoor pens for their midday naps. The sun has been so warm that the sheep, covered with their thick winter fleeces, have gone inside or stuck their noses in the shade around the outside of the buildings.

The last count showed 264 lambs on the two farms. At the Wheaton farm 145 ewes have produced 212 lambs and lost one. The six ewes have saved 204 lambs. There are 27 grades yet to lamb. Only six of the pure bred Southdown Canadian ewes have lambed. They have saved eight lambs, and lost one. The six ewes produced three sets of twins. There are 67 ewes in the pure bred flock.

Forty-one ewes have produced 52 lambs in the grade flock on the Yorkville farm. There are nine ewes yet to lamb.

Lambs Stronger

On the Wheaton farm only five lambs have been lost out of those that were strong enough to nurse. The flockmaster says this year's lambs are the strongest and also the most uniform he has ever handled. There are two black lambs in the grade flock.

It will be several weeks before any of the sheep are sheared. Flockmasters at both places prefer to wait until the weather is warm enough to bring the grease out on the wool before the fleeces are clipped.

RAILWAY PENSION TANGLE MAY GO TO PRESIDENT

Treasury Objections Will Be Discussed.

Washington, D. C., March 21.—(AP)—Informed officials said today that President Roosevelt may step in to iron out differences between the treasury and railroad interests over a projected new rail pension system.

The plan, adopted voluntarily by rail management and labor at Mr. Roosevelt's request, was challenged by the treasury on the ground that its taxes on employers and employés were too low to meet pension outlays. If income failed to level up with outgo, officials said, the difference would come out of general government funds.

Under the plan, taxes starting at 2.5 per cent on both employers' payrolls and employés' wages would increase gradually to 3.5 per cent on each in 1949. The management-labor understanding provides that both would back the plan in congress. It would supersede the 1935 retirement legislation now under court attack by the roads.

Will Confer This Week.

Treasury and railroad retirement board officials plan to meet this week to go over treasury objections to the taxing provisions.

Treasury officials indicated they would insist on the full 3.5 per cent tax of the present act. Chairman Murray W. Latimer of the retirement board said treasury suggestions would be carefully studied in an effort to compose some plan agreeable to all.

Latimer and other retirement board members previously had approved the graduated levy starting at 2.5 per cent, however, and management and labor representatives have said this tax "will carry the load."

President May Choose.

Unless the conference brings about an understanding, officials said, the President probably will choose between the two tax rates.

Explaining the treasury stand, authorities said it could approve no program calling for expenditures in excess of those provided in Mr. Roosevelt's budget.

"Pending instructions to the contrary from the President," one spokesman said, "we must be sure that adequate revenues are provided to meet any expenditures added onto the budget."

FARMER BOY MAKES GOOD.

I was out in South Dakota, and Chicago was just a big town to me, but the fact that I couldn't make any money on the farm forced me to come to the city. When I got here I had no friends and no job, but found a job through an ad, and wouldn't trade that job today for the best field of wheat in South Dakota. I averaged percentages of $300 a month during 1936. This electrical unit company now has three openings, and any person who wants to work can have the same success that I have had. If you are interested come to Room 250 at 3 W. Madison-st., Oak Park, Southwest corner Austin and Madison, at 1[illegible]30 a. m., today, March 22.

WE ARE READY FOR A GOOD MAN.
WHO IS READY FOR US.

I want a high grade man who lives on the North Side and has had five years business experience or has been a printer, mechanic or in some trade for at least five years. Of good character, willing to work. Able to meet people courteously. I want no money from him, but will put him in business. If we get together he will soon be drawing down big commission checks from this strong, progressive electric company. If you are in earnest call at 10 A. M. or 2 P. M. Monday, March 22nd, second floor, 3703 Irving Park-Blvd. Mr. Wright will see you.

FUTURE Sales MANAGERS.

$2,000.00 to $5,000.00 a year should appeal to many young men with families who have car and can qualify as to—
1. Honesty and good morals.
2. Courtesy to the public.
3. Intelligence.
4. A liking for work and for people.

We have hundreds of such men now throughout the country, some of them being second and third generation employes. If you are interested in a future, you need never seek another position if you are the right sort.

LEGAL NOTICES.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK. In the Matter of Warner-Quinlan Company, Debtor. In proceedings for the Reorganization of a Corporation, No. 63,345. To the Creditors and Stockholders of Warner-Quinlan Company and to all other persons interested:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a hearing will be held in Room 318 of the United States Courthouse, Foley Square, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 7th day of April, 1937 at 11:00 o'clock A. M., for the proposal, consideration and confirmation of the Amended Plan of Reorganization of the Debtor dated March 10th, 1937. At said hearing, the Court will consider the classification of creditors and stockholders of the Debtor according to their respective claims and interests and will transact such other business as may properly come before the hearing. The proposed classification of creditors and stockholders for the purposes of the Amended Plan and its acceptance is as follows:

Class 1—UNSECURED CREDITORS. This shall include holders of Warner-Quinlan Company Debentures, Cities Service Company and all of its subsidiaries and affiliates to the extent that they are unsecured, holders of unsecured miscellaneous and trade claims, including Notes Payable, subsidiaries of the Debtor, landlords of the Debtor, the holders of the Preferred stock of Lancaster Asphalt, Inc., and any and all other creditors whose claims are finally allowed not otherwise specifically classified.

Class 2—CITIES SERVICE COMPANY—as holder of claim secured by notes of subsidiaries of the Debtor.

Class 3 — HOLDERS OF MORTGAGE CLAIMS. Holders of mortgages on property of the Debtor and holders of mortgages on property of subsidiaries of the Debtor guaranteed by the Debtor.

Class 4—HOLDERS OF JUDGMENT LIEN. The Swan-Finch Oil Company and Standard Oil Company of New Jersey or any other beneficial owner of the claim filed by them.

Class 5—HOLDERS OF MISCELLANEOUS SECURED AND PRIORITY CLAIMS. [Exclusive of Cities Service Company, its subsidiaries and affiliates.]

Class 6—HOLDERS OF MISCELLANEOUS TAX CLAIMS.

Class 7—HOLDERS OF COMMON STOCK OF THE DEBTOR.

The Court will be asked to find that Classes 3, 4, 5 and 6 inclusive are not affected by the Plan.

A copy of the said Amended Plan may be secured upon written request by a creditor or a stockholder from Warner-Quinlan Company or from the attorneys for the Debtor.

Any creditor, stockholder, or other party in interest who shall desire to object to the said Amended Plan for any reason whatsoever, shall file with the Clerk of this Court and serve upon the attorneys for the Debtor, on or before April 5, 1937, a statement in writing showing the nature of the objections that will be urged and the grounds therefor, together with the names and addresses of the objectors and the nature and amount of the interest held by them. In default of such service and filing, the Court, in its discretion, may decline to entertain such objections.

The said hearing may be adjourned from time to time without notice to the Debtor, the creditors or the stockholders other than the announcement of the adjourned date at the hearing or at any adjournments thereof.

If the said Amended Plan is not changed or modified, it may be confirmed at the hearing or at any adjournment thereof without further notice to the Debtor, creditors or stockholders.

This notice is given pursuant to order of Hon. Murray Hulbert, United States District Judge, dated March 17, 1937.

CHICAGO'S BEST DRESSED CITIZENS

BEST DRESSED WOMAN

BEST DRESSED MAN

Mrs. Howard Linn was selected the city's best dressed woman in a list announced yesterday by the State street council. Here she is wearing riding clothes, which were mentioned by one expert who said she "wears everything well."

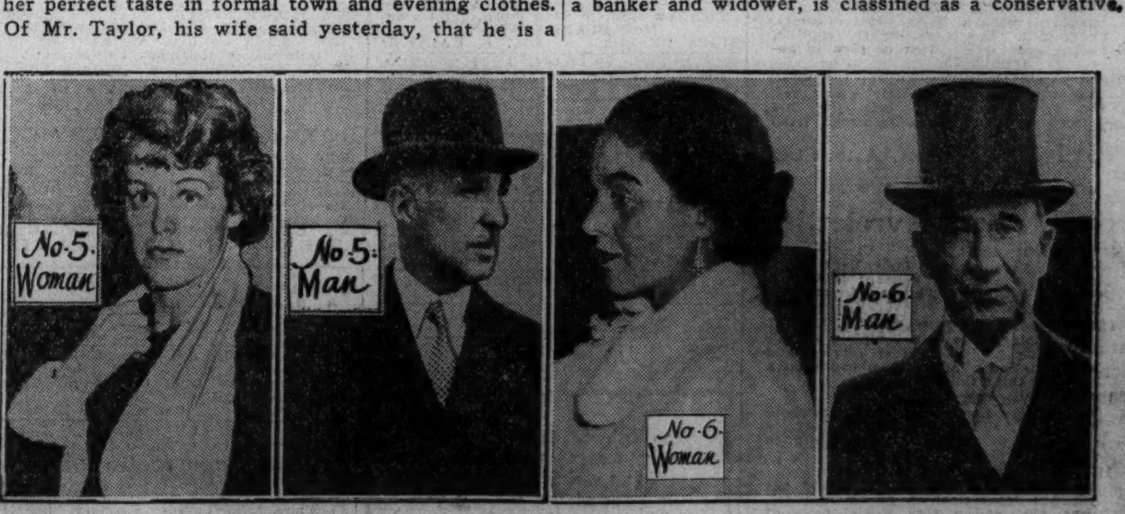
The men's division in the list of the best dressed was headed by I. Newton Perry, broker and bon vivant. He is an addict of the cutaway and often wears a top hat in the debonair fashion illustrated. Mr. Perry and Mrs. Linn received ten votes each.

"She never looks like any one else." So the fashion and society writers who drew up the list said of Mrs. John R. Winterbotham (above). She is noted for her individuality in dress. Tall and handsome, here she is wearing a brown taffeta jacket over a white satin evening gown. Mrs. Winterbotham ranked second.

Charles F. Glore, La Salle street broker, was right behind Mr. Perry in the men's list. He is considered a conservative in dress, like so many well dressed men.

No. 3 Woman
No. 3 Man
No. 4 Woman
No. 4 Man

Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed (left), Orville J. Taylor, Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, and Frank McNair were next in order. Mrs. Goodspeed is known for her perfect taste in formal town and evening clothes. Of Mr. Taylor, his wife said yesterday, that he is a conservative dresser, but admitted he "looks awfully well in his clothes." Mrs. Wolf, a tall brunette, dresses simply but always in good taste. Mr. McNair, a banker and widower, is classified as a conservative.



The way they wear clothes which brought them recognition is illustrated here by Mrs. Walter Paepcke (left), Fletcher Durbin, Mrs. A. Watson Armour III., and Robert Carr Sr. Mrs. Paepcke is a slender blonde. Mr. Durbin was another who confessed to conservatism when told of his selection. He likes town clothes with bright ties. Mrs. Armour is a brunette of medium height who was cited for wearing variety in her clothes. Mr. Carr is shown in a top hat which he wears frequently and always in just the right way.
